Ford to Take Spectacular Steps in Row With Johnson

Associates Predict Start of Vigorous Drive to "Go It Alone."

Showdown Is Due First of Next Week

Magnate Shows No Sign of Changing Stand Against Code.

Detroit, Sept. 1 (AP).—Indications tonight were that Henry Ford is planning a sudden, vigorous offensive in his controversy with the National Recovery Administration, but just what he intends to do his associates profess not to know.

Out of a welter of rumors has come one principal belief—fostered by associates who will not permit the use of their names—that Ford will not sign the NRA automotive code, but will launch out in a spectacular "go it alone" plan, which may include the public presentation of his own business "code."

It may include a return to the famous $5 a day minimum wage, abandoned several months ago. But, one associate declared today, it will not include a plan for sharing profits with employes, as has been widely rumored.

By next Tuesday—the day the automobile code becomes effective—it was indicated, Ford will be back from his vacation in the north woods of Michigan. While there he has refused any comment on the NRA. Edsel Ford, vacationing at Seal Harbor, Me., also will have returned here, and several other Ford officials will be back. President Roosevelt, who recently asked from Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, a report on Ford's refusal to sign the code, will have returned to Washington.

Company officials point out that the Ford Motor Co. pays better than the minimum wage demanded in the NRA automotive code, and that the employes work an eight-hour, five-day week. The NRA code demands a 43-cent-an-hour minimum wage and 35 hours a week, while the present Ford rate is 50 cents an hour. A 25 per cent increase in salary, Ford associates point out, would place the company back on the $5 a day wage.

Ford Silence Persists.

Marquette, Mich., Sept. 1 (U.P.).—Henry Ford remained in seclusion at the exclusive Huron Mountain Club today as the deadline drew near for any action he might take toward signing an NRA agreement.

Pinchot Bans Fords.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 1 (AP).—Gov. Pinchot today said that Pennsylvania will not buy Ford products unless manufactured under the Blue Eagle.

His statement:

"I gave orders weeks ago that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania would buy nothing not manufactured under the Blue Eagle. That goes for Mr. Ford."

Cleaner Arrested For NRA Violation

Atlantic City Man Charged Under State Law With Deceiving Public.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 1 (AP).—For alleged violation of the NRA agreement Sam Ostrofsky, 52, operator of a cleaning and dyeing establishment, was arrested by county detectives today.

Under State law it is a misdemeanor for any one to place before the public in newspapers, pamphlets, or posters misleading information. It was charged that in displaying the Blue Eagle Ostrofsky was misleading the public and not living up to the President's agreement.

He was charged with reducing the salary of a girl from $10 to $5 a week and 10 per cent commission and held in $2,500 bail for hearing Wednesday.

Maine Plans Boycott Of NRA "Slackers"

Augusta, Me., Sept. 1 (AP).—Gov. Louis J. Brann said today the State of Maine "does not propose to buy anything from companies that have not signed NRA codes."

As for the State itself adopting a code, as some States have done, he said, "it would be possible were it not for our institutions. We can't seem to find a plan for institutional employes."

Norman Starts Home After Vacation in U. S.

New York, Sept. 1 (AP).—Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, sailed for home today after a vacation in the United States which included a social call on President Roosevelt at Hyde Park.

American bankers have insisted Norman discussed no special financial questions.

Court Interrupter Silenced by Judge; Jailed in Fairfax

Tobias Javins, of Cameron Valley, Fairfax County, won't interrupt Judge Paul E. Brown's trial court hearing any more.

Judge Brown was investigating destruction of windows in Lee Jackson School by youths. Javins persisted in interrupting proceedings and finally told a witness not to answer.

Judge Brown sent him to jail until the hearing is over.

U. S. Receivers Promise War In Bank Suits

Term Government "One Champion of Depositor;" Couzens Assailed.

Detroit, Sept. 1 (AP).—Federal receivers for Detroit's two closed National banks today took the offensive in assessment suits against eight directors.

Simultaneously three other directors defended their institutions against charges brought by Senator James Couzens before Judge Harry Keidan, the one-man grand jury.

Plenty of Action Pledged.

The assessment suits were based on 10 shares of stock in the First National-Detroit and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce, held by each director, as "qualifying shares." Most of the stock of the two banks was held by the Detroit Bankers Co. and Guardian-Detroit Union Group, Inc.

Receivers in a joint statement promised "plenty of action" and declared "the one champion of the depositor is the Government."

The statement came while bankers again were telling Judge Keidan that failure of the Government to furnish aid through the R. F. C. and severity of bank examiners caused the collapse here.

Witness Blames Couzens.

Witnesses today were Wilson W. Mills, former chairman of the First National Bank-Detroit; Emory W. Clark, and Frederick M. Alger, former directors.

Clark blamed Couzens directly for failure of the two banks.

The four First National directors named in the assessment suits are James T. McMillan, George H. Barbour, James O. Murfin and Truman H. Newberry. The four Guardian directors being sued are Dr. Fred T. Murphy, George H. Klein, Phelps Newberry and C. B. Tuttle.

Texas Repeal Margin Boosted to 119,573

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 1 (AP).—The Texas election bureau, tabulating the latest returns from last Saturday's election, reported today that repeal of the eighteenth amendment carried by a majority of 119,573 votes and legalization of 3.2 per cent beer by 132,623 votes.

Tabulations from 246 out of 254 counties, 75 complete, gave for repeal, 292,012; against repeal, 172,439; for the beer amendment, 295,005; against it 162,382. The bureau estimated that the outstanding vote was around 36,000.

Tazewell Republican Seeks Delegate Seat

Tazewell, Va., Sept. 1 (AP).—J. Newton Harmon, Republican, today forwarded to the secretary of the Commonwealth his declaration of candidacy for election to the House of Delegates from Tazewell County in November.

He said his candidacy was prompted by his prohibition views and that the principal plank in his platform to be announced in a few days is opposition to repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Kidnaped Beauty Operator Returns

Father Asserts Canadian Woman Was Prisoner Near Akron, Ohio.

Windsor, Ontario, Sept. 1 (AP).—Arthur LeClerc, former detective, came back home today with his daughter, Gladys LeClerc, 27, who, he said, had been found in a house 17 miles from Akron, Ohio, after having been held prisoner by kidnapers since June 23.

Miss LeClerc is a Windsor beauty parlor operator. Her father said he had traced her through a letter received from Indianapolis. No demand for ransom was made LeClerc said.

LeClerc, former Montreal detective, said his daughter was overpowered, and presumably chloroformed, by two men as she was leaving her beauty parlor. Her captors moved her several times, he explained.

Akron, Ohio, Sept. 1 (AP).—Akron and Summit County police said they had no reports from any source today about the kidnaping of Gladys LeClerc.

7-Story Death Leap Of Youth Held Accident

Chicago, Sept. 1 (AP).—A verdict of accidental death was returned today by a coroner's jury investigating the plunge from a seventh-floor hotel room of William Martin, 20, son of a La Crosse, Wis., clothing manufacturer.

6 Die in Cuba As Gale Hits; U. S. in Path

100-Mile Wind Injures 60 in Havana; Five Looters Killed.

Interior Is Struck Hard; Troops Guard Stores; Ships Aground.

Havana, Cuba, Sept. 1 (U.P.).—Cuba was swept by a terrific hurricane tonight that spread destruction in its path.

Six persons were reported killed and an undetermined number injured at Camaguey, where many houses were blown down.

Five looters of storm-damaged property in Havana were shot and killed by soldiers, Lieut. Garcia, officer of the day at Havana military headquarters, said.

The storm struck Havana this evening. The sea, whipped before a gale that blasted a clean path through flimsy shanties in coastal villages, swept over the low beaches and threatened to flood the capital in a tidal wave.

The wind roared over Havana at 100 miles an hour. Streets were deserted.

Casualties were 60 persons injured, seven seriously, but no deaths reported.

Troops aided the police in patrolling the downtown section of the capital, where scores of broken windows left shops wide open.

Relief committees commandeered trucks and motor cars to pick up the injured. The Red Cross was called on for aid, and Boy Scouts helped in clearing streets and giving first aid.

Gale on Way to U. S.

The tropical storm which lashed Havana now is northwest of the Cuban coast, the Weather Bureau advised last night, cautioning all vessels in the disturbance path. In spots near the center winds have reached hurricane force. The storm is moving west-northwest toward Southern United States at 15 miles an hour, the bureau said.

Another storm later was reported centered about 200 miles east-southeast of Turks Island and moving west-northwestward.

Four Ships Aground.

Palm Beach, Fla., Sept. 1 (AP).—Four ships were reported aground, a fifth struck by one of the four, and a sixth as unreported in messages intercepted by the local station of the Radiomarine Corporation of America tonight from the hurricane area near Cuba.

De Valera Foes Ask His Ouster

Three Parties Merged to Keep Ireland Member of British Family.

Dublin, Sept. 1 (U.P.).—Aiming to eject President Eamon de Valera, a new opposition party called the United Irish Organization was formed tonight, headed by Gen. Owen O'Duffy, former chief of the outlawed semi-Fascist Blue Shirts.

Simultaneously, the Cumann na Gaedheal Party, formed 10 years ago by former President William Cosgrave, and the National Center party, were dissolved to join the new opposition in a united front.

It is underrstood the constitution of the new party will include a clause that tne Irish Free State is to remain a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations. The move was regarded as one of the most significant political developments in Ireland since the De Valera party decided in 1927 to recognize the establishment of the Irish Free State.

Reich Acts to Aid Jewish Emigration

Berlin, Sept. 1 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—The ministry of economy today published the text of the decree for the transfer of Jewish property to Palestine.

The decree stated the agreement was concluded with the "concerned Jewish bodies" to aid the emigration of German Jews to Palestine through allotting the necessary sums and also to increase German exports to Palestine.

4 Killed, 10 Injured In Train's Derailment

Zanesville, Ohio, Sept. 1 (AP).—Four men were killed and ten injured, three seriously, tonight in derailment of 15 coal cars on an eastbound Baltimore and Ohio train, 14 miles west of Zanesville.

A broken axle on one of the cars was believed to have caused the accident. Apparently all of the victims were transients.

12 Drown When Washed Into Sea by Big Floods

Mexico City, Sept. 1 (AP).—Twelve persons, most of them women or children, drowned today when they were washed into the sea by floods at the mouth of the River Atoyac, dispatches received here from Vera Cruz said.

New Defenses Block Invasion, Paris Informed

But German Confidence and U. S. Arms Stand Worry France.

Paris, Sept. 1 (AP).—Premier Daladier assured his cabinet today that France's new line of steel and concrete defense works, stretching 125 miles along the German border, is adequate to block invasion.

The American attitude toward disarmament at Geneva in face of Hitlerite activities along the border is worrying the government, which is tightening up its military and economic structure.

Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour reported the departure of Norman Davis, American ambassador-at-large, from New York for conversations at London and Paris.

The minister added that London and Washington are nervous over tension between Austria and Germany.

Meantime the anxious attitude of the French as to what is going on across the German border was reflected in a Strassburg newspaper which sounded a note of alarm with a declaration that Germany could be ready for war on land and in the air within a year.

Balzac "Tales" Verboten.

Berlin, Sept. 1 (AP).—Balzac's "Droll Tales" and a number of works of modern German authors today were added to the Prussian index of forbidden books.

Union Lawyer Sent To Aid of Strikers

New York, Sept. 1 (AP).—The American Civil Liberties Union today sent Edward Tittmann, attorney and a member of its national committee, to Gallup, N. Mex., to give legal aid to arrested coal miners and to contest a declaration of martial law.

The action was taken, the union said, after reports from representatives and a request for aid from the National Miners Union.

August Auto Sales Boom at Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, Sept. 1 (AP).—Automobiles sales skyrocketed 152 per cent above those of August, 1932, in Pittsburgh. Dealers sold 2,810 new cars, compared with 1,115, the Pittsburgh Auto Dealers Association reports, the largest August sales since 1930.

Sales were 368 cars ahead of July's, which were 128 per cent above July, 1932.

Mitchell Fails to Give Sanborn Killing Clew

New York, Sept. 1 (AP).—Bancroft Mitchell was questioned again today in the slaying of Henry F. Sanborn, railroad executive, but the Queens district attorney said no clews were obtained.

Mitchell, son of William D. Mitchell, Attorney General under Hoover, returned from Europe yesterday. He had signed a receipt for brewery stock purchased by Sanborn.

Herriot in Moscow, Guest of Government

Moscow, Sept. 1 (AP).—Edouard Herriot, former Premier of France, arrived in the capital tonight from Rostov-On-Don after a tour of the agricultural regions of south Russia.

M. Herriot, who is credited in political circles with doing more than anyone else to promote Franco-Soviet friendship, will remain in Moscow as a guest of the government for ten days.

Hitler Bares 'Race Kultur' As Nazi Plan

Proclaims New Program Opposed to World Democracy.

Implies Jews Eventually Will Be Driven From Germany.

Vienna, Austria, Sept. 1 (U.P.).—The cabinet council, with Chancellor Dollfuss presiding, tonight voted to issue a decree for immediate training of 8,000 military reserves. The move followed recurrent anti-Austrian incidents by Nazis along the German border.

Nuremberg, Germany, Sept 1 (U.P.).—Chancellor Adolf Hitler tonight boldly proclaimed a new "German Kultur" program stoutly opposed to international pacifism.

The chancellor, addressing the Kultur section of the fourth Nazi National Convention, stressed "supremacy of the Aryan-Nordic races," and denounced the "conception of an international pacifist democracy."

He declared Germany should be reborn through the "heroic vindication of race and blood," which aroused the delegates to fever pitch.

"National Socialism (Nazism) dedicates itself to the heroic teaching of the value of blood, race and personalities," Hitler declared in his "Kultur" address, "as well as the eternal law of selection.

"It stands consciously in unswervable opposition toward the conception of international pacifist democracy and its effects."

The chancellor again denounced Jews, whom he earlier in the day vitriolically described in a proclamation as the "ferment of decomposition in the life of nations." He implied the Nazi regime plans the entire eventual elimination of Jews in Germany when he said:

"National Socialism sees and recognizes only one race. Our nation can not be compounded of different races. Such a compound would inevitably lead to dissolution of the unnatural alliance which it represents."

2 Die; Internes Draw Penalty

3 Suspended in New York for Failure to Order Hospital Aid.

New York, Sept. 1 (AP).—Three Bellevue Hospital internes—two men and a woman—were suspended today by the executive committee of the hospital's medical board as a result of testimony that two persons died after internes had failed to take them to the hospital.

Dr. Carl C. Burdick, chairman, said the internes were found guilty of "errors of inexperience and judgment, rather than neglect or intent."

Dr. Harry L. Fulton and Dr. Albert Stevenson, jr., were suspended for 30 days each, and Dr. Dorothy Goetze for two weeks. The committee also ordered them brought before the hospital's 150 internes for a reprimand.

Dr. Fulton and Dr. Goetze, testimony showed, failed to hospitalize Norman Frankel, nine, who died of appendicitis a week ago. Dr. Fulton was called to the boy's home twice and Dr. Goetze once. Both decided, the parents said, he was suffering only from a stomach ache.

Dr. Stevenson was suspended for failing to take Edward J. Sullivan, 67, to the hospital on July 26. His wife took him there later for treatment. Sullivan died on August 2 after an operation.

Schooner Feared Lost; Gone Week

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 1 (U.P.).—The schooner Glory, with nine persons on board, may have been lost in the hurricane last week it was feared here today.

The ship left here just before the storm and has not been heard from since. But the Coast Guard Station at Nags Head, N. C., reported that two days ago a plate bearing the name Glory washed ashore near there.

Rail Workers Protest Exclusion From NRA; Coal Code Hits Snag

Open Shop Issue Brings Negotiations to New Difficulties.

Purchasing Power Has Risen, A. F. L. Says; Cates Answered.

The bituminous coal code was again snagged last night by fresh disputes between operators and miners' spokesmen over the troublesome open shop question.

The anticipated promulgation of the coal code next Tuesday by President Roosevelt is expected to be delayed by the renewed differencs.

Another change in the Recovery Administration was announced by Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson in the appoitment of Alvin Brown, an official of the Budget Bureau of the Treasury Department, as assistant administrator and executive officer. He succeeds John M. Hancock, who resigned.

Cheering A. F. L. Report.

The snagging of the coal code clouded the NRA horizon which had been brightened by the American Federation of Labor's statement that the recovery program had increased the Nation's purchasing power at the rate of $5,000,000,000 a year.

The extent to which union labor should be recognized by employers flared anew when the latter sought to write into a contract with the United Mine Workers of America a provision permitting them to hire, discharge or promote employes regardless of union affiliation.

In the event an agreement between the negotiators should fail, Gen. Johnson stood ready, with the support of President Roosevelt, to impose a code upon the industry. He is fearful that continued delay might result in serious disturbances to industrial relations in the Appalachian coal fields.

Will Try Again Today.

In spite of the disagreement, the negotiations will be continued today, said John D. A. Morrow, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Co., and one of the operators' spokesmen. "The difference does not mean that the negotiations are a failure," he added.

The insertion of the troublesome clause in the proposed contract was strongly opposed by John L. Lewis, president of the mine workers, and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

After the negotiatoins were disrupted, they went immediately to Gen. Johnson. None of them would comment on the difference.

Labor's approval of the results of the drive went beyond a mere recitation of increases in employment and wages. The report said the speculative rise of business had been checked in July and the employment and wage figures for August indicated a genuine improvement.

Drive Ends December 31.

Reorganization of the Recovery Administration apparently was under full swing. Gen. Johnson issued another statement criticizing Dudley S. Cates, whose resignation as

Bandit Slain, Pal And Officer Shot

Third of Gang Escapes With Part of Loot in St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 1 (AP).—One robber was killed and one of his companions and a policeman seriously wounded late today in a gun battle following a holdup of the Consumers Milk Co. office.

The robbers fled with $950, of which all but $150, which the third bandit carried, was recovered.

The dead man was not identified, but the wounded member of the trio was Harold White, a former deputy sheriff here. Patrolman William Boeck was shot in the abdomen.

White was discharged as deputy sheriff in 1930 after being indicted on charges of extortion.

Suspects Down to 3 In Murder of Doctor

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 1 (AP).—Detectives believe one of three persons under observation is the slayer of Dr. James Gaines, wealthy sportsman and drugless practitioner. Arthur Aikman, chief investigator, said today.

Dr. Gaines was shot three times a few minutes after he left the apartment of a woman friend here August 15. His wife found him dying in their driveway, a few feet from his locked automobile. Nearly 100 men and women have been questioned.

Lindbergh Reported Planning British Visit

Copenhagen, Sept. 1 (AP).—Although Col. Charles A. Lindbergh declines to reveal his plans, a rumor is circulating that the flier and his wife will remain here a day or two longer, then fly to England and board a liner for home.

The airman today visited the Institute of Pathology.

Defends Rails

JOSEPH B. EASTMAN, Federal coordinator of transportation, who yesterday said the NRA should not be applied to the Nation's railroads.

Violence Fades In Strike Areas

General Hosiery Trouble Averted; Iowa Miners Threaten Walkout.

(Associated Press.)

Violence all but disappeared on strike fronts yesterday.

A general hosiery mill strike was postponed, but 600 coal miners in Iowa sought walkout recruits as the Government moved to arbitrate labor difficulties.

The National Labor Board intervened in the hosiery situation in Pennsylvania and secured postponement of a strike set for yesterday, after a disturbance in Philadelphia Wednesday in which two men were killed. A 19-year-old youth was held after admitting the shooting, police said, but protested he shot to bring police protection for himself and his bride.

In St. Louis the strike of workers in 71 garment factories was enlivened by disturbances in which three women claimed their clothing was torn off. Police arrested 16 persons.

Chicago's garment strike, involving about 8,000 workers, progressed toward settlement.

New York-Bagdad Hop Starts Today

De Pinedo Seeks to Wrest Nonstop Laurels From Codos and Rossi.

New York, Sept. 1 (AP).—Gen. Francesco de Pinedo said tonight he would take off at dawn on a projected nonstop flight to Bagdad, Persia, in an effort to set a new distance flying record. He received favorable weather reports for the transatlantic hop.

Attendants at Floyd Bennett Field hastened to prepare the Italian aviator's plane, the Santa Lucia, after Dr. James H. Kimball completed his weather survey.

Gen. De Pinedo's flight, in an effort to wrest from Paul Codos and Maurice Rossi their newly acquired laurels for a nonstop flight to Syria, probably will be the last spectacular venture of the season. If he sets a new distance mark, he also will establish a solo nonstop record. Ugo d'Annunzio, son of the poet, has been technical adviser for the flight, for which the general has been preparing all summer.

Viscount Grey Seen As Little Changed

Former British Foreign Secretary Is Still in Serious Condition.

Christon Bank, England, Sept. 1 (AP).—The condition of Viscount Grey was announced tonight as little changed. It was understood he had passed the day between consciousness and unconsciousness.

The Viscount, who was British foreign secretary at the outbreak of the World War, has been seriously ill several days.

"Laddy" Sanford Weds Mary Duncan, Actress

New York, Sept. 1 (AP).—Stephen Sanford, 34, society horseman, and Mary Duncan, 28, screen actress, were married today at the city hall by Deputy City Clerk Hines. Capt. C. T. I. Roark, famous polo player, and his wife were witnesses.

The bridegroom, known as "Laddy" Sanford, maintains an outstanding stable and ten years ago won the English Grand National Steeplechase—the first American to do so.

Spokesman Says Men Are "Shocked" by Discovery.

Heads Will Meet Soon to Ask Short Day at Same Pay.

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 1 (AP).—Expressing "disappointment and shock" upon learning the national industrial recovery act is not to be applied to railroads, A. F. Whitney, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives Association, today said the association "will take immediate steps to have the railroad working day shortened without a reduction in wages."

Mr. Whitney said the association will meet "very soon," when plans will be discussed for a movement to obtain a shorter working day for railroad men "in an effort to increase employment and purchasing power." He said a communication on the subject from President Roosevelt had been sent to all association members with a request for suggestions on a plan of action and a meeting date.

"Should Set Example."

The President's communication, Mr. Whitney said, took the position that railroads should not come under provisions of the national industrial recovery act because of the emergency railroad labor act.

"We have felt," Mr. Whitney said, "that the railroads, among the largest employers in the country, should have been expected to set an example in the effort to bring about economic recovery.

"Instead, the railroads have been dismissing employes, which has been very discouraging to the railroad workers.

"Roads Favored by U. S."

"We see no reason why the railroads should be excluded from provisions of the recovery act. The great army of railroad workers must have an opportunity to work.

"We were very much disappointed and shocked to learn the railroads were not to come under the recovery act.

"The railroads have been favored by the Federal Government. They have been permitted increases in freight tariffs and have obtained millions in loans from the Federal Government.

"They have been permitted to evade payment of $361,000,000 accumulated over a period of years under section 15 of the interstate commerce act and have been favored in many, many ways, more than any other corporation has been favored."

Eastman for Exclusion.

(Associated Press.)

The Nation's railroads yesterday were adjudged by Joseph B. Eastman, Federal Coordinator of Transportation, better off if not brought under the national recovery act, with its wage and hour-fixing codes.

In a memorandum to President Roosevelt the coordinator disclosed simultaneously that he had been communicating informally with railroad etxecutives to correct what he considered unhealthy spots in the railway labor situation. Certain classes of rail employes, he said, now are working longer hours than necessary in comparison with other classes.

"I am hopeful of favorable results," he said. "It may be possible, also, to provide for minimum wages consistent with those adopted in the codes, in the few instances where such minimum wages may be necessary. * * *

"Under all of the circumstances, I am of the opinion that the adoption of a code for the railroads under the NIRA would not be wise, even if it were legally practicable."

Edith McCormick Estate To Be Levied on for Note

Chicago, Sept. 1 (AP).—A portion of the estate of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick was ordered levied on today to satisfy a $48,728 judgment on a note.

The action was taken by the American National Bank & Trust Co.

Wife Sues Louis Swift, Packer, for Divorce

Denver, Sept. 1 (AP).—Charging desertion, Mrs. Mary H. Swift filed suit here today for a divorce from Louis F. Swift, jr., of Chicago.

Attorneys stated a financial arrangement had been made out of court.

Motherless Naked Boy, Six, Left Chained To Bath Tub for 48 Hours by Stepfather

Toledo, Ohio, Sept. 1 (AP).—Rescued by county officers, a 6-year-old boy told authorities tonight his stepfather had chained him by the neck to a bathtub for 48 hours.

The boy, Spencer Allen Nebgen, although undernourished and suffering from shock, readily answered questions as smiles lighted his tear-stained cheeks.

The stepfather, Fred Nebgen, 39, sat in the county jail, where he had been taken by deputies and appeared surprised his treatment of the child should meet legal objection.

He admitted, the deputies said, that he had chained the child to the bathtub.

"I didn't have any one to take care of him and I tied him up while I was at work," the stepfather explained.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Edna Nebgen, died a month ago.

The stepfather said he had been taking the boy on his ice route until yesterday, when the boy cut his foot on a piece of glass.

The boy was found naked and chained to the tub by deputies, who went to the house following complaints of neighbors. They forced their way in and found the child.

Walter Veler, 12, heard the boy crying and released him. He said he was hungry. The youth found an egg which he fried.

After the boy had eaten, the Veler boy again locked him in the bath room. The stepfather found the egg missing. He questioned the boy and learned he had been out of the room. The boy said his stepfather then whipped him with a razor strap.

New York Fall Kills Garretson, Once Banker

New York, Sept. 1 (AP).—Hugh M. Garretson, 45, former treasurer of the New York Southern Society, was killed tonight in a fall from the window of an attorney's twelfth-floor office on lower Broadway.

Garretson, an Arkansan and once a banker, had been in ill health.

Oil Men Eager As $1-a-Barrel Goal Is Sighted

Oklahoma Sees Good Times Again Given With Output Cut.

Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 1 (AP).—The Midcontinent oil world was hopeful tonight of an early realization of its fondest dream—crude petroleum at $1 a barrel.

Announcement of that figure, or perhaps one a few cents higher, was expected by oil men from Washington within a few hours, effective probably Tuesday, along with fixed prices for gasoline and other derivatives.

Believing almost to a man that this presages a new period of good times even with output reduced, the thousands in this oil center waited eagerly for Federal officials to make public their finding.

Tulsa leaders boast that the city was built on 25-cent oil, but that was in another day. Like many oil towns, its economic existence now is based largely on the premise that it can "live on six-bit oil; make money at a dollar a barrel and boom on anything above that."

Financial paper here is written with that in mind.

Two years ago, when oil reached $1 a barrel after fluctuating far below that figure for more than a year, such spontaneous enthusiasm was created that a parade wound through the town with brass bands and speeches hailing a return to prosperity.

The enthusiasm was short-lived, however, and prices have been below $1 for almost another full year, dropping to around 10 cents a barrel for a time.

New Snag Struck By Soft-Coal Code

assistant administrator for industry had been requested. Retirement of other NRA officials was rumored and some others had been announced.

From Monday—Labor Day—until December 31 has been fixed as the period of the President's emergency reemployment drive. Throughout the country local committees have been canvassing employers to persuade them to come under the wings of the Blue Eagle and have been signing up consumers to pledges to deal with those who do.

Closeted in his hotel, Gen. Johnson took his first day off from the office, but passed it working on the Labor Day speech he is to deliver in Chicago. From his hotel he issued his statement criticizing Mr. Cates and strict orders that NRA headquarters were to be closed from 1 p. m. today until Tuesday morning.

Gen. Johnson, for the first time yesterday canceled his semiweekly conference with newspaper reporters, but said he would meet them this morning.

Regrets Cates' Statement.

"Mr. Cates' statement covers only one of our several disagreements," Gen. Johnson said in reply. "I am sorry that he chose to make this statement public. It discloses a theme which many of us here entertain—that, with an industry organized vertically, the logical labor organization is vertical also with overhead control in labor, as responsible to Government as it is in in industry and that craft organization is obsolete. The difficulty in passing from theory to practice is that the law says of labor organizations that they shall be of the workers' 'own choosing' and I take that to mean 'of no theoretical administrative choosing.'

"I early determined it was the function of NRA as prescribed by the statute to maintain an attitude of perfect neutrality, to lend itself to no theory, but to execute the law. Mr. Cates quite recently wrote me he thought existing trade unionism obsolete and that he had set himself to stop it 'at every turn.' Obviously, that is an attitude in violation of the statute which we were both sworn to enforce.

Essential Principle.

"I rely on the logic of circumstance to demonstrate this law and an essential principle on which it bases, but I do not conceive this or any other statutory mandate as a subject for the propagation of personal predilection. The only issue between Mr. Cates and myself is the issue of statutory interpretation and faithfulness to a decided policy of the President."

Mr. Cates pointed out, following issuance of the Johnson statement, that the NRA had been flooded with complaints that men and women had been coerced into joining labor unions on threat they would be barred from employment if they did not.

Johnson Ouster Asked.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Thomas D. Schall (Republican), Minnesota, expressed in a statement last night the belief that President Roosevelt should ask the resignation of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, of Recovery Administration chief, because of the resignation of Dudley Cates, his assistant.

"I think," said Mr. Schall, "that the President should immediately demand the resignation of Gen. Johnson because of the split in the administration of the NRA between its managers, Gen. Johnson and Mr. Cates, shows how completely at sea the whole crew have found themselves.

"As a matter of fact, no two members of this administration seem to be going in the same direction with the result they have the public guessing.

"Of course, the public is not guessing nearly as much as the NRA management itself is guessing. They have no more idea where they are going than a rumrunner in a fog. This is the leadership the administration is asking the richest and the greatest country in the world to follow. Nothing but disastrous rocks is ahead."

Midnight Show for Firemen To Last 3 Hours at Gayety

Performance Tomorrow to Offer Headliners of Other Houses.

Firemen today will complete their bill for the gala midnight show at the Gayety Theatre tomorrow night.

Yesterday Private R. A. Barton, chairman of the committee on arrangements for the show, put in several hours getting together the greatest array of talent seen together in one show this year.

The famous Duncan Sisters, headlining at Loew's Fox Theater this week, graciously gave their services and stated they were glad to help the fire fighters with their benefit performance.

At the Earle, the entertainers likewise promised cooperation and said they would be present for the midnight goings-on.

The Howard will send over one of the geratest colored entertainers in the show business—Peg Leg Bates. In addition, they will have Baby Cox and the Cotton Club Review.

The entire Gayety show will participate in the activities, and Manager Jimmy Lake will act as master of ceremonies. He assures the public that the entire show will move with rapidity from beginning to end.

At one minute after midnight Sunday night the show will start. It should last almost three hours, with its array of talent. Tickets are now on sale at the Gayety, or reservations may be made by telephone.

The performance is being staged as a benefit for the National Firemen's Labor Day parade.

Leaders Put Oil Prices Up To Roosevelt

Proposal of Committee Goes to Ickes for Approval First.

(Associated Press.)

A recommendation that President Roosevelt employ his discretionary powers to fix the price of oil and its products from the well mouth to the gasoline tank was said to have been decided upon last night by the industry's planning and coordination committee.

The committee, members said, reached its decision shortly before the NRA trade code, under which the $12,000,000,000 oil industry will function hereafter, became effective to all practical purposes at midnight.

The recommendation is subject to approval by Secretary Ickes, the oil administrator, before it goes to Mr. Roosevelt for final approval, and calls for price-fixing for a test of not more than 90 days.

Provisions Revealed.

After this test period it would be unlawful to buy or sell petroleum for less than the cost determined by the Federal administrative agency and approved by the President. The price control recommendation, in its present form, was reported to read in part:

"For a test period of not to exceed 90 days, pending the determination of the cost of crude petroleum and products thereof as hereinafter provided, the President may establish price schedules for petroleum and such products thereof as he may designate and for any or all modes of delivery thereof.

Defines Unfair Acts.

"It shall be an act of unfair competition to sell or otherwise dispose of or to buy or otherwise acquire petroleum or the products thereof at a lower price than the applicable price established by the President for the test period.

"Thereafter in order to prevent the premature abandonment of wells of settled production, the growth of monopoly, the obstruction of interstate commerce, and otherwise to effectuate the purposes of the national industrial recovery act it shall be an act of unfair competition to sell or otherwise dispose of or to buy or to otherwise acquire petroleum at a price below the recovery costs of such petroleum as determined by the Federal agency and approved by the President."

Pair Confesses To New Attack

2 Indicted for Killing Girl and Shooting Escort Tell of Former Crime.

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 1 (AP).—Two colored men indicted for killing Miss Katheryn Prince, 19, confessed today to a similar attack and slaying of Abe Schreiber and his companion, Miss Pauline Corman, 17, on a lonely road near Dallas two years ago.

They made statements to William Decker, chief deputy sheriff, after he recalled details of the attack on Miss Prince and her escort, Mace Carver, and the double slaying were similar and began a long questioning.

The State moved to set trial of the two men, Thurman and Bluitt Burkley, for early next week.

Carver, who was shot in the neck when he tried to prevent the Negroes from kidnaping Miss Prince, showed improvement at a hospital here, and physicians said he had a chance to live. He had not been informed of his companion's death.

'Confession' of Murder Causes Year Sentence

San Diego, Calif., Sept. 1 (AP). Phillip Edwards, 17, today was sentenced to one year at the county road camp and fined $250 for obstructing justice by confessing to the murder of Dalbert Aposhian, 7, whose body was found in San Diego Bay.

The Aposhian case has not been solved.

German Envoy Views Oriental Art Collections

Interest in Oriental art brought Germany's ambassador to Japan, Ernst Arthur Voretzsch to Washington yesterday on his way back to Tokyo.

The ambassador spent the afternoon in the Freer gallaries. Today he will visit exhibits in the Corcoran and National galleries.

Wills $5,000 to Railroad.

Long Beach, Calif., Sept. 1 (AP). Without explanation, a $5,000 bequest to the Illinois Central Railroad was made in the will of Mary E. Burgess, filed for probate today. She was the widow of Charles Burgess, retired engineer for the Illinois Central.

Ex-Roanoke Official Accused of Shortage

Richmond, Va., Sept. 1 (AP).—Charges of State Auditor T. McCarthy Downs that Charles W. Cook, former treasurer of Roanoke County, had falsified his records were made public today by Gov. Pollard.

The auditor told the governor that $953 in taxes had been collected and that Cook admitted he used this money for personal obligations, intending to replace the funds before the close of the fiscal year.

Youth Reveals Torture Killing

Confesses Robber Trio Slew Woman and Beat Other Victims.

Robinson, Ill., Sept. 1 (AP).—John William Allen, 19, of Danville, today signed a confession, officers said, that he and two others invaded the farm home of Bernard Weldon, 84, of near Newton, killed Weldon's aged sister and beat him and his niece into insensibility in an attempted robbery.

The confession absolved Harold Peck, of Indianapolis, but implicated Henry Shelby, of Tilton, Ill., both of whom are also held. The confession followed identification by Weldon and his niece, Miss Anna Schraeder, 47, of Allen and Shelby.

The men stripped Miss Schraeder and her mother, Mrs. Mary Schraeder, 82, and Weldon—burning them with lighted matches in efforts to make them disclose the supposed hiding place of a fortune. Despite their protests that there was no hidden money, the three were beaten into unconsciousness. Miss Schraeder said that the men attacked her and her mother after tying them to a bed. Mrs. Schraeder died yesterday.

New Forest Fire Outbreak Feared

Changing Winds, Higher Temperatures Cause Alarm in Oregon.

Portland, Oreg., Sept. 1 (AP).—Fearful that the changing winds and higher temperatures would cause the great coast range forest fires to rage again, United States Forestry officials today rushed fire fighters into the Cedar Creek sector, where the flames were reported to be gaining headway.

The area of danger, about 60 miles southeast of Portland by airline, holds several timber "islands" missed by the flames that blackened hundreds of square miles of fine timber in four Oregon Coast counties last week.

John Ringling Suit For Divorce Dismissed

Sarasota, Fla., Sept. 1 (AP).—Circuit Judge Paul B. Albritton late today granted a request of attorneys for a dismissal of the divorce action brought by John Ringling, circus magnate, against his wife. The request was confined to barest legal phraseology, giving no reason for the action.

Man Killed In Train-Car Crash.

Shelbyville, Ill., Sept. 1 (AP).—One man was killed and another injured, perhaps fatally, today when their automobile was struck by a Big Four passenger train near here. The dead man was tentatively identified as Harry Nichols, 35, of Cincinnati.

Its Census of Alaskan Bears Defended by Forest Service

Answers Charge Result Conflicts With Laws of Reproduction.

(Associated Press.)

The Forest Service yesterday came to the defense of its bear census in Alaska, attacked Sunday by James W. Holzworth, New York grizzly bear hunter, conservationist and author, who said it conflicted with the laws of biology.

The Forest Service said its report recently that the number of grizzlies and big brown bears had increased from 3,000 to 4,500 from 1931 to 1932 was neither ignorance of biology or "politics," as alleged by Holzworth, and insisted its census followed the best statistical principles and included the counting of bears, nose by nose, and a system of measuring bears tracks.

Holzworth said bears breed only once in two years, that the largest potential natural increase biologically possible would be 500 in a year. He asserted the service was attempting to use its bear census to justify timber concessions to pulp wood manufacturers on Admiralty Island, Alaska, which Holzworth has sought to have made a bear refuge. These concessions have been canceled, the Forest Service said.

It then explained that rangers doubling as census takers took measurements of bear tracks. Then they brought their track measurements to a central office and statisticians went to work. Operating on the theory that few bears have the same sized tracks they accredited Admiralty Island with only one bear each time they came across a duplication of measurements.

Chaplin Questions Lita Gray's Accounts

Los Angeles, Sept. 1 (AP).—An opposition to the accounting of the $12,000 allowed yearly to his former wife, Lita Grey Chaplin, for expenditure in behalf of their children was filed today by Charles Chaplin, film comedian.

"Chaplin does not understand certain alleged expenditures," the comedian's attorney, Loyd Wright, said.

Group Fishes As Roosevelt Rests on Yacht

President Idle for First Time in Months, in Long Island Bay.

(By Associated Press.)

A day of complete rest without official callers or transaction of Governmental business was passed by President Roosevelt yesterday aboard Vincent Astor's yacht Nourmahal, anchored in Fort Pond Bay, off Montauk, Long Island.

The yacht, on which the President is returning to Washington from Hyde Park, N. Y., dropped anchor in the bay early yesterday and remained there last night.

Destroyers Anchors Nearby.

Stephen T. Early, one of the President's secretaries, in a wireless message to the Navy Department, said the yacht remained there to afford Mr. Roosevelt "a maximum of rest and quiet" and to await better visibility at sea.

The destroyers Twiggs and Manley were anchored nearby as escort ships.

Early reported "the only excitement" was the arrival by an amphibian airplane of newspapermen and photographers. After it had been explained the President had promised the correspondents regularly covering his activities he would send only news of his doings through the Navy, the group departed without seeing him.

The message said in part:

"For the first time in many months the President passed a whole day without seeing any official callers or transacting Government business.

Companions Go Fishing.

"He remained aboard the yacht with his host, Vincent Astor. Others of the party, including Judge Kernochan, Kermit Roosevelt, W. R. Stewart, Dr. Leslie Heiter, George St. George and Lytle Hull, took to small boats to try their luck as fishermen. Invitations to visit shore were declined with thanks."

Referring to the airplane visit of New York newspapermen, the message said:

"To keep this promise the visitors departed unseen by the President or others of the party."

2-Cent Rail Rate In West Discussed

Committee Seen Favoring Elimination of Pullman Surcharge Cost.

Chicago, Sept. 1 (AP).—Western railway executives today discussed proposals to reduce the basic passenger mileage rate of 3.6 cents before Harry Guy Taylor, Western railroad commissioner, and referred the matter back to a committee.

Mr. Taylor said, after the meeting, that there was a difference of opinion as to whether the roads should reduce rates as low as 2 cents a mile in efforts to meet bus competition. Apparently, however, the majority favored the reduction, with elimination of Pullman surcharges and a reduced rate for Pullmans.

City Runs Sewage Plant Despite U. S. Injunction

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 1 (AP).—Milwaukee's $15,000,000 sewage disposal plant was operated today in defiance of a Federal court injunction.

The sewage commissioners decided to face contempt proceedings and possible imprisonment rather than menace the city's health by polluting Lake Michigan, from which the community gets its water. A pending suit alleges the plant infringes patents held by a private company.

Baptism Rites Scheduled In Potomac Tomorrow

Baptismal services in the waters of the Potomac, at the foot of Water street, southwest, near the War College, will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock by Elder Michaux.

Broadcast of the service will be made over WJSV, and amplifiers will be used to enable listeners on the opposite bank of the river to hear the large choir, stationed opposite Hains Point. Candidates for baptism will be taken to a large barge anchored out from the shore where the baptismal sermon will be preached.

Just Restin'

Agricultural Department's Workers Ordered Home for Four Days.

To conserve the health of the overworked employes of his department, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace yesterday ordered a period of absolute rest. The period will begin at midnight tonight and will last until 7 a. m. Wednesday.

All departmental buildings will be locked to everyone but the custodial staff. Officials are urged not to engage in any business conferences in their homes and are ordered not to take official material home.

"We can not be effective in our efforts," Secretary Wallace said, "unless we can think clearly about what we are doing. This period of absolute rest from office work is ordered to restore all of us for the strenuous work ahead."

Roosevelt Sees Hitler as Key to Arms Problem

He Feels Germany Must Agree to MacDonald Plan or It Fails.

(Copyright, 1933, by United Press.)

President Roosevelt regards the new Germany of Chancellor Hitler as the key to the world disarmament problem.

He feels, close associates say, that unless the Berlin government can be brought to the idea of subscribing unreservedly to the MacDonald plan for the creation of an international commission to inspect and report on the armaments of the great powers, the major drive of the United States, Great Britain and Italy for national security through the elimination of international fear and suspicion will go for naught.

Norman Davis, chief American delegate to the Geneva conference, it is said, went to Europe this week with the intention of bringing Chancellor Hitler and his government to agree to the plan.

President Roosevelt, it is explained, will stand ready to bring the United States within the scope of the plan and consent to the armaments of the United States to be placed under international supervision if the other great powers will do the same.

Briefly, the plan would not only authorize frequent inspections of the arms stores of the various nations, but also a close check on the manufacture and shipment of war material.

U.S. Will Check Pig Speculation

New Regulation Limits Sale Under Emergency Plan to First Owners.

(Associated Press.)

Farm administrators took steps late yesterday to check growth of speculation interfering with operation of their emergency hog marketing plan by setting up a new regulation limiting permits to sell pigs and sows to the Government to farmers who are the original owners.

They also provided that in no case are permits to be issued to any owner of more than 200 head, and decided against any increase in the bonus of $4 a head on sows, but lowered the weight limit for sows soon to farrow from a 275-pound minimum to 240 pounds.

Beginning Tuesday all pigs received for United States purchase at all authorized processing points must be accompanied by permits authorizing the shipment.

A modified permit system has been in effect since August 25, when, soon after opening of the Government drive to purchase 4,000,000 small pigs and 1,000,000 sows, six of the principal markets became glutted, necessitating a shut-down.

Gen. Johnson, Wallace To Pick Puerto Rico Aid

Appointement of national recovery and agricultural adjustment administrators for Puerto Rico will be recommended by Secretary of War Dern to Gen. Johnson and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, it was announced yesterday by Gov. R. H. Gore.

Gov. Gore, who came to Washington early this week for the purpose of interesting officials here in the appointment of island aids, said selections will be left up to Johnson and Wallace.

Grand Jury Holds Bailey for Slaying

Indicted With Ten Others in Station Massacre in Kansas City.

Kansas City, Sept. 1 (AP).—Harvey Bailey, notorious gunman, and 10 other persons were indicted today by a Federal grand jury in connection with the machine gun slaying of four officers and their prisoner at Union Station Plaza here June 17.

It was the second Federal indictment for Bailey, who is under arrest in Texas and indicted in Oklahoma as an accused participant in the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil millionaire.

The indictments charged the 11 persons conspired to free a Federal prisoner and also attempted to conceal an escaped Federal convict.

Horrors Born Of False Ads Shown by U. S.

Hair Tonic That Poisons and Dye That Blinds Among Exhibits.

(United Press.)

The Federal Food and Drug Administration opened a museum of horrors yesterday to demonstrate need of a new law to combat racketeers who prey upon human misery.

The present pure food and drug act holds simply that preparations of foods and drugs must be properly labeled. Administrator W. G. Campbell charged that hundreds of persons had been killed or made critically ill by drinking nostrums honestly labeled under the law.

His exhibit contains among other things tooth whitener that eats teeth away; hair tonic that poisons the bald; eyelash dye that blinds the beautiful and skin bleach that sends Negroes to hospitals.

Several Suffer Here.

Several Washington Negroes now are suffering from mercury poisoning, from use of a cream which held out that vain hope of turning their skins light. A similar preparation is advertised widely for removal of freckles. George P. Larrick, drug inspector, who took Mrs. William H. King, wife of the senator from Utah, upon an inspection of the museum yesterday, called particularly vicious the radio advertising of a firm which sells crystallized salts to cure assorted diseases.

The crystals are sold at retail at a rate which amounts to $1.50 a pound. In seven months more than 1,000,000 pounds have been sold to the credulous. The crystals are composed of glauber salts, available for 25 cents a pound. The label promises nothing. All the promises are made by the radio announcer, who can not be reached by the present law, Larrick said.

Diabetes "Cure" a Killer.

Still worse, he said, was a diabetes "cure," made of water and snake weed and sold for $12 a pint. On one side of the bottle in Campbell's Museum are a dozen testimonials concerning its curative power. On the other side are the death certificates of the 12 who wrote the testimonials.

Another display shows a silver-labeled jar of depilatory which made scores of women critically ill before $2,500,000 worth of damage suits forced the manufacturer out of business.

Campbell hopes that Congress this winter will adopt a new food and drug act, prepared at the request of President Roosevelt.

Educators Insist On Teacher Code

Propose to Answer Legal Points NRA Raises, Says Crabtree.

(Associated Press.)

J. W. Crabtree, of the National Education Association, said yesterday that while NRA officials had not favored the idea of a teachers' code, further effort would be made.

"We were not rejected," said Crabtree. "NRA officials merely raised legal points we propose to answer."

The teachers' committee visited Thomas S. Hammond and John M. Hancock, of the National Recovery Administration. Their plan was for education boards voluntarily to subscribe to a code, setting a teachers' wage scale.

NRA Credit Project Comes Up Next Week

(Associated Press.)

Announcement of plans for creating a temporary Federal credit medium to NRA members was deferred yesterday by the R. F. C., and probably will be withheld until next week.

Jesse Jones, chairman of the corporation, conferred at Hyde Park with President Roosevelt. It is proposed to set up a medium supplying credit to those working under codes between initial increase of overhead through bigger pay rolls and receipt of increased income from higher prices.

U. S. Gives $400,000 Relief Cash to Arizona

(Associated Press.)

A $400,000 advance was granted Arizona yesterday by the Federal Relief Administration to meet unemployment relief needs during September.

The advance was from the administration's "discretionary" fund and does not require matching by the State. Arizona to date has been allowed $869,133.

NRA Boosts Steel Pay By $5,000,000 Monthly

New York, Sept. 1 (AP).—The American Iron and Steel Institute announced today that 97 per cent of the steel industry had come under the NRA code and that the monthly pay roll of the industry had increased about $5,000,000.

Three hundred representatives of the industry met at the institute today to hear the steel code explained. Robert P. Lamont, president of

Labor Board Adopts "Last Resort" Policy

Wagner's Group Will Act in Disputes When All Agencies Fail.

Pressing for settlement of strikes and labor troubles, the National Labor Board yesterday announced it would act only when other agencies fail.

A policy of allowing local NRA mediation boards to attempt solutions was enunciated. Should this fail, the disputes will be handled by State labor departments, then by Labor Department conciliators, and finally by the board, the Associated Press reported.

Concern Over Silk Strike.

Concerned lest the Paterson (N. J.) silk strike assume Nation-wide proportions, Senator Wagner, board chairman, arranged a conference with operators and employes here, Tuesday. Senator Wagner reported progress in settling shipbuilding, hosiery, raincoat and other industries.

Plans for supervising elections of collective bargaining representatives also were announced.

Senator Wagner said shipbuilding labor difficulties apparently had been averted, and glove industry troubles also were being smoothed out.

Three problems were turned over to the Massachusetts Department of Labor, the Brockton shoe troubles, a complaint that Westinghouse Electric officials were interfering with organization of East Springfield employes and a raincoat workers dispute at Boston.

Hopes were expressed for a settlement at a conference today of Cambria officials with striking workers in Philadelphia.

Shipbuilding Code Parley.

Shipbuilders and labor along the Atlantic Coast were asked to present arguments on disputed code provisions. Officials and labor representatives of the Berkeley Woolen Mills, Martinsburg, W. Va., where discrimination against union organizers was charged, will appear before the board Wednesday.

Virginia Miners Still Idle.

St. Charles, Va., Sept. 1 (AP).—Differences between miners and mine operators in the St. Charles coal field had not ben adjusted today despite a series of conferences.

W. F. Menton, leader of the union forces, said no men will return to work until satisfactory terms are offered by the operators or a NRA code is officially adopted.

Upward of 2,600 men are idle, and about 4,000 in the Wise County field.

Film Director Bankrupt.

Los Angeles, Sept. 1 (AP).—Robert A. Dillon, film director and scenario writer, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy today.

Total liabilities were listed at $9,108.75 and assets as 20 shirts, 35 neckties, 4 pairs of shoes, 2 hats and a clock, valued at $22.

7 Balloonists Poised for Race From Chicago

Craft Due to Drift East and South; Gehlbach Winner in Plane.

Chicago, Sept. 1 (AP).—Seven balloonists, pick of five nations, tonight were ready for their annual classic, the James Gordon Bennett races, starting from Curtiss-Wright-Reynolds Airport tomorrow.

Weather forecasters said there would be no unfavorable conditions and the drift of the balloons would be to the east and south.

The start is scheduled for 3:30 p. m. (C. S. T.). International air race officials, in conjuction with which the balloon contest is being held, meanwhile started their program of speed plane events.

A distance of 500 miles with a landing in 24 hours would be "average" for the event, forecasters said.

Gehlback Plane Wins.

No arrangements were made for pilots to drop messages instructing finders to communicate with race headquarters.

Lee Gehlbach, Detroit, flying a Wedell-William special, won the $2,000 free-for-all for planes of 1,000 cubic inches piston displacement with a speed of 199.14 miles an hour in the feature race.

Art Chester, Joliet, Ill., was second, 188.46 miles, and Leland S. Miles, Los Angeles, third, 185.

Lieut. Comdr. Frank M. Hawks brought his racing plane down at 3:27 p. m. (C. S. T.) to finish a triangular flight for which Los Angeles and Seattle served as pylons. Leaving Chicago at 1 a. m. (C. S. T.) Wednesday, Hawks' flying time on the 4,500 mile trip was 24 hours 25 minutes.

First race of the day was won by Chester, who put his plane around a 30-mile course to average 163 miles per hour. Leland S. Miles, Los Angeles, was second and George Hague, Los Angeles, third, in the event—for planes of 375 cubic inch piston displacement.

Marine Fliers Perform.

A dozen U. S. Marine fliers bombed a small target with fireworks in the air carnival.

Heading the poised balloon contestants was Lieut. Comdr. T. G. W. Settle, who brought this Gordon Bennett race to America by winning the 1932 event in Switzerland. The other American entry, the Goodyear IX, will be piloted by Ward T. Van Orman.

Other contestants are Dr. Erich Koerner and Fritz von Opel, Germany; Franciszek Hynek, Poland; Phillippe Quersin, Belgium, and Georges Ravaine, France.

James R. Wedell, Patterson, La., will attempt to break the world's land plane speed record of 294.38 miles an hour in the Shell trophy three-kilometer event.

Veterans Move Against Slash

Urge Repeal of Economy Law, Prohibition as Encampment Ends.

Milwauke, Wis., Sept. 1 (AP).—The thirty-fourth encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars adjourned today determined to take maesures within the year to achieve repeal or substantial modification of the national economy act.

The burden of carrying out the organization's policies will fall chiefly on the youthful new commander, James E. Van Zandt, of Altoona, Pa.

Among other resolutions adopted were a suggestion that States act quickly on the prohibition repeal amendment and that cancellation of war debts be opposed.

Among the members named to fill vacancies in the Veterans of Foreign Wars' national council were Max Singer, Boston; Charles Haley, Pittsburgh; J. J. Skillman, Miami; Herman Fox, Louisville; William H. Guther, Denver; Glenn Jack, Oregon City, Oreg., and William Barge, Washington.

Capt. Walter Joyce, 77, of New York, credited with having persuaded Congress to make "The Star-Spangled Banner" the official national anthem, was elected honorary commander in chief, the first person ever so designated.

Studebaker Receivers Find 3-Month Profit

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 1 (AP).—Receivers for the Studebaker Corporation today announced a net operating profit of $187,492.84 for the three months ended June 30 and also announced $1,368,787.33 had been added to its cash account.

4 Dead, 2 Missing In Fishing Tragedy

Bodies Are Washed Ashore on Stream Near Washington, N. C.

Washington, N. C., Sept. 1 (AP).—A river tragedy which apparently claimed the lives of six men came to light yesterday with the discovery of four bodies washed ashore near South Creek, 35 miles below Washington.

The dead: Lee Butler, 40; Ed Deal, 45; John Sheppard, 55, colored, and Jerry Warren, 30, colored. They were members of a party of six who left South Creek on a fishing trip in the Pamlico River last Wednesday.

Still missing tonight were Woolard Anderson Jones, 21, and Ernest Barrow, 30, colored.

Young Democrats Declare Their Independence of Elders.

Kansas City, Sept. 1 (AP).—A growing movement within the Young Democratic clubs of America to take over their national convention and substitute action for oratory brought results today.

The convention was willing to listen to a full-length address tonight by Daniel C. Roper, Secretary of Commerce, only after it had reduced the afternoon speeches to 10 minutes and revised the entire program for tomorrow in order to give the delegates a bigger voice in proceedings.

"I know the spirit that animates you," Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the mint, told the delegates.

"You want to help build up the strength of your party. You want to have a voice in its affairs that through it you may have a share in shaping the course of your government."

The increasingly independent character of the convention also was accorded recognition by Secretary Roper.

So eager were the delegates to increase their voice in the selction of officers that the national committee election scheduled for today was postponed.

Movie Actors Criticize Code

Anti-Star-Raiding Clause Opposed and 48-Hour Week Sought.

Hollywood, Calif., Sept. 1 (AP).—Actors meeitng today at the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences opposed the "antistar-raiding" clause proposed by studios as part of the industry's NRA code, and decided to send representatives to the code hearing in Washington September 12 to seek inclusion of their own proposals.

The meeting favored a 48-hour work week and "no closed season" on actors' contracts.

The star-raiding ban would prevent a studio from bidding for an actor's services under contract at another studio until 30 days before the contract expires, and then only after notifying the employing studio of its intention.

Simultaneously "extras" and supporting players adopted a draft code setting up a commission of five, to include three extra players, to control wages and working conditions.

Sen. Bailey Urges Print-Press Money

Carolinian Asks President for Currency Issue to Aid Farmers.

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 1 (AP).—Senator J. W. Bailey, North Carolina Democrat, has appealed to President Roosevelt to issue currency or some other form of Government obligation as an inflationary measure to assure farmers "adequate prices" for crops now being marketed.

He suggested the Federal Government take over a large part of the assets of the Nation's closed banks and pay for them in currency or a special issue, mentioning $2,000,000,000 to $5,000,000,000 as the amount to be made available.

'Lifers' Go Fishing, Hire Taxi, Escape

Three Oklahoma Convicts Fail to Come Back from "Outing."

McAlester, Okla., Sept. 1 (AP). Three life-term convicts, permitted to go outside the State Penitentiary to fish in the Prison Lake, hired a taxicab instead and drove away to freedom.

News of the escape was disclosed today by prison officials.

The fugitives are Roy A. Johnson, whose death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment in 1928; Irvin (Blackie) Thompson, murder convict, and W. J. (Whitey) Walker, sentenced for robbery.

Marvin Jones Favors Better D. C. Airport

"No Reason Why It Can't Be Done," He Says of Taking Farm Land.

"I think that Washington should have an adequate airport."

This is the statement made yesterday by Representative Marvin Jones, of Texas, chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture, to The Washington Post in connection with its efforts to arouse public interest in a better air terminal for the National Capital.

Asked if he would favor legislation whereby property of the Arlington Experimental Station might be exchanged for Hoover Field acreage, thus permitting the rounding out as well as the consolidation of the Washington-Hoover airports, if the elimination of the Military road is effected, Mr. Jones said:

No Reason Why Not.

"If provisions can be made for a better airport by an exchange of lands or an adjustment on a reasonable and fair basis, I can see no reason why it can not be done.

"As to any specific proposal I would want to know just what it is and study it in its details before passing on its merits."

The interest of Mr. Jones in a bigger and safer airport for the Capital is of primary importance to an amelioration of the Washington-Hoover fields.

Has Key Position.

As chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture, he would have to pass favorably on any legislation which touched upon the disposition of any of the lands of the Arlington Experimental Farms. And it is only by the acquisition of parts of this farm that the Washington-Hoover fields can be expanded, or rounded off.

While it is inevitable that experimental work eventually will be abandoned on the farm, thus making available a 50-acre tract adjoining Hoover Field, the Department of Agriculture consistently has opposed any cession of land for air terminal purposes until new property has been provided elsewhere.

Tireless Stork

Brings Twins on 19th Visit to 39-Year-Old Mother in California.

Pasadena, Calif., Sept. 1 (AP).—Already the parents of 18 children, Mr. and Mrs. Alentino Mesa were somewhat surprised today as the stork, on his nineteenth visit, left twins.

Of the 20 children born, 11 are living. Mrs. Mesa is 39 years old.

Urschel Court Pleas Guarded

Machine Guns of Police Cover Four as They Are Arraigned.

Oklahoma City, Sept. 1 (AP).—Marched into Federal court with armed guards at their sides, 4 of the 14 persons indicted for the Charles F. Urschel kidnaping pleaded not guilty today and were hurried back to their cells. Trial was set for September 18.

Squads of officers armed with machine guns and rifles escorted Albert L. Bates and Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Shannon and Armon Shannon. Seven others entered not guilty pleas through attorneys. Judge Edgar S. Aught set the bonds at $100,000 each.

The seven defendants not present were Cliff Skelly, Barney Berman, Sam Kronick, Charles Wolk, Peter Hackett and Isador Blumenfeld, all of Minneapolis, and Sam Kozbeg, of St. Paul.

Friends Urge Gandhi To Forsake Politics

Poona, India, Sept. 1 (AP).—Pressure is being brought to bear upon the Mahatma Gandhi from many sides, his friends said today, to induce him to foresake politics and devote his life to helping the depressed classes.

The leader has made no final decision.

Navy Names 39 New Vessels For Cities and Service Heroes

Swanson Wants U. S. Fleet Near Treaty Limit, "Second to None."

(Associated Press.)

The Navy thumbed into pages of its conspicuous history yesterday to name 39 new vessels that will bring the fleet closer to limits of the London naval treaty.

Secretary Swanson, in the presence of Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations, and Rear Admiral Orin G. Murfin, judge advocate general, signed contracts starting construction of the vessels and hoped it was "the beginning of a treaty navy—a navy built to the limits of the London naval treaty and second to none."

Traditions Observed.

In conformity with naval tradition, names of cities were assigned to cruisers and gunboats. Two aircraft carriers received the names Yorktown and Enterprise, one in honor of the Battle of Yorktown and the other after five earlier vessels with the name Enterprise, each of which saw illustrious service.

The destroyers received names of distinguished officers and enlisted men, and in accordance with a policy adopted two years ago, submarines were named for denizens of the deep.

Thirty-seven of the vessels will be built out of the $238,000,000 allotted to the Navy by executive order President Roosevelt and other funds. Two destroyers, under construction at Boston and Philadelphia, also were named.

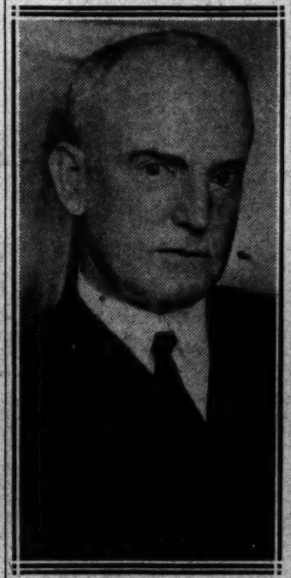
A heavy cruiser was named Vicennes, for the Indiana city famed by a Revolutionary War battle. Four light cruisers were designated Savannah, Nashville, Brooklyn and Philadelphia. A patrol gunboat was named Charleston and another Erie, for South Carolina and Pennsylvania cities.

Destroyer Honors Moffett.

One of the 1,800-ton destroyers will bear the name of Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, who lost his life in the airship Akron crash. Two similar ships were named for Rear Admiral Thomas O. Selfridge, distinguished in the Civil War, and Rear Admiral David McDougal, in the Mexican War.

The name of another Civil War hero, Rear Admiral Thomas Stowell Phelps, was given to a destroyer, and that of a Mexican War hero, Rear Admiral John A. Winslow, to another.

One vessel was designated Preston, in honor of Lieut. Samuel W. Preston, a Canadian, who participated in the assaults on Forts Sumter and Fisher in the Civil War. Two previous destroyers were named after him.



REAR ADMIRAL WILLIAM A. MOFFETT, for whom one of the Navy's 39 new ships was named.

Mexican-U. S. League Urged By Rodriguez

Suggestion Is Contained in American Court Proposal.

Mexico City, Sept. 1—(U.P.)—Proposals that Mexico and the United States join in formation of an American League of Nations were contained in President Abelardo Rodriguez's annual message to congress today.

He suggested such an association by expressing the hope that the Mexican projects for an inter-American court of justice and an inter-American labor office would be approved by the Pan-American Conference at Montevideo, Uruguay, in December.

The president emphasized the increasingly friendly relations between Mexico and the United States and urged steps be taken further to cement that good will through economic cooperation.

The establishment of a purely American court—similar in a smaller way to the World Court at the Hague—is considered here to be essential to lasting American peace. The proposed labor office could perform functions similar to those of the International Labor Bureau, in Geneva, and should, it was emphasized, at all times cooperate with the latter.

Progress of NRA Drive Among Negroes Praised

Colored workers in the NRA drive, 300 strong, were addressed last night at the Phyllis Wheatley Y. W. C. A. by Mrs. Etta Taggart, Mrs. George Cornwell, and Mrs. C. S. Schermerhorn, who expressed appreciation of their efforts in enrolling colored families under the Blue Eagle banner.

Mrs. Taggart brought a message of appreciation also from Thomas W. Littlepage, in charge of the work, to George W. Beasley, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, and major in charge of the group of colored workers.

The unit, which began work Monday, reported 4,796 cards signed, approximately 20 per cent of the total to be enrolled.

Somerset Man Sues Brother in Son's Death

Somerset, Pa., Sept. 1 (Spl.). Norman Romesburg has filed suit against his brother, Robert Romesburg, asking $10,300 for the loss of his son, Norman, jr., 17.

The youth was killed by a truck owned by the defendent and operated by Charles Barnhart, it was alleged.

Federal Workers To Go to Parley

Last of Capital Delegates to Leave This Afternoon for Kansas City.

Last of the delegates representing the Washington locals of the National Federation of Federal Employes, at the convention being held in Kansas City next week, will leave this afternoon at 4:15 o'clock on the Capitol Limited on a special car.

The list of delegates with their local union affiliations is: Miss Lottie L. Anderson (2), J. Ernest Brault (2), Leslie C. McNemar (2), Henry G. Nolda (2), Albert M. Reising (2), Edward L. Scott (71), Mignor Miller (105), Violet Turner (105), J. Franklin Meyer (260), Gertrude E. Coyle (261), J. O. Burnham (262), Louise A. Rosafy (372). Also joining the group is Robert W. Cushman, of Local No. 2, who will visit the convention.

Arriving in Chicago most of this group will visit the World's Fair and will be joined by delegates from other Federal Employes Union locals. They will arrive in Kansas City Monday in time for the opening session.

Shoreham Building Note Holders Sue

Ask Supreme Court of U.S. to Reinstate Original Trust.

Reinstatement of the original trust on the Shoreham building was asked in a petition to the U. S. Supreme Court yesterday by counsel for three persons who are said to have lost in the sale of the building to former Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley.

The petitioners hold notes secured by the original trust which was replaced by another trust when the property was sold, it was said.

The District Sureme Court has held the second trust valid and ruled that the original trust could not be reinstated.

Mrs. Roosevelt Arrives In Newport for Visit

Newport, R. I., Sept. 1 (U.P.).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived here late today to spend the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Parish, the latter her cousin and godmother.

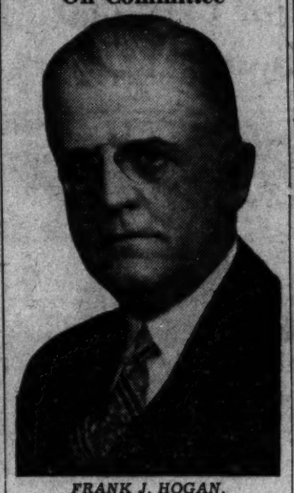
She will remain at Ludlow cottage, the Parish summer place, until Sunday. Several entertainments will be arranged in her honor by members of the social colony.

Department Stores Here Increase Forces

Department stores of Washington are beginning to take on additional employes under the NRA. The first to announce the number of new employes was Woodward & Lothrop's. This large store will add 150 to its pay roll by the end of next week.

Sizable increases in employment are indicated by other stores, but they say it is too early to approximate the number. The NRA code will actually affect these firms for the first time tomorrow, as they have been on a 40-hour week, with Saturdays closing, since July 1.

On Committee



FRANK J. HOGAN, prominent Washington attorney, who was nominated yesterday as a member of the executive committee of the American Bar Association.

Bar Members Are Cautioned On "New Deal"

McCracken Is Reelected; Hogan Named for Executive Board.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 1 (AP). The American Bar Association concluded the business session of its annual convention today with a warning that the Nation's legal talent should prepare itself to change the judicial machinery to take care of the situation if the present emergency program of the Government becomes a permanent policy.

The warning was contained in the report of the committee on administrative law, delivered by its chairman, Louis G. Caldwell, Washington. The report was read after the association had elected officers, headed by Earl W. Evans, Wichita, Kans., as president.

Caldwell pointed to the address of Attorney General Homer S. Cummings yesterday, which referred to the temporary nature of the recovery program and other emergency legislation.

Doubts Early Return.

"But the brain trust isn't saying the same thing," he said. "What does Gen. Hugh S. Johnson say? I am not hostile to the new deal, but there is such a complete change in the orientation of government that it may not be able to turn back from the present emergency program in two years."

The bar should be prepared, he said, to change the judicial set-up to meet such an eventuality. Caldwell's only criticism of the NRA was of the licensing provision, which, he said, amounted to an absorption of some judicial functions by the administrative.

McCracken Reelected.

William P. McCracken, jr., Washington, former Assistant Secretary of Commerce in charge of aeronautics, was retained in office as secretary of the bar association for another year, and John H. Voorhees, Sioux Falls, S. Dak., was reelected treasurer.

The assistant secretary, Richard Bentley, and the executive secretary, Mrs. Olive G. Ricker, both of Chicago, were reappointed.

Three new members of the bar's executive committee nominated by the council were Harry P. Lawther, Dallas; Fred Stinchfield, Minneapolis, and Frank J. Hogan, Washington.

Evans, as president, succeeds Clarence E. Martin, of Martinsburg, W. Va.

Japanese Reject Christian Church

U. S. Missionary's Plan to Establish Branch in Province Denied.

Tokyo (Saturday), Sept. 2 (AP). The Japanese government today rejected a proposal of an American missionary to establish a branch Christian church at Ogaki, in Gifu Prefecture.

The rejection was based on the grounds that friction between Christianity and Japan's national faith, Shinto, might cause disturbances at a time when national feeling is running high.

The missionary, Miss Sadie Weidener, has been working independently at Ogaki since 1900.

The rejection followed the suspension of three Japanese Christian school children from Ogaki schools when they refused to attend the school's customary pilgrimages to Shinto shrines.

94 Boy Scouts Back From World Jamboree

New York, Sept. 1 (AP).—Ninety-four of the 400 Boy Scouts of America, who attended the International Scout Jamboree at Godillo, Czechoslovakia, returned today on the liner Aquitania.

Among them were six Sea Scouts from Ozark Lake, 30 miles southwest of Jefferson City, Mo., five of whom never had seen an ocean before their trip to Europe. One of the five, Walter Helmreich, a Scout who has won all the Sea Scout awards, suffered from seasickness more than any of the others on both the trip to Europe and the return voyage.

14,000 Picking Hops In California Fields

Ukiah, Calif., Sept. 1 (AP).—Hop picking at a cent a pound is bringing many dollars to approximately 14,000 workers gathered in the Ukiah and Pomo valleys to help harvest the largest crop since prohibition, about 40,000 bales of 150 to 200 pounds each.

Doctors, lawyers, and others of similar educational strata are among the pickers. Indians, who have been picking hops for years, make up to $14 or $15 a day. The average amateur makes $5 to $6.

Lamson's Trial Rests; State Evidence Ends

Defense Will Resume Fight to Prove Young Wife Died in Fall.

San Jose, Calif., Sept. 1 (AP).—The State concluded today testimony which it hopes to hang David A. Lamson, leaving with the jury its contention that the 31-year-old Stanford University Press representative bludgeoned to death his young wife.

Court was adjourned until Tuesday, when the defense will offer testimony in support of its theory Mrs. Lamson met her death last May 30 by accident—perhaps through a fall in the bathroom where she was found.

The end of the State's case came after most of an entire day had been spent in cross-examination of Dr. Frederick Proeschner, county pathologist, and confirmation of his testimony by Dr. A. M. Moody, San Francisco pathologist.

These scientific witnesses, together with others, were called by the State in an effort to show a 10-inch piece of pipe found in a bonfire at Lamson's home could have been the death instrument. They also reported evidence of hemorrhages on the head of the body, indicating a severe tug at Mrs. Lamson's hair.

Previously the State had introduced the name of Mrs. Sara M. Kelley, Sacramento divorcee, as the recipient of bouquets from Lamson a few weeks before his wife was found dead in their Stanford campus home.

While the battle of experts went on around him, Lamson sat looking straight ahead. There were black circles under his eyes and his face was lined. He gripped the arms of his chair and spoke only when attorneys called him into conference.

16 Killed as Veranda Collapses.

Alwar, India, Sept 1 (AP).—Sixteen persons were killed and many were seriously injured today as a result of the collapse of a veranda during a religious ceremony here.

St. Louis Acts To Quiet Fears Of Sleep Death

Health Authorities Hear Outsiders Shunning Epidemic.

St. Louis, Sept. 1 (AP).—Hearing that visitors were avoiding St. Louis and Missouri because of the "sleeping sickness" outbreak, city and Federal health officers today issued statements designed to allay fear of outsiders.

Out-of-town students are canceling registration in St. Louis and Missouri schools, Dr. Joseph Bredeck, city health commissioner, said.

"People are unnecessarily alarmed," he added. "They dread visiting St. Louis or even going through the city. The fear is becoming widespread outside of the city, so we feel a statement from the health division is pertinent."

"There is no evidence the disease is contagious. The number of cases per population is very low. Business is going on the same as usual in St. Louis and schools will be opened here Tuesday.

"The disease is more prevalent in suburban areas than in the city proper, and I feel that business men and others who have business here may do so without undue risks."

Dr. Bredeck said no cases had been found to originate in the business and hotel districts. With 424 cases reported so far in a population of about 1,200,000 in "Greater St. Louis," the rate was about four cases in 10,000. The death list today stood at 54, or about one death in seven or eight cases.

Dr. Cornelius B. Phillip arrived from the Government Spotted Fever Laboratory at Hamilton, Mont., today to join in the insect phase of the concerted investigation of all possible transmission agents.

Ban on Italians' Photos In Newspapers Ordered

Rome, Sept. 1 (AP).—Publicity seekers who make their presence at public gatherings the occasion to get their names and photographs into public print have been called to order by Achille Starace, secretary of the Fascist Party.

Starace issued an order tonight prohibiting the publication of photographs and names of persons attending meetings. The order affects Starace himself and all others except Premier Mussolini and a few other government officials. Photographs of objects or crowds, however, may be published.

County Board Plans Beer Tax For Arlington

Special Meeting Is Called for Action on Newly Legalized Brew.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The Arlington County board will meet specially today to adopt an ordinance providing county taxes, on the legalized 3.2 beer.

In accordance with an act of the General Assembly, the board will adopt an ordinance providing for the following county taxes: For retailers, $10.74; for bottlers, $25; for manufacturers, $50; for wholesalers, $25, and for distributors, $25.

Retailers who purchase beer outside the State will be required to post a surety bond of $1,000. The ordinance will be presented by Board Member Lyman M. Kelley. Licenses will be issued by Commissioner of Revenue Harry K. Green. All applications after September 15 will require approval by Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of the Circuit Court.

Club Head to Be Guest.

Miss Hilda Marshall, State president of the Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, will be the honor guest of the Arlington County unit at a luncheon in the Shoreham Hotel, Washington, today. She will be the guest of Mrs. Katherine Cohen, past president of the local club.

NRA Support Is Pledged.

The Arlington County Monarch Club yesterday voted to support the country-wide NRA campaign. Walter U. Varney urged all members to cooperate.

Alexandria Sets Beer Tax Rates

City Retail License to Be $50; Manufacturers to Pay $250.

Alexandria City Council last night passed an amendment to the city ordinance pertaining to the issuance of beer sales licenses.

It was decided to fix the tax on manufacturers' licenses at $250 a year.

Bottlers' licenses will be $100 per annum; wholesale distributors, resident or nonresident, at $100, with an additional tax of $1 on each truck or vehicle used in distribution. For retail only, the license is to be $50 for general sale, and $25 for off-sale.

Mayor Edmund F. Ticer called a meeting for Tuesday night for final action on the sale of beer.

These licenses will be required in addition to the State licenses.

The Federal Diary

(Trade-mark Applied For)
By Morgan Baker

These four charming women are among the delegates from Washington to the convention of the National Federation of Federal Employes at Kansas City. Left to right: Mrs. Ola G. King, Treasury; Miss Violet Turner, Engraving and Printing; Miss Maude Miller, Engraving and Printing, and Miss Mignon Miller, Engraving and Printing. Miss Turner's photo by Clinedinst; others by Harris & Ewing.

FURTHER dismissals from Government service will be vigorously attacked when the national convention of the American Federation of Government Employes opens here September 11. Included in the tentative agenda of the session are four other points as major objectives.

They are:

1. No compulsory retirements.
2. Thirty-year voluntary retirements.
3. Return of the 15 per cent.
4. Repeal of section 213 of the economy act (marriage clause).

John P. Simpson, attorney, I. C. C., is reported slated to succeed John Arthur Shaw, president, whose term expires at the close of the convention, September 13. Mr. Simpson was very active in the campaign among Federal employes last winter to obtain rent reductions, it is recalled. He also took a leading part in the drive inaugurated by The Washington Post to reduce the price of milk.

Claude Babcock, former Civil Service Commission secretary, also looms as a leading candidate. David R. Glass, first vice president of the Federation, also may be a serious contender, many of his friends aver.

No opposition apepars for Clark J. McLane to succeed himself as secretary. Mr. McLane is a member of the Veterans Administration Lodge.

While the rent question has been dormant for the last few weeks, several members of the Federation indicated yesterday that further efforts will be made to secure lower apartment prices this fall.

The executive committee will meet two days prior to the convention, which will be at the Hamilton Hotel. Constitutional matters will be discussed.

C. A. Huston Retires.

One of the best designers ever in Federal service retired this week because of failing eyes. He is C. A. Huston, of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Mr. Huston entered the Treasury Department in 1902 and advanced to chief designer, which position he held for many years.

Poor light in his office was largely to blame for the optical trouble, it is said. Mr. Huston will continue to live in Washington, except for frequent visits with Mrs. Huston to their old home in Lansdowne, Pa.

Popularity Contest.

Down the home stretch.

Tomorrow the participants in The Washington Post's Federal Diary Popularity Contest will know how they stand with only one more day to go.

Votes will be accepted through today until 7 p. m. and tomorrow from 11 a. m. to noon and from 6 p. m. to midnight, when the contest officially closes.

Soon the most popular women and men in Government service will know which of the prizes they win.

As a reminder to friends of the 50 nominees in each division, the prizes are:

First—To the most popular woman and most popular man will be awarded an all expense tour of the World's Fair. The winners in this division will be allowed to take along a companion each, also as guests of the Post.

Second—To the next most popular woman and man will be awarded an all expense trip to Virginia Beach via the Norfolk and Washington Line. They will be guests of the Cavalier Hotel.

Third—Two gold watches from R. Harris & Co., await the woman and man with the third highest total of votes.

Oil Board Rules On Virginia Tax

Permits Distributors to Absorb Part of Levy Pending Hearing.

Nearby Virginia gasoline distributors may continue absorbing 3 cents of the State gasoline tax pending a final hearing, the National Oil Board ruled yesterday.

Representatives of retail distributors, headed by Senator Harry Flood Byrd, told the board 170 independents would be forced out of business if the oil code provision were allowed to stand. Members of the board stated that 100 other appeals of a similar nature had been received.

Action on appeals will be taken up, the board said, and until a final decision is reached the code provides the status quo may be preserved. This will mean distributors for nearby Virginia retailers will be allowed to continue paying part of the 5-cent State tax, keeping prices on District levels. Meanwhile, the board asked that Virginia take action itself.

Capt. Crandal Mackey, dealers' counsel, declared that "the NRA claims 2,500,000 men have been put back to work since April, but this will mean 1,500,000 men will be put out of work."

Andrew Oehmann To Be Buried Today

Pioneer Merchant Spent 43 Years in Active Business Here.

Funeral services for Andrew Oehmann, 83-year-old retired confectioner, will be held this morning at 8:30 at the residence, 1103 Shepherd street northeast. Interment will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Born in Germany in 1850, he came to the United States at 17 and entered the wholesale and retail confectionary business, retiring in 1910, after 43 years.

He was active in Catholic charities, being past president of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul and the Holy Name Society.

Surviving are his widow, three sons, Col. John W. Oehmann, building inspector of the District; J. Henry Oehmann and Andrew L. Oehmann; a daughter, Florence R. Oehmann, and eight grandchildren, all of Washington.

After 26 years in the Army, Master Sergt. Frank W. Smith retired yesterday, and Fort Myer soldiers turned out in a review in his honor. Lieut. Col. C. P. George, acting commanding officer of Fort Myer, left, congratulated Sergt. Smith on his record as he bade him farewell.

Virginians Hit Snarl on Bill To Aid Schools

Compromise Emergency Plan Transmitted to Legislature.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 1 (AP).—The extraordinary Virginia General Assembly tonight reached the eve of a prospective adjournment with the problem of school relief still unsolved. It is proposed to adjourn tomorrow.

A compromise reached today between the governor, his advisory commission and the State board of education would provide a safeguard of $150,000 to be thrown up as protection against closing any of the public schools before the regular Assembly session, and leave the problem of the remainder of the school year in the lap of the January session.

Finance Plan Rejected.

The budget advisory commission refused, however, to recommend the adoption by the General Assembly of a board of education resolution demanding submission to the regular session of a plan of State and local financing of a State board program under which all free schools of the State would be enabled to remain in session for a term of not less than eight months.

$685,000 Sought.

Handling the situation carefully throughout the day, leaders did not bring the school question directly to the floor, but after the matter is threshed out in a joint meeting of the House Appropriations Committee and the Senate Finance Committee tonight, it will be the principal problem for tomorrow.

State school authorities have asserted that at least $685,000 was needed to assure a full nine months' term in all of the Virginia counties. They asserted this was made necessary by the 30 per cent reduction made in general fund appropriations by the governor under the 1932-34 appropriations act.

Gov. Pollard, backed up by Wilbur C. Hall, chairman of the House Finance Committee, and Senator W. A. Garrett, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, questioned the wisdom of such an additional appropriation in the presence of an already mounting deficit.

Today the issue was met in a five-hour conference between the governor and the State Board of Education. Growing out of the conference came the resolution by the board advising the governor and his budget commission that the board would be content with an appropriation to assure maintenance of all schools until the regular session.

Brewery Planned Near District Line

New Prince Georges County Plant Seeks $500,000 Corporation Permit.

Plans for a brewery in Prince Georges County, just across the District line, east of River road and the B. & O. freight line, were revealed yesterday following application of the Pilzer Brewing Co. to the State Tax Commission at Baltimore.

Henry Levin and Philip Rosen, of Beaver Heights, and T. J. Huddelston, of Bladensburg, are listed as those seeking the incorporation with $500,000 capital.

A warehouse, planned with the brewery, would lie between the B. & O. freight line and the Philadelphia, Baltimore & Washington Railroad Co. freight line.

Flood Area Wells Feared Polluted

Sanitary Survey Started by Prince Georges Health Officer.

Survey of sanitary conditions in the Bladensburg area flooded last week is being made by Dr. A. B. Hooton, Prince Georges County health officer, and a State sanitary engineer.

Dr. Hooton announced that the flood waters had carried sewage into wells and springs of the neighborhood, especially in North Brentwood, the colored settlement. Sufficient time has not elapsed for typhoid fever to develop but many must have been in contact with possible infection, he said.

The doctor urged the boiling of drinking water.

Chamber at Herndon To Hold Meeting Today

Dr. William Mosley Brown, Ballston, will be the principal speaker this afternoon at the luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce of Herndon.

The club's industrial committee is expected to make recommendations at the meeting regarding location of a cheese and butter factory at Herndon.

Artery Cut

Boy Falls on Jar Carried on Butterfly Hunt at Takoma Park.

Onnie Lehto, 16, of 503 Elm avenue, Takoma Park, Md., slipped and fell on a specimen jar he was carrying yesterday when hunting butterflies. He was taken to Washington Sanitarium Hospital in Takoma Park by Town Policeman Frank Lane.

Dr. Norman Kimball, found an artery in the boy's arm was severed.

Four Sentenced In Marlboro

D. C. Men Figure in Cases; Three Are Jailed for Default of Fines.

One man was sent to jail and another fined in Marlboro police court yesterday as the result of a recent mixup with police near District Heights, Md., on August 12.

An automobile, operated by Milton S. Marshall, 814 Third street southeast, was sighted by Prince Georges County Policeman William Gray near Centerville. Gray said the man was speeding.

A chase that ensued led to District Heights. Here Gray was attacked by Adron Marshall, brother of the driver. Adron was committed to jail in default of $25.20 fine for breaking a bottle in the road and assault, while Milton paid a fine of $11.70 for reckless driving.

James D. Fisher, 65 M street southeast, also was in jail for having no registration card and improper lights. He was unable to pay a $7.50 fine.

Herbert F. Proctor, who was unable to pay a fine of $101.50 for driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, was also held in Marlboro.

Fairfax County To Tax Beer Rest of Year

Retailers Must Pay $5; Town Council Adopts Similar Schedule.

Merchants of Fairfax County selling beer will be required to obtain a county license which will cost $5 for the remainder of 1933, according to an ordinance adopted by the board of supervisors at a special meeting yesterday. This will be in addition to the State and Federal license.

The new ordinance, in accordance with the new State beer law which goes into effect Monday, contains practically the same provisions as the State law governing sales. The licenses are to be issued by the county commissioner of revenue at the same time as State licenses.

The county license tax schedule is exclusive of incorporated towns. For the balance of this year the tax will be manufacturers, $100; bottlers, $50; wholesalers or distributors, $25, and retailers, $5. For 1934 the license will cost manufacturers $300; bottlers, $150; wholesalers and distributors, $75, and retailers, $10.

The Fairfax council yesterday afternoon adopted the following license schedule, which will be the same for all or any portion of a year: Manufacturers, $100; bottlers, $50; wholesalers, $25, and retailers, $10. The licenses will be issued by the mayor.

John T. Schaaff, 76, Old Resident, Dies

John Thomas Schaaff, 76, died last night at his residence, 1824 Monroe street northwest, after a lingering illness. Born in Prince George County, Va., he had been a resident of Washington for 40 years, and for 15 years was experimental engineer with the International Business Machines Association. He took part in Masonic activities and belonged to the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Funeral services will be held at his residence at 10 a. m. Monday, with private burial at Glenwood Cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, Lillian Arnold Schaaff; three daughters, Mrs. Walter J. Porter, Flushing, N. Y.; Mrs. Donald B. Clement and Mrs. Mary S. Greear, both of Washington, and two sons, Charles H. Schaaff 2d, Rochester, N. Y., and Joseph B. Schaaff, Washington.

Theater Bills Assembled for Labor Day Week as Seen Through Reviewers' Eyes

Stage Romance Tugs at Heart At the Palace

Earle and Fox Features on Side of Farce-Comedy; Two Holdovers.

"BROADWAY TO HOLLYWOOD." — Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of a screen play by Willard Mack and Edgar Allen Woolf, featuring Alice Brady and Frank Morgan, with Jackie Cooper, Madge Evans, Russell Hardie, May Robson, Jimmy Durante, Eddie Quillan and Albertina Rasch dancers. Directed by Willard Mack. Reviewed Friday morning.

It is not merely an imaginative romance of the theater that is set forth in this widely heralded subject. It is the history of show business from the days of Tony Pastor, on Fourteenth street, in New York, to the gaudy splendor of the modern cinema as it expresses itself on the West Coast—the requiem of vaudeville, the saga of the small-timer!

The indomitable spirit, the unquenchable egotism, the devotion to tradition that are part and parcel of the makeup of every trouper worthy of the name all are reflected in this realistic depiction of the careers of those making up the famous vaudeville family of Hacketts through three generations.

Their beginnings are modest. The Hacketts at first are no more than a man and wife, ambitious, gifted, on the way up. When their son is born—and reared in a dressing-room trunk—he becomes at once a part of the "act." By the time he is 5 he is a hoofer of no mean dimensions.

In due course he marries and his son becomes another of the dancing Hacketts, but this time in talking pictures instead of in his parents' revered vaudeville. Much to the chagrin of his grandparents, he "goes Hollywood" in a big way and almost writes a period to the name of Hackett in the theater by the excesses of his dissipation.

Ted Hackett, the first, has no more than straightened out the tangled mess of his grandson's life than he answers his last curtain on the set in Hollywood watching the idol of his eye rehearse a dance routine for his next big picture.

Wealth of Colorful Detail.

Such, in most sketchy fashion, is the major narrative that is carried through the anthology that reaches from "Broadway to Hollywood." From this brief summary nothing can be gathered of the wealth of illuminating detail with which the authors have adorned their tale. It is rich in authentic characterization, redolent of the theater and a turning back of the years for all whose memories range back to the turn of the century.

There are frequent anachronisms scattered about through the development of the play's dramatic incident, but not any of such consequence as to jeopardize the rounded effect of the whole.

For instance, it is unimportant to this generation that the finale of "Whoop Deedoo," at Weber and Fields old Music Hall on West Twenty-Ninth street in New York, is a Technicolor spectacle of such magnitude that even the vastness of Radio City's Music Hall would not be able to accommodate it, whereas Weber and Fields', in fact, was about the size of a cigar box.

Neither is it of vital concern that a dancer, trying out for a place in the Weber and Fields company with Fay Templeton, Lillian Russell, Pete Dailey, Willie Collier and all the other celebrities of an older era, should execute a strictly present-day, broken-rhythm tap dance such as had never been heard of back there in the late 90s and early 1900s.

These minor sins of commission on the side of a nimble and gorgeous production, designed strictly for the edification of today's audiences, in no way impair the cumulative dramatic forcefulness, the emotional integrity or the deep vein of human interest that characterize this admirable film.

Alice Brady and Frank Morgan, as the original Hacketts—and their counterparts can be found in many a noted vaudeville family of the last four decades—are the finest the cameras and microphones ever have found them. Miss Brady, especially, offers a character study that completely overshadows what many deemed her fine work in "When Ladies Meet," and makes her earlier effort seem sheer burlesque in comparison. Mr. Morgan, as the song-and-dance man whom Time passed by without his knowing it, is as nearly perfect as actors of the first rank are ever permitted to be.

The Supporting Cast.

The others in the cast do only fragmentary "bits" compared with these two. Jackie Cooper, Mickey Dooley, Russell Hardie and Eddie Quillan are the second and third generations of Hacketts at various ages, and Madge Evans is the wife of the second, who meets a tragic end, but leaves a son to carry on the family name and tradition.

Russell Hardie is a young actor who looks like Harry Richman and sounds like Roger Pryor without possessing quite the finesse of either. May Robson and Jimmy Durante are present only in one brief scene each.

Laurel & Hardy, in "The Midnight Patrol," one of their comedies of lesser worth; Cab Calloway and his orchestra in a Betty Boop cartoon comedy, "The Old Man of the Mountain," and the Metrotone News supplement a feature that will exert a stronger appeal to veteran theatergoers than to a present generation to whom much with which "Broadway to Hollywood" deals so reverently is largely, if not wholly, legendary.

"GOODBYE AGAIN."—First National picturization of the play by George Haight and Alan Scott, featuring Warren William, Joan Blondell and Genevieve Tobin, with Helen Chandler, Wallace Ford, Hugh Herbert, Ray Cooke and Ruth Donnelly. Directed by Michael Curtiz. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

Out of a gayly farcial stage comedy, the cinema has here contrived to evolve one of the maddest, merriest and most thoroughly entertaining bits of risque tomfoolery that has been seen on a local screen since—one is tempted to say—Ernst Lubitsch contributed his last piece of domestic fluff to the beguilement of the guileless.

There would be no point in pretending that "Goodbye Again" is a drama of any special significance beyond an hour or so of laughter. It provides no abstruse social problem to carry away from the theater and mull over in the mind; it teaches no lesson and points no moral. It merely sets out to prove what a devil of a mess a popular novelist and lecturer can get himself into when he permits himself to be enmeshed again in an affair with an impressionable and fluttery young nitwit with whom he had had a mildly exhilarating escapade eight years before when both were fresh from college.

Even so, nothing much would have happened had not the family of the comfortably married young woman and the lecturer's private secretary taken a hand in the matter on the side of chastity, decorum and bafflement of the scandal mongers. Once that got started, involving Mrs. Harvey Wilson's meek little husband, her sister, her sister's beau, Arthur, and Author Bixby's alert amanuensis, Anne, complications, difficulties and harassments pile up without end.

Excels Play.

At this juncture, the picture quite transcends the play in scope of scene and variety of movement. It visualizes all of the weird events which the stage could make known only by implication. Thus much of the most diverting action takes place on a Pullman train traveling by night from Cleveland to Albany, with more animated scenes following in the Albany Hotel next morning. On the stage, the comedy never got out of the hotel room in Cleveland. This is one of the few instances in which an original stage work has profited by being transferred to celluloid.

The piece is tremendously well cast. Warren William and Joan Blondell team flawlessly as the novelist and his secretary, the former revealing a flair for resourceful and variegated comedy that has not heretofore been disclosed and Miss Blondell adapting her crisp style to a role that might have been fashioned to her measure so perfectly does it fit her talents.

Surprise Roles.

But the surprises of the picture are supplied by Genevieve Tobin, who is peculiarly adept at this sort of thing, and Hugh Herbert, who, as her husband, merely curious to see Kenneth Bixby to learn of what godlike stuff this hero of his wife's is made, turns in a superlatively well-done study of a hen-pecked little man with a gorgeous sense of humor and a genius for self-effacement.

All in all, a pretty swell piece of carefree and joyous pretending.

On the stage, Gracie Barrie assumes the duties of mistress of ceremonies and scores decisively—as she always does—in a cycle of her own distinctive type of songs. It fell to Miss Barrie's lot, both before and after her delightful few moments with "Happy As the Day Is Long," "Just Couldn't Say Goodbye" and "Let's Call It a Day," to introduce with eager brevity four additional acts.

Manning and Class opened the bill with clever feats on the tight-wire, and were followed by Sammy Lewis and Patty Moore, familiar song-and-dance comics, who wind up their act with some difficult business on a flight of steps. Lewis and Moore are almost a local institution.

Hillbilly Comedy.

Barney Grant, "the boy from Missouri," assisted by "Maw and Paw and Cousin Chester," offers a hillbilly act that scores in the stupendous manner of all such backwoods diversion in this day and age.

The outstanding smash hit of the program, of course, is registered by the "Song Writers on Parade," in which five of the foremost tunesters of Tin Pan Alley slay the customers with the most melodious of their compositions. These five are Charlie Tobias, acting also as master of ceremonies; Al Sherman, Murray Mencher, Al Lewis and Gerald Marks. Their act is unchanged in form from their last appearance here. It needs no changing to be a consistent hit.

A Grantland Rice "Sportlight," concerning "What Makes a Champion," the Universal News, with Graham McNamee doing his excited best to make each item more important than it is, and the finale from a Mendelssohn concerto for piano and orchestra, with piano passages splendidly played by Bob Stickney, one of the new members of the Earle's revamped and improved orchestra, complete a rousing holiday bill.

Loew's Fox

"THREE-CORNERED MOON." — Paramount's picturization of the play by Gertrude Tonkonogy, featuring Claudette Colbert, Richard Arlen and Mary Boland, with Wallace Ford, Lyda Roberti, Joan Marsh, William Bakewell and Hardie Albright. Directed by Elliott Nugent. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

Taking seriously its own admonition of last week, to "turn back the clock," Loew's Fox leafs back through the pages of theatrical history to that remote era when the Duncan Sisters crashed through to the top with their burlesqued version of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," otherwise known as "Topsy and Eva."

For the 3,500 patrons of yesterday afternoon's first performance, Rosetta Duncan's Topsy and Sister Vivian's Eva still held the scintillating beauty of an original production. Scenery, staging and costuming of resplendant beauty came second to the exceptional performance of the stars. Eva's blonde simplicity and ingenuousness make a perfect contrast to the impish Topsy, who, by her own admission, is "the orneryest nigger below the Dixon and Mason line."

Tabloid operettas have been presented before at the Fox with distinction, but none has combined the elements of song, color and dance quite to the same extent that makes this revival of "Topsy and Eva" a noteworthy achievement in the local annals of vaudeville.

Besides the engaging performances of the Duncan sisters, Margaret Reynolds, the solo tap dancer; John Hendricks, as Uncle Tom; Dianne Dering and Phillips Tully, furnishing the love interest as Liza and George, and Ben Roberts, as the snarling Simon Legree, deserve especial mention. Outstanding, too, is the chorus, which can sing fully as well as it dances.

The Rimplegar family, featured in the lunar phenomenon, "Three-Cornered Moon," is slightly reminiscent of the one in "Another Language," with this very important distinction, the Rimplegars never take themselves seriously. In fact, whenever there is an opportunity to be serious, even in the slightest way, some one in the all-star cast decides it is all wrong, and forthwith the effects of Dame Luna again become manifest.

Hilarious Nonsense.

Perhaps it was meant to be a burlesque on "Another Language," or perhaps something else, but whatever it was, "Three-Cornered Moon" is about the most continuously hilarious conglomeration of utter nonsense that has come along. Usually one expects more of Claudette Colbert, Richard Arlen and Mary Boland than gossamer comedy—but you'd be surprised what this collection can do along that line!

As motivation, there is the 1929 stock market crash and the necessity for the members of the Rimplegar family to seek remunerative employment. And there the semblance of rationality ceases. But withal, "Three-Cornered Moon" is one of those pictures over which one will chuckle for some time, if not actually guffaw.

A release of Fox Movietone News and the usual flock of trailers separate the two parts of an elegant program.

RKO-Keith's

"MORNING GLORY."—RKO-Radio picturization of a play by Zoe Akins, adapted to the screen by Howard J. Green, starring Katharine Hepburn, with Douglas Fairbanks, jr., Adolphe Menjou, Mary Duncan and C. Aubrey Smith. Directed by Lowell Sherman. Reviewed Friday afternoon. Second week.

Held over for a second week and playing to a house where there is not enough room for the cash customers is that most astonishing young dramatic actress, Miss Katharine Hepburn, in an adaption of Zoe Akin's play, "Morning Glory."

Even the most skeptical and not-easily-thrilled of our motion picture critics have waxed ecstatic over the performance rendered by Miss Hepburn in this vehicle. As the girl who yearned to be a great actress, but whose days were a series of pitiful pretenses and shoddy failures, she is inimitable. At times she vaguely resembles Garbo, or even Bernhardt, in some of her lovelier moments of immobile beauty; at other times she is just a very thin girl with high cheekbones and a big mouth, but at all times, the magic and distinction of Katharine Hepburn is the impassioned moment of life itself.

Orchid Tossing.

And while we are tossing orchids so lightly around, mention must be made of Douglas Fairbanks, jr., who sheds his last vestige of self-consciousness and makes the role of the young playwright a characterization of likeable sincerity. That grand old trouper, C. Aubrey Smith, is splendid as the actor who is outliving his glory, but doing it gracefully and philosophically. Adolphe Menjou makes the part of the producer both human and understandable, while Mary Duncan, as the spoiled darling of Broadway, gives a whole-hearted and enjoyable performance.

"Morning Glory" may not be a great play, but the outstanding acting of the star and her supporting cast make it a picture you will long remember.

Added attractions include an amusing Aesop Fable, "Fresh Ham;" a not-so-amusing Clark & McCullough comedy, "Kicking the Crown Around;" a Pathe News, with shots of Kate Smith and a supporting group (as though Kate needed support!) of stage and screen stars speaking for the NRA, and a Vagabond Adventure, consisting of travel pictures of Antwerp.

Columbia

"TUGBOAT ANNIE." — Mtro-Goldyn-Myer picture based on stories by Norman Reilly Raine, costarring Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery, with Robert Young and Maureen O'Sullivan. Directed by Mervin LeRoy. Return engagement, reviewed Friday afternoon.

That good old tug, the Narcissus, tied up at Mr. Loew's Columbia pier yesterday for another try at F street.

With Marie Dressler equaling her performance in "Min and Bill" and Wallace Beery enjoying the "fattest" role that has been his, it is no wonder that there should be a third week of "Tugboat Annie" and the vicissitudes of her life keeping the tug in running order, her husband away from the bottles (hair tonic and other beverages), and her son's affection from being too much strained by the father's weakness.

Of Marie Dressler one need but mention her name and it is all said. Likewise, of Mr. Beery additional comment is unnecessary. Robert Young and Maureen O'Sullivan furnish the love interest.

New short subjects surround this Columbia screening. "Ducky Dear" presents Arthur Hoyt in one of his best comedies, revolving around a switching of spouses; Flip the Frog traipses through the cartoon, "Pale Face," and Paramount News furnishes the current events.

Film Table.

Feature pictures are presented on the following schedules:

Palace — "Broadway to Hollywood," at 11:15 a. m., 1:20, 3:25, 5:30, 7:35 and 9:45 p. m.

Earle—"Goodbye Again," at 11:15 a. m., 1:55, 4:35, 7:20 and 10 p. m. Stage shows at 12:55, 3:35, 6:15 and 9 p. m.

Uruguay Asks Nations To Pan-American Fete

Buenos Aires, Sept. 1 (AP).—Uruguay invited the American republics today to participate "in the interest of fraternal reciprocity" in the seventh Pan-American congress to be held in December.

The invitation expressed hope that all American nations would be represented.

Claire Windsor, Read in Mexico

Witness Says He Trailed Actress and Broker to Agua Caliente.

Los Angeles, Sept. 1 (AP).—Testimony about an Agua Caliente trip taken by Claire Windsor and Alfred C. Read, jr., was given today in trial of the $100,000 "heart balm" suit of Read's former wife, Mrs. Marian Read, against the actress.

The trip was described by E. F. Wharton, Long Beach banker, friend of Mrs. Read's family for years.

Testifying as a witness, Wharton said Mrs. Read learned Miss Windsor and Read planned a jaunt to the resort while Miss Windsor had a stage engagement in San Diego. Mrs. Read induced him to trail the couple, Wharton related.

Read was waiting at the stage door when the actress finished her show on a Saturday night in March, 1932, Wharton testified. He said he saw them dancing together at a San Diego hotel and the following day saw them at the Casino in Agua Caliente with friends, and at the race track.

Explaining out of court how Mrs. Read obtained the love letters Miss Windsor had written him, Read said he let her have them during a reconciliation after their first estrangement.

Colorado Urges Insurance Move

Would Put Missouri State Life Firm Under Own Laws to Save It.

Denver, Sept. 1 (AP).—A move to place the Missouri State Life Insurance Co. under the Colorado insurance laws to avoid a receivership and costs of liquidation was started today by Jackson M. Cochrane, State insurance commissioner.

The company was taken over Monday by R. Emmett O'Malley, superintendent of insurance for Missouri.

Seventy million dollars' worth of insurance has been written by the Missouri company in Colorado, of which $62,000,000 is held in group insurance through the Federal Postal Employes' Association of Colorado.

O'Malley telegraphed Cochrane he had arranged a segregation and impounding of premium payments, pending a final disposition of property, expected promptly. He advised policy holders to pay their premiums and said any plan approved will provide for payment of death and maturity claims in full.

Carolina Lynching Reward Offered

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 1 (AP).—Gov. Ehringhaus today offered $200 reward for conviction of the person or persons responsible for the killing last Sunday of Dock Rogers, Pender County Negro, which he recognized as a lynching.

Simultaneously he ordered Woods Kellum, of Wilmington, solicitor of the district, to make a thorough investigation.

Rogers was killed after he had engaged in a gun battle with officers and citizens seeking to arrest him for shooting a white woman and a deputy sheriff.

He was driven from his house when it caught fire, and was shot down as he emerged.

Radio Waves and Ripples

OZZIE NELSON, that loyal son of Rutgers, the personable Harriett Hilliard and the humorous Joe Penner will join hands and voices in a commercial note Sunday night, October 8, N. B. C.

This is Nelson's first commercial, despite his good and continuous playing from some of the better hotels for many months. Both Ozzie and Penner are comparative youngsters. Less than ten years ago Penner was working in an automobile factory in Detroit. There was one of those amateur nights and Joe came on as a half-witted boy inquiring if anybody wanted to buy a duck. The rest is history, of a sort.

Even less than ten years back Nelson was doing a good job of quarter-backing at Rutgers. He, too, stepped up. Less than ten years ago Harriett Hilliard was probably just as pretty as she is now, and although that's all we know about her, it's enough.

Harken to this program, ladies and you complimented men, for it sounds from afar like one of the bright moments of October's brighter blue weather.

●

Phil Lampkin, local musical maestro, will serve as guest artist on a commercial of salon music, WRC, shortly. Others on the program will include Charlie Luke and Madeline Sheppard. Years of band playing and MCing have made Lampkin one of radio's best bets locally. He's left-handed, has a new trick pair of spectacles, used to box for University of California and beyond that, you'll have to meet the man himself. Anyhow, good luck, Doc. And you don't need it. You have a plenty already.

●

If you ever hear the announcement, "This is WJSV, across the troubled Potomac from Washington," you'll know now that it means the station wants help from one or all of its various officials who, at the time, might be away at their respective tasks about the Capital. That's the signal.

Yesterday the station wanted either Mr. Butcher, Mr. Bowman or Mr. Church. They sent out that "troubled" business and waited for the prearranged reaction. We hate to relate it, but none of the gentlemen heard it, they were so busy with other work. But WJSV went on just the same. We hope this doesn't give anybody an idea.

Ozzie Nelson and Harriett Hilliard who, with Joe Penner (insert) unite their various talents in one of the new broadcasts of the new season. Nelson was quite a quarter back with Rutgers. Penner was a worker in an automobile factory, and Harriett—well, she was just Harriett.

Waves.

Stanley Bell, WMAL, had the pleasure (yes, it was), of introducing Prof. Brown, of George Washington University, over the air the other evening. The same Prof. Brown who flunked Bell in physics twice back in those good old school daze.

Kate Smith has been to town and gone. This time to hand to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson a transcription of the big NRA broadcast of last Sunday.

Ted Collins, la Smith's fat and capable manager, has put in the mail 16 pairs of suspenders for Don Craig, recuperating dramatic critic of The News.

WHO DEPARTMENT.

Who was the bashful young singer who had himself introduced as John Barlow over the air the other evening, because he didn't want the boys in the office to kid him if he broke? However, he got plenty of bouquets via telephone just a few minutes after his mike massaging.

Who's that young lady who called this department twice last night with two interesting, but unprintable, items on local radio figures?

Watch and listen for Freddie Rich's special presentation of that new one, "Black Jazz."

Some one suggests this for a radio playlet. It's a terse record of a regular case at one of our local hospitals—"Woman fainted. Son got married. She couldn't take it." This shows you the type of some of the suggestions.

Ethel Waters and Schnozzle Durante seemed best to us on that movie broadcast the other night. Fifi Dorsay the worst.

New unique man—one who doesn't make a crack about the mountain when first seeing our own Kate.

Add Kate—How many Washingtonians discovered her?

Please, Mr. B. A. Rolfe, don't play all of your numbers in exactly the same tempo as you always have. Can't you change just once?

When you hear 'em say, "Say when," think of Fiddlin' John Carson's elaboration of the remark. An announcer in a well-known Southern station was pouring out a little juice from the cornfields before a Carson broadcast one evening. "Say when, John," he warned as he tilted the jug. "When it runs over," came back the fiddler.

Pushing Public Works.

The approach of autumn admonishes the Public Works Administration to expedite in all possible ways the distribution of funds to relieve unemployment. Secretary Ickes has instructed all subordinates to speed up their efforts, and to prevent delays in office procedure which would hold up the beginning of work. In the meantime he announces new allotments for river and harbor projects and other enterprises upon which work can be started without delay.

The public works program is intended to supplement private and corporation building operations as well as to provide direct unemployment relief.

In Mississippi flood control work, Federal building projects, naval construction, and other projects of a Federal nature the first large drafts upon labor can be made, for the reason that plans and designs have been perfected and all preliminaries adjusted. State and regional projects, except roads, are less advanced. They must undergo a thorough scrutiny as to feasibility, including the question of cost of future upkeep. Projects which would be a drag upon taxpayers for years to come are undesirable, even if some unemployment could be relieved by undertaking them at this time. From the long list of proposals laid before the Public Works Administration it should be possible to select sound enterprises meeting every requirement of public need and reasonable cost of maintenance.

Work on highways is affording some employment already, and is about to be greatly expanded. During this fall much of the $400,000,000 allotted to highways probably can be advantageously expended, furnishing a demand for ordinary labor in all States.

Increasing Bus Service.

New York City is gradually getting rid of its surface street car lines. The Board of Estimate has just agreed to the replacement of nearly 100 miles of trolley routes by motor buses, to the evident delight of property owners and passengers as well as the civic organizations which for several years have been urging replacement of the noisy cars by motor vehicles that lend themselves to more flexible traffic regulation.

The franchises were awarded to the Comprehensive Omnibus Corporation and the New York City Omnibus Corporation, a subsidiary of the New York City Railways Corporation, which in turn is owned by the Fifth Avenue Coach Company. The principal longitudinal streets to be motorized include all those east of Fifth Avenue and the Sixth and Seventh Avenue lines, while seven cross-town routes will be operated. The franchises run for 25 years and require the surrender of the perpetual franchises now held by the car companies. The city is to receive 10 per cent of the gross receipts of cross-town lines and 3 per cent from other lines.

This prospective change is made without sacrifice of New York's 5-cent fare, which has been the subject of many financial and political battles, but always retained. The New York City Omnibus Corporation is to remove at least 60 per cent of its tracks within 18 months, but the new cross-town franchises will not go into effect until next January, when those of present independent operators expire. It is believed the new agreements will give New York City a bus system as well unified as can be expected under the present perpetual car franchises held in varied ownership.

Taxation of Whisky.

The question of Federal taxation of distilled liquors may arise soon, in view of the prospect of early repeal of the eighteenth amendment. It is suggested in some quarters that the States, hard pressed for revenue, may be tempted to impose such high taxes upon whisky and other distilled liquors that bootleggers will be afforded an opportunity to do a thriving business. The excise tax, before prohibition, was imposed exclusively by the Federal Government, but many ways might be devised by the States to draw revenue from a business that is expected to attain huge proportions.

Dr. Doran, Commissioner of Industrial Alcohol, has made it clear that only 10 or 15 per cent of the pure medicinal whisky now distilled under Government supervision is required as a basis for blending with alcohol by whisky rectifiers. Rectified whisky is entirely different from the liquor which is now legally dispensed for medicinal purposes. Of the latter, about 4,000,000 gallons will be available for release in 1934; but from it the rectifiers can make nearly ten times as much blended whisky.

All licensed rectifiers as well as distillers would be required to pay the internal revenue tax. But the virtually unlimited quantity of rectified spirits that would be ready for the market may cause the States to believe that millions can be collected in taxes, which, if imposed, might open the way for profitable bootlegging. The bootlegging industry is still highly organized and well financed, and it is experienced in evasion of the law. Excessive taxation by the Federal and State governments might diminish legitimate sales and thereby reduce revenues, while encouraging an illicit traffic that would be difficult to exterminate.

The Little Pig Profit.

Under Secretary Wallace's plan to purchase 4,000,000 pigs under 100 pounds in weight by offering a special price which will remove them from market competition next year when they would have become full grown porkers, the youngsters are being rushed to the slaughter. Over 40,000 arrived in Chicago in one day, exceeding the packing house capacity by 5,000. Reports indicate that throughout the country probably 1,000,000 piglets will be marketed by the end of the first week.

The offer of a $4 flat premium on 1,000,000 sows exceeding 275 pounds in weight has not met with the same prompt response. Whether this is due to the fact that many sows are found to be underweight, or, as Secretary Wallace is credited with suggesting, the farmers shrewdly anticipate more little pigs to sell next year, has not been clearly determined. But there is no question about the way the youthful progeny is rolling in, and it looks as though the full 4,000,000 quota would be received by the dead line set for October 1. If the mother hogs are not marketed the number of youngsters may be increased.

There has been some confusion as to just how the profits for the farmer is figured out. The general program is expected to increase the market price of hogs by from 25 to 30 per cent, but that will apply to hogs sold next winter. The desirability of selling young pigs now is calculated roughly in this way: If a 225-pound hog can be sold in four or six months at $6 per hundred-weight it would bring $13.50. The emergency price for an average 60-pound pig now is $8 per hundred pounds, or $4.80. To fatten this 60-pounder into a 225-pound hog would necessitate feeding him some sixteen bushels of 50-cent corn, an expense of $8, which, subtracted from next year's value of $13.50, leaves $5.50, or only 70 cents more of net return than the pig will bring now. This explains why the little pigs are being rushed to market. Sponsors of the plan estimate that the entire program for increasing hog prices will benefit farmers to the possible extent of $150,000,000.

The Century Plant.

For more than a month many New Yorkers have been making frequent journeys to the Botanical Garden in Bronx Park in the hope of seeing a century plant in full bloom. This specimen of the agave Americana, or American aloe, did not wait the full period of its common misnomer, but finally has bloomed at the age of about 50 years. The flower is not particularly beautiful, and is only imposing because its many clusters are spread at the top of a central stalk which springs to a height of 15 to 20 feet.

In this country the century plant is only an ornamental addition to a garden offering the rare attraction of an occasional bloom, but in Mexico it is the maguey which supplies pulque, often called the national drink. While the plant naturally would bloom in much less time than even half a century in that warmer climate, and notwithstanding the thousands of magueys which dot the semi-tropical plateaus in geometric rows, the flower is rarely seen in Mexico.

This is due to the fact that just as the great flower stem is ready to grow, the heart of the rosette of thick, fleshy leaves is scooped out, leaving a natural bowl. The juice that would have nourished the flower stalk here accumulates and is siphoned off twice a day and carried to the fermenting tanks. After a brief process requiring only a few days this "honey water" becomes the pulque of commerce, a thick, whitish fluid with taste and smell resembling sour yeast.

Trainloads of pulque are rushed to the upland cities of Mexico every day, for within a day after it is ready for consumption it sours and is useless as a beverage. Pulque is cheap, selling for a few cents a quart, and the lower classes drink quantities of it. It is only mildly intoxicating, with an alcoholic content no greater than beer, and carrying vitamin properties that are said to be healthful in a land where fresh vegetables form a small part of the average diet.

It is from the distilled juice of other species of the agave that the strong liquor known as mescal is secured. This is so nearly pure alcohol that it will burn in a spirit lamp. It is when small doses of mescal are added to an over-supply of pulque that the Mexican peon acquires a fighting edge, while pulque alone merely makes him sleepy. Few visitors at the New York Botanical Garden, who merely view the aloe's flower, have any conception of the plant's usefulness in Mexico. In addition to providing drink its leaves supply fibre, its roots have medicinal qualities and make soap, in the heart of the leaves grow the great white maguey worms, which, when fried to a golden brown, are considered a great delicacy, and finally, when the leaves have given up all their sap and are dried in the tropic sun, they provide fuel for the peon's fire.

Trade of the Americas.

From the City of Mexico comes the report that this southern neighbor is preparing to make some important suggestions at the forthcoming Pan-American conference next December in Montevideo. Mexico, it is intimated, is considering a proposal for the formation of a closer relationship between the nations of the western hemisphere that will be in the nature of a Monroe Doctrine of commerce.

Members of the forthcoming Mexican delegation which will attend the Uruguay sessions are quoted as favoring action looking to economic unity of the Americas, North, Central and South, as being far more important than some of the political problems that are scheduled for discussion at the conference. These delegates are considering the advisability of proposing at an early date changes in the agenda as it has been prepared for the forthcoming parley.

An effort to organize the nations of the Americas upon a solid economic foundation, it is held, would enable them to present a more united front to other economic blocs throughout the world and put these western republics on a more self-contained and self-supporting basis. A somewhat similar initiative is already under way in this country. Direct bi-lateral negotiations have begun with various Latin-American nations looking to closer commercial relations, and surveys are being made of the entire field of exports and imports with the view of determining what non-competitive products can be more generally exchanged and what mutually advantageous concessions can be made to advance trade.

The Mexican proposal carries the suggestion that if the United States is prepared to ease the foreign debt burdens of Latin-American republics, such action would be a potent factor in diverting purchases from Europe to the United States. It will be nothing new for American creditors to scale down Latin-American bonds, and evidently this will be expected again, particularly in view of the unprecedented amounts now outstanding and the economic difficulties encountered by the southern republics in recent years.

For Shore Protection.

The unusually destructive character of the recent storm on the Atlantic seaboard has aroused various resort centers to the necessity of concerted and scientific efforts to curb such losses. Modern engineering practice has done much to add to the safety of many exposed localities, but at other points the removal of sand dunes and natural beach barriers to improve scenic effects and provide building sites has often added to the danger of flooding during severe storms.

In the river and harbor act of 1930 Congress provided for the formation of the Beach Erosion Board, under the supervision of Army engineers. Four years earlier the Natural Research Council organized the American Shore and Beach Preservation Association, which has endeavored to make its Jersey City headquarters a clearing house for information and for cooperation by all agencies interested in coastal erosion and the various engineering problems connected with the Atlantic beaches.

Most of the seaboard States have commissions formed to study these questions as affecting their coasts, and more scientific planning for property protection is a movement that is growing. All these efforts, however, have been handicapped by lack of funds to undertake the work on an effective scale. The severe losses of recent days have caused interested centers to consider the advisability of seeking Federal aid under the public works act to provide more permanent improvements.

The assessed valuation of New Jersey shore communities in 1929 was placed at $600,000,000, having grown from $57,000,000 in the course of thirty years. With increasing values storm losses have been greater. The damage caused by the last storm will run into millions. When the total is cast up it will doubtless show the economy which would result from the building of additional sea walls, bulkheads and breakwaters as well as minor improvements to protect the smaller beaches.

France has launched a campaign to protect her historic windmills. Some of our Congressmen need protection, too.

Home is said to be the best place for hay fever victims, and some individuals will not stay at home otherwise.

The Main Street Traveler.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

When a psychiatrist like Dr. W. Beran Wolfe applies his art to the analysis of the mental complexes of the Main Street traveler in Europe, he is bound to reach conclusions which do not cover the whole field. Not all of those who go from small towns are deaf or blind to the harmonies of historical associations.

The man who came out of St. Peter's in Rome remarking "We wouldn't have anything so old fashioned in Jersey City" intrigued Dr. Wolfe. Most of his fellow tourists on the Volendam were of the same sort:

> They said Oriental dancers were not so graceful as the troupe at the Rialto Palace, back home; that the taxicabs were out of date and couldn't compare with the cabs in Milwaukee, and that the hotels were shabby and not up to date. In the venerated buildings of Mediterranean cities, instead of drinking in the beauty and lore of early civilizations, they were beefing about this and that and comparing it to the bank building at home.

We may recall that on the Nile, Bayard Taylor wrote: "Each sang the song he loved the best, and all sang 'Annie Laurie.'" It is fair to suspect a certain element of nostalgia behind the American traveler's cynicism. But the fact is that current news seems to associate the modernism of older countries with our own modernism, and that classical education on which historical cultivation was based has fallen down in this country. We have come to think almost entirely in the terms of materialism.

It was different, say 75 years ago. The educated American man or woman who had lived for a time in France or Spain or Italy was tempted to write a book of travel. People read such books. The fresh vision of the writer was often inspiring. Historical place-associations were starred. William Cullen Bryant journeyed to Cuba and the West Indies, and wrote elegantly about them. He saw poetry in everything as Bayard Taylor did. The number of travel volumes was stupendous. Magazines revelled in like matter. Today only travel and adventures in the wildest lands are worth reading about. The Main Street traveler is easily explained.

The Once Over.

PSYCHOPATHIC WARD STUDIES.

"What seems to be the matter?" asked the doctor, leaning over the feverish patient.

"Article 3 . . . Paragraph 11 . . . Unfair practices . . . I'll take another price level!" raved the sick man.

"He goes on like that all the time," said the nurse.

"Lissen, nurse . . . Is my code on straight? . . . Thanks . . . Is it time for the individual agreements? . . . What? . . . Oh, just give me two soft-boiled eggs and a chisel."

"Hush!" said the doctor.

"Great human experiment! . . . Everybody's gotta sacrifice! . . . Buy now! . . . Lissen, nurse, could I have a glass of milk and the open shop?" babbled the patient.

"You can have anything you want, my good man," said the doctor, soothingly.

"I'll take a boycott, without cream . . . And some community cooperation . . . That's what we gotta have . . . Cooperation, with green peas . . . Say, I'm chilly . . . Pull up that blanket code."

* * * *

"You'll be all right in a few days," said the doctor.

"Only if we all put our shoulders to the wheel . . . Nurse, bring me a wheel! . . . Any wheel will do . . . With plenty of trade agreements . . . Wanna hear the story of the farmer's daughter and the 48-hour week? . . . Nurse! . . . Your face is very familiar? . . . Didn't I meet you once in the National Recovery Administration? . . . You and a girl named Nira? . . . I was with a couple of minimum wages . . . I remember, it had three initials."

"It's time for your medicine now," said the nurse, kindly.

"Okay! . . . We Do Our Part . . . Gotta get back to the 1926 level . . . No coercion of labor . . . Industrial brotherhood, that's us . . . I remember you . . . Your name is Johnson . . . We used to go to West Point together."

* * * *

"He'll have to be kept very quiet," whispered the doctor. "It's a case of slow recovery."

"Recovery, that's the word! . . . We gotta have recovery, nurse . . . How about another eagle? . . . WDOP . . . You and I went to Yale together . . . With two fellers named Richberg . . . Remember the old song, 'For Code, For Country and For Yale?'"

"What do you suppose is the matter with him?" asked the nurse, addressing the doctor.

"Very simple," said the doctor. "The poor fellow is just a business man who has been attending those code meetings."

PAINFUL AND SHOCKING.

'Tis no wonder our eagle

And no wonder

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Red-Headed Daughter

By Robert Quillen.

MY DEAR LOUISE: If you love your old dad, beware of strangers.

I still wake up at night and relive that dreadful time when you disappeared after the wreck of Jim's car. All of the other girls had reached home. You were an hour overdue and the night had swallowed you. The only word we had was the soothing report of the chaperon who had joined the searchers, "We found the car wrecked, but there wasn't much blood."

We found you at Dr. Thomason's, with no hurt except a scratch on your scalp, but I aged a number of years in as many minutes and I wouldn't repeat the experience for many a dollar.

Perhaps there is no danger of your disappearing, for kidnapers aren't interested in small fry; but you never can tell what crazy idea will enter a criminal mind and there's no sense in taking chances. Nobody will be wholly safe until the last "snatcher" is swinging from a telephone pole.

I don't wish to frighten you, but you must be on your guard. If strangers make advances—especially strangers who aren't our kind of folks—take no chance at all. No matter what plausible reasons they offer, and no matter how courteous or flattering they may be, don't take a single step with them.

If the worst happens, scream blue murder. Fight tooth and nail. They can hurt you no worse in a fight than they would after your capture.

Fortunately you live in a region where people don't look on without interest while a crime is in process. One scream for help will bring every man and woman within hearing.

That means you will be safe if you keep within shouting distance of a crowd. Under no circumstances get beyond reach of help until America is civilized again.

In this, as in other matters, you run little risk if you use common sense and never go where you shouldn't be. Love, DAD.

Comment of the Press

New York Post.

The vigilante movement reported from along the Texas-New Mexico border is neither a new nor a radical departure from custom in that part of the country. It is the logical development of the traditional posse system which has prevailed in the Southwest, and particularly in that area, for half a century. Since the days of Billy the Kid, when criminals went on the warpath in such numbers or under such armament that the authorities could not deal with them, the law-abiding citizens have gathered for the chase under leadership of the nearest sheriff or his deputies. Since the country is and always has been sparsely settled, such posses were the active agents of an aroused public. They usually have represented the sort of public cooperation in war on crime that is now being urged upon the entire Nation. Accordingly, when outlaws killed six law officers in this district, it was obedience to tradition that rallied 200 ranchmen, former sheriffs and retired Texas Rangers to press the war. With the help of automobiles, telephones and the radio, they are equipped to give the new school of gunmen a medicine they seldom taste in the cities.

Ships But No Men.

Houston Post.

President Roosevelt has allocated $238,000,000 of public works funds for the building of new ships for the Navy. That is an important step in the strengthening of the Nation's naval defense.

But Secretary Swanson of the Navy Department says that the ships now in commission are so undermanned that if the battle fleet were to be called into action, its crews would be unable to keep up steam in the individual ships.

A condition such as that is positively menacing to the National defense. What good is a ship in battle if it lacks enough men to operate it? Secretary Swanson announces that he will ask Congress at its next session to authorize the maintenance of crews at full strength.

Wheat Fluctuations.

Brooklyn Eagle.

Wheat harvests of the years starting with 1915 and down to and including the estimated harvest of 1933 have run from 1,025,000,000 bushels (1915) to this year's approximate 500,000,000. They have averaged somewhat over 830,000,000 bushels, but have been a hundred millions or more off the average about one year in every three. The swings were only partly due to ups and downs of acreage in wheat. They were greatly due to fluctuation in yields to the acre. The best growing years gave over 50 per cent more wheat to the acre than the bad year 1933.

Just Folks.

By Edgar A. Guest.

Time.

Old Father Time it not annoyed
Because some city is destroyed.
If he would have a city there
Some day the damage he'll repair.
Should man cut down his forests wild
To such a loss he's reconciled
For in a thousand years or so
He'll watch another forest grow.

Old Father Time is not disturbed
Because some trivial whim is curbed.
Complacently from day to day
And silently he goes his way
For while men's brains and bodies tire
Struggling to win what they desire
Old patient Father Time can spend
A million years to gain his end.

'Tis only man who has to haste
Because he has no day to waste,
He wants his temple spires to rise
Before death comes to close his eyes;
The grain of truth he finds appears
The rich achievement of his years,
But Father Time can wait to see
The wonders that are yet to be.

Man battles in his little role
To build a pathway to his goal,
But change and storm and stress combine
To batter down his structures fine
While Father Time holds out to youth
An undiscovered grain of truth
And seems to know, beyond a doubt
Some day some lad will find it out.

Along the Potomac

With

Carlisle Bargeron

DEPUTY Commissar Cates' biographer will undoubtedly be able to say plenty in his behalf anent his controversy with Commissar Johnson. There are always two sides to every story and although when both sides are weighed in this instance posterity may side with the commissar, the deputy commissar's version will be worth hearing.

Bargeron.

But that is for another day. For the present the revolution must go on. We can't stop to consider whether a deputy commissar has been mistreated. The revolution is bigger than he. He simply got scrambled in the omelette which Commissar Johnson had predicted for some of the small businesses of the country. Ah, little did he realize when he used the term that it would be one of his friends to get scrambled in this omelette. All history tells us, though, that it is the way of revolutions—that those whomy you least expect get scrombled in the omelettes, that the scrambling process, in fact, shows no favorites.

* * *

AS to whether Cates is to be banished to an island off the coast, I don't know. The exchange occasioned by the controversy carried on yesterday. Other heads are supposed to fall.

But as regretful as these things are to be regarded, we must keep to the one point, "The revolution must go on!"

There will be deputies to take the places of those who are dropped, of those whose heads fall in the basket as we go marching on. Make no mistake about that.

The revolution must go on!

In the meantime, it is sheer nonsense for Cates to attempt to base his going upon any high-sounding grounds of a difference of opinion over the kind of labor organizations that should be set up. It so happens that the American Federation of Labor prefers the so-called vertical union plan to the craft plan now in effect. For one thing, it seems the quicker method of organizing those nonunion industries which are coming under the code, and again there are rivalries for power in the organized labor movement, an easily understandable situation to grow out of the bonanza the Government has handed it.

And neither did Johnson's first statement tell the story. His statement yesterday, issued, I am told, from a sick bed, threw some light and came nearer to telling what had happened.

* * * *

IT so happens that a fire has been burning under Cates for a month. Whether a certain element around the NRA had been filling Johnson's mind with stories of Cates' alleged activities or whether Johnson had come to the conclusion that Cates simply did not fit in and was using these elements to build a fire under Cates, I don't know.

It is a fact that the two were very close friends and that their split has deeply hurt Johnson and made Cates so nervous that he can hardly talk with newspapermen. And, it is a fact, too, that the great majority of the close observers of the NRA agree that Cates did not fit in; that, indeed, he was impossible.

* * * *

YET I find myself holding considerable sympathy for him. He is a casualty, I think, of the revolution; and instead of banishing him I would give him, instead, a decent burial in the continental United States.

The trouble, as I gather it, is not that he leaned toward industry in his work. He was expected to represent, more or less, the business viewpoint and he was ably opposed in this by Ed McGrady, who represents labor.

But somehow Cates seems to have got an obsession that he was the only one who stood between industry and the onrush of labor, that he alone had his shoulders against the rapidly breaking dam. He overlooked the industrial advisory committee or council or whatever it is, composed of such illustrious industrialists as Mr. Walter C. Teagle and Mr. Gerard Swope. And getting this obsession he is said to have swollen immensely in statue, so immensely in fact, that he would have soon exploded.

But such as this is not to be unexpected in the atmosphere of the revolution. With mere citizens bubbling over with their designation of general and colonel, and of the talk of boycott and of ramming things down peoples throats and of the moving in of the troops, is it to be expected that one at the very head, one on the general staff, should keep his feet on the ground?

Stalin and Trotsky had their split. Except that when Stalin shot for the high mark he hit and banished his former boss. Cates seems to have missed.

But the revolution must go on, not even if it involves the breaking up of beautiful friendships.

AIR-MINDEDNESS.

California is first in the number of aircraft, says the Los Angeles Times, licensed and unlicensed—972. And the State with the next largest flock of wings (New York) not only admits it, but furnishes the figures from the zeronautic branch of the Chamber of Commerce.

New York is second with 925; Pennsylvania third with 542. Other States are so far behind that they are lost in the finish.

The Golden State also holds first place with licensed pilots, 3,460; New York second, 1,716; Ohio third, 1,088. Thus California has more than twice as many licensed pilots as her nearest competitor and more than three times as many as the next in order.

Boy Prodigy Here Says He Equals Vallee

Robert Swain, 18, Says Cash Immediate Aim of Violin Career.

Eighteen-year-old Robert William Swain, Washington's latest musical find, may be serious about his aspirations—indeed, he is—but he wants it distinctly understood he isn't arty.

"I am not one of these long-haired 'art for art's sake' people," declared the unsmiling youngster, from his comfortable seat on a studio couch in his bachelor apartment in the Alban Towers, 3500 Massachusetts avenue.

"The violin really isn't my line," he defended.

It is his mastery of the violin which is commanding the attention of capital artists and music lovers.

"I want to compose music, to teach and to direct orchestras. I suppose it's too bad that music had to be commercialized, but since it has been, we might as well accept the fact.

Upholds Playing for Pay.

"In music, as in every other profession, I believe the laborer is worthy of his hire. A musician no more demeans himself and his professon when he approaches it from the money-making angle than does a surgeon, a teacher or any other professional."

Just now, Swain's musical idols in Washington are two. They are Brook Johns, former Follies star and sometimes master of ceremonies, now living in retirement at Riverdale, Md., and Phil Lampkin, musical director of Fox Washington programs.

"Brook Johns," he assured his hearer earnestly, "has, I imagine, done more to guide and encourage young musicians coming to Washington to make their way than any other master of ceremonies ever did."

Johns won the youngster's heart two weeks ago by consenting to hear him play in his dressing room at the Fox Theater between performances of "Going Native," a musical revue, which Johns came out of retirement to conduct. So impressed was Johns with what he heard that he arranged a later audition with Phil Lampkin, who has now more or less taken the boy under his professional wing.

Looks to Radio.

"I wouldn't say that I am looking at music from the purely money-making standard," young Swain explained. "Rather, it is that I want to give people music. Therefore, I must give it to them in a medium they will accept. The demand is for popular music.

"It looks as though radio is music's best bet for the future. By that, I mean that more people will 'get' their music over the radio than any other way. Therefore, I am interested in learning what are the requirements of radio broadcasting of music."

"Where am I heading for, musically? Well, I don't know, yet. Another Vallee? Well, I've got all that Vallee's got. Except money? Well, I don't know that he's made so much. I croon, too, you know," he proclaimed, without trace of a smile, or of self-consciousness.

Young Swain is here from Illinois with an older cousin, Tilman B. Cantrell, who is on the legal staff of the NRA.

Parents Musicians, Too.

His parents, Ralph Swain and Vivian Brownley Swain, both musicians of local fame in their home State, reside at Benton, Ill. They have two other sons, Ralph, jr., 20, whose fame as a budding entomologist has spread over several Middle Western States, and Adrian, aged 7.

His late maternal grandfather, Edison A. Brownley, also a musician, was likewise a publisher, establishing the Benton Standard, a daily newspaper, in Benton, Ill., two generations ago.

With his parents, Robert has lived in both Illinois and Missouri, having removed with them to St. Louis when 10 years of age. The family returned to Illinois less than a year ago.

While in St. Louis, young Swain studied with Alexander Thiede, concert master of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra and former violinist with the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra. Deserting the ranks of classic music students, however, the boy proceeded to organize an orchestra of his own in St. Louis, which played popular dance music.

Appears Frequently.

"I have made public appearances," declared the boy, "since I was in long hair.

"I played for church entertainment, local talent shows, things like that. It wasn't much of a step, later, to organize and direct my own orchestra. I like to play popular and semiclassical music, as well as classical.

"There is lovely melody in modern music. Fine work is being done by modern composers. There is really something in it. Irving Berlin. Gershwin—." His gestures supplied what his words did not.

Violin Prodigy

ROBERT WILLIAM SWAIN, 17-year-old musician from Illinois, heralded as prodigy by Washingtonians who have heard him play, is a champion of popular music. He wants to give people music, he says, and if they like it popular, then popular music shall be his medium.

Patent Rights Salesman Arrested in Providence

Los Angeles, Sept. 1 (AP).—Frank E. (Million Dollar Frank) McCabe, also known as "Millionaire McCabe," has been arrested by Providence police at request of local authorities, James P. Britt, district attorney's investigator, said today.

McCabe is charged with grand theft and conspiracy in connection with sale of interests in patent rights which authorities said McCabe told investors he owned and could sell for $13,000,000. Investors said McCabe promised them "ten for one" on money put in his project.

Officials Study Use of Vast Idle Acreage

Ways Sought to Prevent Farmers From Growing on "Retired" Land.

(Associated Press.)

Farm administrators drafted new regulations yesterday to deal with one of the problems on which they hinge the success or failure of their program of retreat from agricultural production—how to use up to 50,000,000 acres of land they expect to withdraw from the production of cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco and other surplus crops.

Their problem is to prevent use of these lands in the production of crops in which there are surpluses or threats of overproduction and to make sure that when they have paid farmers cash benefits for leaving portions of their land idle that they will not make use of it in a way which will conflict with the general farm program.

Responding to insistent demands of representatives of the dairy and livestock industry, they ordered yesterday that crops ordinarily grown for home use or for feeding livestock for home consumption can not be shifted to acres taken out of production in the national wheat program, for which a campaign is now under way. This is aimed to prevent diverting the normal acreage of home use crops to the production of surplus crops.

Young Democrats Back NRA, Repeal in Fairfax

Resolutions to favor repeal as an organization and to back the NRA program were adopted by the Young Democrats' Club of Fairfax, last night at its meeting in the Fairfax Courthouse.

Nominations for new officers will be made from the floor at the next meeting, September 28. The club voted also to hold a 10-minute entertainment program following each subsequent meeting.

Pupils' Lack Of Art Love Is Criticized

Veteran Attache of Corcoran Galleries Blames Schools.

Tendency of American school children to ignore or disdain the priceless treasures of art displayed at the Corcoran galleries was deplored, yesterday, by a veteran attache of the institution.

He placed the blame for the dormant or possible non-existent esthetic sense in otherwise normal children, of normal advantages, at the door of the American educational system, whether public or private.

He also took occasion to criticize the press.

"Daily papers and current magazines could be a powerful and widespread medium of encouraging and developing appreciation of art," he said. "Yet, in the opinion of many, the press, particularly, subjugates art to what it terms 'human interest'."

"Want That Living Touch."

"An example of this is when a portrait or picture is awarded a prize. The press does not want a picture of the winning exhibit alone. The author or some visitor, preferably a pretty girl, must pose with it—to give it 'the living touch'."

Adults he declared to be less interested in art today than formerly, due as much to the complexity of modern civilization as to the failure of schools to instill in them, in youth, a growing appreciation of the cultural side of life.

The child of grade-school age, 6 to 12 years, he has found to have an open and respectful mind toward works of art, whether painting, sculpture, tapestry, lace or pottery.

The high-school child, ranging from 12 to 17, is either passively or decidedly indifferent, oftentimes manifesting his indifference with "rowdy" conduct when taken through the gallery.

College Students Bored.

The young man or woman of college age as a rule only enters the Corcoran galleries on definite class assignments, he finds, and usually registers a bored attention at best.

One exception he noted to the prevailing indifferenec to art on the part of school children. This was a group of eager, intelligent children of high school age, members of a Four-H agricultural club recently taken through the galleries.

"They were quiet, orderly, attentive to what was being said by the guide," he explained. "Apart from what they heard and from what they had evidently read, they were quick to display individual interest in objects new to them. They voiced their opinions and gave reasons upholding them."

It was the reaction of this group which crystallized his opinion that proper schooling in appreciation of art is all that is necessary to encourage its continuing growth through life. And that the lack of it may be attributed to failure on the part of schools to catch the young imagination.

Daughter of Prominent Virginia Family to Wed

Richmond, Va., Sept. 1 (AP).—The engagement of Byrd Harrison Tucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Randolph Tucker, of Richmond, to Francis Thornton Greene, son of Col. and Mrs. Frederick Stuart Greene, of New York City, and Warrenton, Va., was announced here today.

The wedding will take place in October.

Animal Specialist Is Called To Help Rescue Trapped Deer

All Efforts to Free Buck Halted Until State Officers Arrive.

Watkins Glen, N. Y., Sept. 1 (AP).—All efforts to rescue from his rocky ledge the seven-point buck deer imprisoned for a week were called off by Watkins Glen State Park officials tonight to await arrival from Albany of a State conservation department animal specialist.

The order came as workmen were preparing to use an illegal "jacklight" and two stuffed deer equipped with rollers in effort to lure the frightened animal across a temporary bridge. The light was placed at the end of the span overlooking the torrent into which it is feared the deer will plunge if not rescued.

The hypnotic flames, sometimes used illegally to draw animals into the line of rifle fire, was suggested by I. W. White, North Tonawanda lumberman, in a telegram to Park Superintendent Frank Haight. The decoys, brought here by taxidermists, were left in park officials' care pending arrival of the conservation specialist.

A record influx of tourists over the double holiday week-end was expected by Haight.

Sweet corn and water is lowered regularly to the deer and he has become so accustomed to the crowds of spectators that he eats and drinks quite freely.

Valley Gets Rule Of Muscle Shoals

Florence, Ala., Sept. 1 (AP).—The hydroelectric properties at Muscle Shoals today passed from Army engineers into custody of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

The formality was accomplished as David E. Lilienthal, director of power development, and Maj. R. R. Neyland, engineer, affixed signatures.

Woolworth & Co. Goes Under Blanket Code

Honesdale, Pa., Sept. 1 (AP).—B. D. Miller, president of F. W. Woolworth & Co., announced tonight the company had signed the NRA blanket code.

Miller stated the action, taken in Washington today, becomes effective immediately in all stores of the company.

License to Buy Trade and Art Gold Required

U. S. Treasury Department Issues Regulations for Purchases.

(Associated Press.)

Regulations for acquisition of gold by the industries, professions and arts, requiring a monthly report on the amount held, were issued last night by the Treasury.

They provide that all such persons and businesses be licensed to receive the metal, icenses stipulating the maximum amount.

"Every person acquiring or holding gold bullion under a license shall keep an exact record of the disposition of such gold bullion and such records shall be available for examination by a representative of the Treasury Department for at least one year after the date of the disposition of the gold," the regulations said.

"On or before the 15th day of each month, every person acquiring or holding gold for use in industry, profession, or art, shall file with the Secretary of the Treasury a report executed under oath and verified by an officer duly authorized to administer oaths.

850 Workers Added In Signal Hill Oil Field

Long Beach, Calif., Sept. 1 (AP).—More than 850 workers will be added to the Signal Hill oil fields force under the provisions of the National Recovery Act, effective at midnight, William H. Geis, chairman of the operators committee of the local district, announced today.

The increase in employment will add $5,000 a day to the pay rolls of oil companies in the Long Beach area, not including increases in refinery pay rolls or other activities attendant upon oil production.

3 Killed, 6 Injured When Autos Crash

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 1 (AP).—Three men were killed and six injured tonight when two automobiles collided at a street intersection in Hamburg, and one of the cars crashed into the veranda of the Big Tree Hotel. Among the injured was a woman believed to be the wife of one of the men killed.

Young Torrence Divorced.

Los Angeles, Sept. 1 (AP).—Superior Court records disclosed today that a divorce has been granted to Liliore G. Torrence from Ernest Torrence, jr., son of the late actor, on grounds of cruelty. She claimed he told her she had lost her charm.

Wreck Deaths Now Total Nine

Los Angeles Woman Dies From Hurts Received in Limited's Crash.

Tucumcari, N. Mex., Sept. 1 (AP).—Deaths from the wreck of the transcontinental train, Golden State Limited, reached nine tonight with Mrs. Marjorie Blackburn, 52, of Los Angeles, succumbing to injuries.

The collapse of a flood-weakened bridge wrecked the train Tuesday, killing seven persons outright.

Tucumcari, N. Mex., Sept. 1 (AP).—Seven of the 38 persons injured in the wreck and cared for in the hospital and hotel here were released by physicians today.

They were: Marjorie Watkinson, Kansas City; Jack Horner, Dayton, Ohio; Josephine Trott, Denver; William Lang, Columbus, Ohio; Virginia Williams, Bisbee, Ariz.; Charles Borelli, Philadelphia, and Milton Grey, club car porter.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Varley, of Quincy, Ill., killed in the wreck with six others, will be taken tonight to Beardstown, Iowa.

Search continued for Savario Anjuli and Giovanni Tomaso, two passengers not yet accounted for.

Ready results await the offers in Post Classified Ads, the first thing in the morning.

Veteran Cuts To Be Fought By Auxiliary

Legion Women Plan Drive for Pensions and Hospitalization.

The veterans economy act will meet vigorous opposition from the Washington department of the American Legion Auxiliary the coming year, according to Mrs. Edythe M. O'Connor, 5400 Nebraska avenue northwest, newly elected president.

"The auxiliary was organized to work among World War veterans," Mrs. O'Connor said yesterday. "Through our work we have first-hand knowledge of suffering brought on through pension cuts and deprivaiton of hospitalization to disabled veterans. We intend to bend every effort to see that this injustice is righted."

Eighteen thousand poppies are distributed to 18,000 soldiers' graves in Arlington Cemetery each Decoration Day by the local auxiliary, which also contributed substantially to the World War Memorial in Potomac Park.

Mrs. O'Connor succeeds Mrs. Marie Dyer as president of the local department auxiliary of 650 members. Other newly elected officers are Mrs. Mary Lightfoot, Mrs. Gregory Cipriani and Miss Edna McIntosh, vice presidents.

Mrs. Dyer was elected national executive committee woman, with Mrs. O'Connor as alternate. Mrs. Julia C. Brown is historian; Mrs. May Loveless, chaplain; Mrs. Rose Simon, sergeant-at-arms, and Mrs. Julia West Hamilton, property custodian.

Mrs. Lillian Botkin and Mrs. Ellis Crisman are color bearers; Mrs. Dyer, Mrs. Nellie Walker, Mrs. Claudia Hansen, Miss Lillian Reagan, Mrs. Margaret Franklin and Mrs. James H. Mims, delegates to the national convention at Chicago in October.

Alternates elected are Mrs. Lightfoot, Mrs. Marie Castle, Miss Ethel Hodges, Mrs. Julia W. Hamilton, Mrs. Cipriani, Mrs. Mary Kohlos and Miss McIntosh.

Marie Brueckner Becomes Bride of George Hockensmith

The wedding of Miss Marie Evelyn Brueckner, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Louis Brueckner, College Park, Md., to Mr. George Lawrence Hockensmith, Beaver, Pa., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hockensmith, Pittsburgh, Pa., took place yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, in the Holy Redeemer Church, at Berwyn, Md., the Rev. Father L. J. Fealy, pastor of the church, officiating.

The church was decorated with an effective arrangement of bride's roses and gladioli, against a background of ferns. As the guests were assembling Miss Julia Arnold played organ selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white panne velvet made on princess lines, with a short train. She wore a small hat with a veil and carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Anne Hockensmith was the maid of honor and wore a gown made like that of the bride, of nile green velvet, with accessories to match. She carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

Mr. Frederick Louis Brueckner, brother of the bride, was best man. The ushers were Mr. Harold Norman Hockensmith and Mr. Harold Butler Norwood, Washington.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents, when Mr. Hockensmith and his bride were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Brueckner, mother of the bride, who wore a pale blue georgette crepe gown, with black accessories, and a shoulder bouquet of Johanna Hill roses, and Mrs. Hockensmith, mother of the bridegroom, who was in a gown of green crepe with brown accessories. Her shoulder bouquet was of violets.

Mr. and Mrs. Hockensmith left later for a wedding trip, the latter wearing a black and white ensemble and a shoulder bouquet of lilies of the valley. They will make their home in Beaver, Pa.

Once Famous Dance Class May Return

Democrats Favor Revival of Event Popular During Wilson Regime.

With the Democratic party in the saddle, there is a sentiment for the revival of the oldest and most important Democratic function in the National Capital, the Democratic Dancing Class, which formed the hub of social events in the Wilson administration.

At this class, composed of ranking officials of the Government, Cabinet members and the daughters of the President, the two step and the fox trot, the slide and glide and dip to the floor were much in vogue.

Miss Margaret Wilson and her cousin, Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, held the record of the most graceful "dippers," while no one could match the fox trot and one step of Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and his fair fiancee, Eleanor Wilson.

In those days, too, the Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, popular members of the young official married set, were present frequently at the meetings of the class.

The leading spirits were Judge and Mrs. Charles C. McChord, the former at that time Interstate Commerce Commissioner, and the midnight supper was often served in their apartment in the Willard Hotel. Judge McChord is anxious to get his old administration dancing partners together for a World War reunion and is of the opinion that he can outdance his old-time dance opponent, now Senator William Gibbs McAdoo.

Mrs. L. R. Lindley and Miss Nell Lindley have gone to Atlantic City, where they are at Chalfonte-Haddon Hall.

Miss Margaret Baxter is visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. Baird Mangus in Greenwich, Conn., where she is being extensively entertained.

Katherine Watson, Ernest Gross Wed

The marriage of Miss Katherine Watson, daughter of former Senator and Mrs. James E. Watson, to Mr. Ernest Gross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Gross, New York, took place yesterday at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents on Connecticut avenue. The Rev. J. N. Hartsock performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a frock of printed silk of a dark background, with pastel flowers, and a black hat. Immediately following the ceremony Mr. Gross and his bride left for a motor trip and will return to Washington about the middle of September. They will be at home at 1612 K street.

Southern Guest

MRS. PHILIP L. COLLINS, of Oteen, N. C., who is visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Bergh, in Chevy Chase.

Serene Mind Key to Youth And Beauty

Tranquillity Needed to Keep Quality in Looks Rather Than Surface Appeal.

A philosophical mind is an adjunct for enhancing and preserving the quality of one's looks. Nothing is more soothing, more appealing than beauty of the tranquil type. Tranquillity comes from mental adjustment, which is arrived at through philosophical acceptance of things as they come—including one's looks.

We are too apt to confuse beauty, with relation to women, as being a superficial matter of lines and coloring, never departing from the pattern of eternal youth. We strive to retain the illusion of youth long after its days have been spent.

Extreme Is Unwise.

Such effort is most unwise, if carried too far. Certain aspects of youth we may keep with us to our advantage. The open mind, the happy heart, the belief in the goodness of our fellowmen, our confidence in ourselves, our magnificent planning for the future—these we may always have without the aid of rigorous diet and cosmetics and without adding to instead of subtracting from our ages, through endless misdirected effort.

"Age is a quality of mind. If you have left your dreams behind: if you no longer look ahead; if your ambition's fires are dead, then—you are old," a poet has said.

Personal charm—personality—combined with exquisite grooming, is, after all, the sum total of good looks in man or woman of any age. The number of birthdays we have counted, more or less, has nothing to do with it. The so-called sirens in every age were women of great personal fascination, rather than creatures of physical perfection, inherent or simulated.

Modern Trend in Disfavor.

Indeed, some of the more enlightened minds of the twentieth century have come to look with compassion upon the modern woman's frenzied cult of physical perfection of the youthful type as nothing more than a hangover of earlier ages, when, as the slave of man, her sole virtue lay in her appeal to the eye.

They feel if women were truly imbued with the idea of absolute equality with men—which most of them profess to believe—she would demonstrate her conviction by daring to be as plain as man; by depending on her intellect and her abilities to command a place for herself in the social scheme, rather than upon smooth, delicately tinted flesh, glossy hair, attractive body and beautiful draperies.

Tip to Motorists: Slip on Old Shoes

Fine shoes are ruined by automobile driving. An ugly smudge promptly appears at the back of the heel of white or light-colored shoes. And even dark shoes soon show a rubbed place at the back. If you will keep a pair of worn shoes in the car, it will only take a few seconds to slip them on for actual driving, and give your regular shoes a chance to give you normal wear.

Public Library Closed Labor Day.

The central building of the Public Library and all branches and subbranches will be closed Labor Day, George F. Bowerman, librarian announced yesterday.

Coast Girl, David Stone Are Married

Miss Cornelia Fairbanks, of Pasadena, Is Bride; Will Live in East.

Pasedena, Calif., Sept. 1 (AP).—Miss Cornelia Fairbanks, Pasedena society girl, and David L. Stone, jr., son of Maj. General David L. Stone, U. S. A., were married late today at All Saints Episcopal Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Francis Foote, assistant rector.

A reception was given by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Fairbanks, in their Orlando road home following the ceremony.

The couple will sail from Los Angeles tomorrow aboard the liner Santa Lucia via Panama for New York, where they will reside.

Miss Cornelia Fairbanks, Chicago, the bride's cousin, was maid of honor. Mrs. John Theimer, Fort Sill, Okla., sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Laura Anne Liske, Beverly Hills; Miss Betty Cordingly and Miss Katherine Toveman, Hollywood, and Mrs. John Wayman, Pasadena.

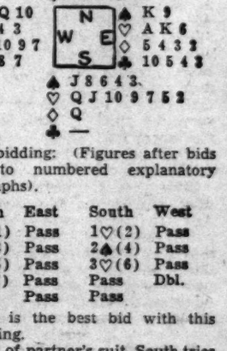
The romance of the young couple followed their meeting some months ago at Lajolla.

Culbertson on Bridge

An Unusual Trump Lead.

Mr. William J. Wall, a citizen of the capital of Canada, Ottawa, where he is with the privy councilor, is an intelligent and interested student of bridge. Recently he witnessed a hand in a duplicate game in Ottawa in which a contract of four spades was defeated by an unusual lead based upon unusual bidding. At another table the contract was made because the defense did not seize upon the clue given during the auction.

North, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs).

North	East	South	West
1♣(1)	Pass	1♡(2)	Pass
2◇(3)	Pass	2♠(4)	Pass
3♣(5)	Pass	3♡(6)	Pass
4♠(7)	Pass	Pass	Dbl.
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—This is the best bid with this holding.
2—Void of partner's suit. South tries to turn his distribution to account. Hence the shaded response.
3—Because North is void of the suit bid by his partner, he refrains from forcing on the second round.
4—South makes another effort.
5—North and South have bid all four suits. North's bid at this point is a strong suggestion that South bid notrump if his holding warrants such a contract.
6—Poor South, with 7-5-1 distribution, decides to try once more to steer the contract into safe channels.
7—North decides that after all South probably has no worse than a 6-5 distribution in hearts and spades. If this is so, he reasons that good use may be made of his three trumps in ruffing losing hearts in the South hand and establishing the suit.
8—West's Double is not particularly sound. He counts on holding three trump tricks over the spade bid—an assumption not warranted by North's support of spades.

In the play, however, West showed that he had an ear finely attuned to the bidding of his adversaries. He made the unusual Opening of the trump Ten, surrendering his tenace position, but reasoning that he would gain by lessening North's ruffing possibilities. Much to his surprise, his partner won the trick with the trump King and returned the suit, whereupon West drew the remaining trumps from the Dummy and South was later forced to concede the Ace-King of hearts.

At the other table where a contract of four spades was reached the outcome was much more fortunate for the Declarer. There West obligingly opened the diamond Knave and South proceeded to make the hand by the simple process of ruffing out East's winning hearts and eventually conceding two trump tricks to the opponents. The defense on the hand is difficult, but the bidding, which to a considerable extent discloses the North and South distribution, does afford some slight clue to the correct lead.

What Today Means

"Virgo."

If September 3 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 to 11:20 a. m., from 12:30 to 2 p. m. and from 5:45 to 6:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 to 8:45 a. m., from 3 to 3:40 p. m. and from 7:45 to 8:35 p. m. .

Influences operating on this date should make for a very quiet day; little activity of any kind should be apparent. The successful host or hostess will not make any plans for his guests, but will leave them largely to their own devices. There will be less than the usual amount of conversation and people generally will enjoy the opportunity of being quietly with others. Little formality on this day.

The child born on this September 3 may possibly have a negative personality. He will be lacking in most of the qualities that would make him a good mixer. His successes will not come from his contacts with others. In solitude and quiet meditation he will make his plans and organize his life. Not one to confide in others, even his parents.

If September 3 is the date of your birth, you are a naturally good person. In this day and age, you will probably be looked on as old-fashioned. You do not care for many of the amusements that are on hand today. It is quite possible that you do not either smoke or drink. Whatever you do, you do in moderation. You are the type of person who seems to fit into any group you happen to land with. You are generally pleasant, you seldom if ever speak out of turn, and when you do have something to say it is of a pleasant nature. You attract little notice. You are not a positive personality.

Born on September 3, you will probably never make a great success of life. You seem to drift along with the current, but your natural goodness and sweetness seems always to keep you in the right eddies. You are the sort of person that everyone seems to look out for in small ways; you will always have work as long as you want it. You are rather an innocent person. People pull the wool over your eyes in many ways, but seldom would they harm you or let you in for anything disagreeable. In your realtions with those of the opposite sex, you are, to put in mildly, gullible; you believe everything that is said to you. More than one heartache is in store for you. You will make a good parent, always on hand when you are needed and one who is forever making sacrifices in order to give to your children.

Successful people born on September 3:

Hannah F. Gould, poet.
Gardner Colby, philanthropist.
John Drew, sr., actor.
Joseph Simms, physician and physiognomist.
Stewart L. Woodford, statesman.
Sarah Orne Jewett, author.

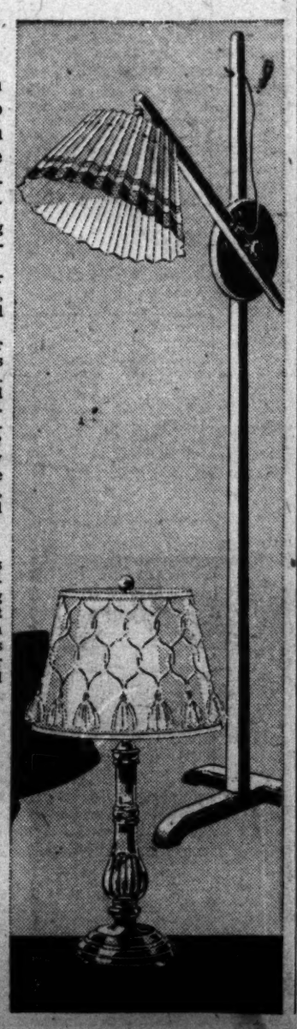
What's in Fashion?

New Lamps Learn to Look Their Parts In Every Fashionable Period Setting

Directed by Amos Parrish

Information as to where fashions of the type illustrated and their variations are available in Washington will be given by the Fashion Department, Washington Post, on request.



The new lamps have caught their cues. They appear in different costumes, you might say, for different scenes. So that if you're picking one for a classically modern setting, you can get a lamp that plays its part perfectly. And the same for informal peasant scenes and eighteenth century English and French pieces.

That clean-lined alabaster urn lamp at the top left you'd recognize at once as just the kind to appear with your new modern furniture. It has the same simple, classic lines that make the latest modern things so usable and pleasant. And its very simplicity keeps it versatile enough to throw the right light on a formal eighteenth century room also.

Decorated Lamps.

Though in those eighteenth century English and French rooms you'll often see a different type of lamp. Descended from eighteenth century china and porcelain forbears. Graceful shapes and painted floral designs run in these lamp families, giving them an elegant, rather expensive appearance. These traits have cropped up faithfully in the lamp youngsters of today. Though you'll frequently find that the expensive appearance is just a clever front, and in reality they're quite the opposite.

The white lamp with a touch of fresh color on its rounded cheek which you see at the lower left is a typical aristocrat of such descent. It would give an air to many different rooms and get along agreeably with many color schemes.

Crystal Lamps.

And what those crystal lamps can do! No one-role careers for them. Give them a few different shades and watch them shine in many scenes. With pleated chintz or flowered shades they fit in with colonial surroundings. With modern shades they strike the right note for the newest of the modern rooms. And with formally decorated shades, you'd hardly know them for the same kinds of lamps, taking part in eighteenth century furnishings.

The crystal lamp at the lower right is dressed for a modern scene, with a modern shade, laced and tasseled.

The lamp pictured at the upper right takes informal character parts only, and makes no bones about it. For after all, what other lamp could go quite so well with the new provincial peasant things that are beginning to get so much attention? Or with your cozy, informal early American room? It has the same sturdy kind of structure...maple, with a peg gadget for raising and lowering the arm.

Color Leaflet.

If you're buying more than lamps ...giving your rooms a general furnishing up or entirely redecorating them...before you do anything, it will be a help to have our leaflet on smart new color schemes. This shows actual color samples for walls, draperies, floor coverings and upholsteries.

"Shoulder Interest," Says Vogue

A Smart Frock for Over the Holiday $22.75

The winged sleeves give it the interest that Vogue endorses—yet it remains a conservative dress of dull crepe, with the wrap-around skirt and a belt that gives it that two-piece look. A revere collar of repcord is the accenting note. Black and brown. Sizes 36 to 42.

Epicureans Find Haven In Old Spot

'Uptown' Restaurant Throws Whole Floor Open to Sea Food Lovers.

By Ruth Anne Davis.

Gentlemen in high hats, ladies with pompadours and blossomy bonnets used to sit at the tables of the old restaurant and chat over a platter of "steamed oysters" and glasses of rich burgundy. It was the resort of epicureans who appreciated choice meats freshly grilled, fried chicken, possum, roast pig, and a wide variety of seafood ranging from turtle soup to fried eel.

Although this restaurant is "uptown" now, there's still the atmosphere of distinction. There's still a brilliantly lighted room, snow white tables and glistening silver, well trained colored waiters, fashionably dressed men and women.

Next week there will be a new attraction. The third floor is to be opened with special invitations to connoisseurs of sea food. From the large panels of the room various and sundry goggly-eyed denizens of the deep look down at you, idle as the painted fish within a painted ocean. There's the stoical terrapin, the demon-eyed octopus, the smirk little clams, the sad-faced bass, representatives from all ranks.

A large old-fashioned new England grill is the crowning feature of the room. You order your dinner and watch it cooked here, within arms reach. Call your directions. "Not so well done, chef! Too much salt, chef!" Poor chef!

Next time you're lazying around the house in the afternoon and are attacked by a yen for homemade cakes or cookies, succumb with no remorse and small expense. Reach for your phone, call —— and ask for Mrs. ——. Tell her just what you want and when you want it. Presto, it's yours. You may have visualized cakes, small cakes, large cakes, creamy cakes, light cakes, dark cakes and all kinds of cakes that melt in your mouth, but you never did dream of cakes like hers. Her angel food cakes are actually food fit for angels, and as for the devil's food cake, it is, too.

Little pecan waffers, cookies filled with raisins, dates and fruits. And the "booze cake"—well, that would be telling. She also takes orders for jellies, spiced and brandied peaches, conserves, salads, hors d'oeuvres and pretty little party sandwiches. You'll find her number a valuable one to list.

It doesn't matter what kind of bread you like, this F street bakery has it. And not only has it, but such bread as it is! The Boston brown bread tastes most strangely like real Boston brown bread, and that's unusual in this day and time, isn't it? As for the date and nut loaves, words fail, and our mouths water. Large loaves of nut bread, with more than a generous array of nuts! What you'll particularly like is the cheese bread. Keep this in the house and you'll never have to fear impromptu teas. Just slice it, butter it, and toast it, and there you are. No caterer needed here!

She was weary, hungry and agitated. Shopping all day was really a strain, she had missed luncheon and the cares of the world beset her. Quite by chance she wandered into a tea-room on Twelfth street. A cup of tea, she thought, would do wonders. This one did. She was seated in a low-lighted, large, room at a table in front of a cave-like fireplace when a reader of tea leaves approached her. She glanced into the cup and began speaking in her soft voice. The weary shopper listened half-heartedly at first. She became more interested as the future and even the past was laid open to her. How true, how probable, it all seemed.

The reader of tea leaves moved on to another table. The shopper beckoned the waitress.

"Seafoam pecan cake and another cup of tea!" she ordered. Hers was a new lease on life.

If you've never tasted stuffed calves' hearts, make up for lost time, here and now. Drop by a certain dependable meat market which makes a specialty of delicacies and buy a calf heart for 15 cents. Cut out the center portion and stuff with celery, ham and breadcrumbs. Bake for about 45 minutes in an even oven.

It might be appropriate, or it might not, depending on your budget at the present time. Call it the "two-penny salad:"

One package lemon-flavored gelatin, one pint warm water, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon celery salt, three tablespoons vinegar, two tablespoons tomato ketchup, one cup cabbage, finely shredded.

Dissolve gelatin in warm water. Add seasonings, vinegar and ketchup. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in cabbage. Turn into individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce. Garnish with mayonnaise. Serves six.

Oyster Omelet.

12 oysters
½ tablespoon flour
2 tablespoons fat
1 cup cream
6 eggs
Salt and pepper

Chop the oysters. Make a sauce of the flour, fat and cream. Add the well-beaten eggs, season with salt and pepper, stir in the oysters and cook as a plain omelet.

The Best Part of Any Party

Winter entertaining is just around the corner. It won't be long now until the afternoon cocktail hour will supplant the basking on the beach, the splashing in the club pool, the belated loitering on the links.

When guests drop in, by chance or by invitation, to partake of the contents of the refreshing tall glass, could anything more delightful in the way of suprise, be conceived, than a tray of hors d'oeuvres or canapes like those shown above?

You can make them yourself, if you're economizing about maids. Or they could even be entrusted to a new girl if you're training one, they're so really simple to prepare.

Dry or buttered toast is a good foundation, or water biscuits or crackers in case you don't have the special biscuits now on the market for just such a purpose.

The halved whites of hard-boiled eggs make decorative and appetizing foundations, too, as does celery when cut in four-inch lengths. Very small tomatoes are sometimes used and very effectively. The choice depends on the coook, as it is mostly her skill which determines the artistic look of the completed product.

The choice for filler is as varied as the taste of your guests. Filleted anchovies, sardines, caviar and pate de foie gras made into paste are always delectable.

Pieces of salmon passed through a sieve and mixed with creamy butter and a little pepper will please the most particular palate. Anchovy paste, bloater paste, or Roquefort cheese mixed to a smooth paste with butter can not be surpassed. This mixture is especially recommended for the celery stalk filling. Finely cut vegetables make a nice stuffing for the small tomatoes.

Beer Brings Back Cheese

Sales Boom as Nation Again Calls for "On Rye."

With the return of beer, just a few months back, there has been a 20 per cent leap in the sales of cheese, and the output still is increasing. It seems we're not a Nation of bread and cheese eaters, but of cheese and beer drinkers. Food shop and tavern keepers are now featuring scores of delectable cheese combinations.

Cheese, since the arrival of 3.2 beer seems to taste better and is aged better. The genuine French Roquefort still holds the lead as a popular beer companion. The perfect sandwich filler is prepared by mixing a little cream with the Roquefort and spreading on fresh rye bread. Its appetizing flavor is the result of six months of curing. Genuine Roquefort always is aged properly and tested before leaving the curing rooms.

Another cheese whose sales have increased since beer's return is the imported Swiss, with its sweet, salty aroma and firm, creamy texture. Edam has a sweet, nut-like flavor, a chewy texture and receives its share of admirers as a good beer cheese. Brick, sapsago and Stilton are also gaining in sales.

Dietitians, pleased with this universal desire for cheese flavors, predict we'll be a healthier, happier Nation. They have long criticized the unbalanced American diet and hoped for the day when more dairy products would be consumed to balance the meat and cereals.

Creamed Oysters.

1 pint oysters
4 tablespoons butter or other fat
6 tablespoons flour
1 pint rich milk
Salt and pepper

Heat the oysters in their own liquor until the edges curl. Make a white sauce with the fat, flour and milk. Combine the oysters and sauce, add seasoning and serve.

To a Child Portrait.

By Katherine W. Smith.

Will the hair, now blown by wanton winds,
Lose its light and be earth-dulled and spare?
Will the lips that curve in innocence
Be drawn and tight with never-uttered care?

Will the world's too thoughtless bitterness
Dim the laughter in the wonder-eyes?
What too long-neglected recompense
Will earth-joy make, while robbing paradise?

Fruit Compote Is Tasty Dessert, Easy to Make

Dessert, Madame? Whether the scene is a fashionable restaurant or a fashionable home, while fresh fruits are in season, the answer is likely to be—fruit compote. It's a favorite dessert of the operatic Lily Pons and many another celebrity. And if you serve it with tasty cookies or cake, it's as great a favorite with men as with women.

The trick of making this popular meal-ending is to stew whole fruit very gently in sugar sirup (half sugar, half water) just until tender. Then chill it thoroughly before serving, with the sirup it was cooked in poured over it. In order to cook the fruit without breaking it, cook only a little at a time, turning the fruit carefully till done, then removing it before putting in another batch. Peel pears and peaches before cooking them. (You can rub off the skin of peaches smoothly and easily if you dip them first in boiling water, then in cold water.) Do not peel plums, but prick the skin with a large needle so it won't burst.

Cooking and Flavoring Hints.

You can be fashionable with a compote of just one kind of fruit or several kinds. If you cook several kinds in the same sirup, it's a good idea to cook the fruits that give off color last. For example, in the fruit compote pictured—pears, peaches, plums and cherries, I cooked the plums last, so they wouldn't color the other fruits. For enough sirup to cook 4 peaches, 4 halves of pear, 4 plums and some cherries, put 1½ cups each of sugar and water in a small saucepan and let it boil 3 minutes before putting in the fruit.

If you like a bit of spice in your fruit compote, use whole spice so as not to discolor it. One stick of cinnamon 3 inches long, 1 teaspoon whole cloves and ½ teaspoon whole allspice tied in a small bag is enough to flavor 1½ cups of sugar and 1½ cups of water. Later on when quinces are in, you'll find a quince, apple and pear compote delicious, if you cook an inch piece of ginger root in the sirup before adding the fruit. Then cook the fruits in the order named.

Brown Sugar Nut Drops.

For just the right sort of little cookie to serve with your compote, here's brown sugar nut drops—a confection-like dainty that's best eaten the day it's made. Easy to make, and here's how: First, beat 1 egg white very stiff. Then gradually beat in 1 cup soft brown sugar (sifted), ⅛ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon vanilla. Last, fold in 1 cup pecans (chopped fine), and drop from tip of teaspoon 1½ inches apart on greased pan. Bake about 10 minutes in 325 F. oven. Carefully remove from pan with spatula while warm.

Something else that's slick eating right now—green peppers stuffed with corn and ripe olives; or rice, meat and cheese, or mashed sweet potatoes or nuts. Stuffed tomatoes also make prime eating now that tomatoes are in the height of their season. The Family Marketer

Oysters, a Few of Them, Are Here, After All; So Are White Heath Peaches.

Oysters "r" here after all. Not generally speaking, however. Down on the waterfront one store boasted a limited supply.

"We had to get them, so we did. That's all," reported the dealer. And there they were—a neat pile of oysters, in direct defiance of all reports that they simply would not arrive for their debut. They're selling for 50 cents a quart.

White Heaths Appear.

Now's the time for the white heath peaches. They've just appeared on the market. True to predictions, the supply is scarce and not of first-rate quality. But don't blame the peaches, blame the storm.

However, even a poor peach of this clingstone variety makes better brandy and pickles than a top-notch peach of some other varieties. You may buy them all the way from $2 to $2.50 a basket. If you want to take a gambler's chance, wait until next week to stock up on them, for they might be better, but the chances are they won't be cheaper.

Visitors from California! They've been here before, and will be here again, but these particular ones are such exceptionally good quality you shouldn't let opportunity knock in vain. Honey dew melons in the peak of condition, selling at 25 to 35 cents each.

Cantaloupes Fading Out.

Their first cousins, the cantaloupes, will be leaving town next week. Lately they've been making such poor pretense to flavor and sweetness that we're rather fed up on them anyway. There's a decided range of prices among the clan. They sell as low as 5 cents and as high as 15 cents.

Pumpkin pies and turkey for Thanksgiving, plum pudding and minced meats at Christmas, but give us the good old smoked ham on Labor Day. They're so little trouble to prepare, and they're so worth preparing. Don't fail to take advantage of the good supply on hand. If your budget puts up a kick, simply make up your mind and don't let it budge it. The price is reasonable, and the hams are worth every bit of the 20 cents a pound they're bringing.

Lamb, Calves Tongues.

There's another slant on marketing for Labor Day. If all the relatives from here, there and yon are preparing to vacation with you over the week-end, you'll probably want to tempt them with delicacies. If so, keep in mind that you can buy calf tongues, 15 cents each, or lamb tongues, 40 cents a dozen, and prepare them in a delectable fashion with very little trouble. Boil them in water with salt and pepper. Let them cool and cover with vinegar. Slice cold. If this doesn't tickle their palates, nothing will!

While we're on the subject of delicacies, let's not forget the dainty sweetbreads. Large ones are 60 or 65 cents a pair, smaller ones, 40 and 50 cents. The price does have a bugabooish aspect at first, but when you consider that the sweetbreads are all meat and require no trimming, you'll acknowledge that their "prohibitive price" is mainly legend.

Hale Peaches Excellent.

Hearty looking Hale peaches are selling readily on the market. Their luscious looks do not belie their taste. Here's a tempting morsel to promise the unruly member of the family if he'll stop his clamor and take his nap.

Hubbard squash are among the newest additions to the wholesale market, but hard to find in the retail stores. Their bulky, coarse appearance is camouflage for the sweet pulp within. Make ready for them, for they're here—5 cents a pound.

Eggs are slowly groping to the starry heights of prices. The first-quality kind are selling for 35 cents, 40 cents and 45 cents. Butter is a bit more conservative. You may buy it anywhere from 29 cents to 33, and the chances are that by the early part of next week, if it does go up, it will only mean the difference of 1 cent.

Prize Recipe Of This Week For Conserve

Mellow Plums, Plentiful On Market, Form Basis of Preparation.

Washington housewives who believe in household preparedness are taking advantage of the abundance of fruits and vegetables just now, to preserve and make jams for the winter. Marie E. Moran, 2416 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, has sent in a recipe for jam under the name of "conserve delicious," for which she has been awarded the $5 weekly food prize.

There are plenty of mellow plums in the markets and the neighborhood stores and these form the basis of this recipe.

Mrs. Moran's recipe calls for three quarts of mellow plums, one large ripe pineapple or two large cans of pineapple, four large oranges, four pounds of cane sugar and one pint of water.

Wash plums, pit and cut in quarters, pare pineapple, tear from the core with a silver fork, or use crushed pineapple. Cut the rind from two oranges into very thin strips. Divide the oranges into sections. Put sugar and water into kettle, stir over heat until dissolved, boil eight minutes, skim and add prepared fruit. Let come to a boil, then simmer slowly (covered for the first half hour) until the fruit is thick and clear with a rich syrup. Test on a saucer. When it jellies, the conserve is done. Put in hot sterilized jars and seal.

Appetizers

Here Are Some Suggestions That Might Intrigue Jaded Palates.

For that finicky appetite you might try:

A large dash of lemon juice in the morning tomato juice.

Tiny Spanish sausages with a fluffy omelet.

One of our best chefs assures us that a little bit of salt gives a lot of extra life to a cup of coffee.

Lamb chops with broiled peaches.

Chilled fruit juice with a couple of big spoonfuls of raspberry sherbet floating in it.

Caramel custard pie with pecans sprinkled over the top.

Cucumbers dipped in batter and fried like eggplant.

A meat sauce of finely chopped water cress and chile sauce.

Highly seasoned liverwurst rolled on pie crust a la jelly roll and baked.

Old-fashioned Sally Lunn for yo' hot bread.

Or biscuits of whole-wheat flour.

Experts Tell Toasting Art

Crisp or Soft, There's a Trick to Making It.

When you sit down to an American breakfast, you can bet on toast being a part of the menu. Because it is so generally accepted, so constantly demanded, clever cooks have discovered many ways of varying its appearance.

Toast experts tell you that white bread for toasting should be at least one day old. Graham or whole wheat bread may be one or several days old and is best in not-too-thick slices. It takes longer to toast white bread.

Raisin bread, although delicious when toasted, must be watched carefully as the raisins burn easily. It must be toasted slowly. Boston brown bread should be cut about half an inch thick, toasted slowly, served soft and well buttered.

English muffins may be split with a fork—never cut with a knife—and slowly toasted to a golden brown on the cut side, then quickly toasted on the crust side, and generously buttered. Rolls should be split lengthwise and toasted in the same manner.

Things to remember about toasting are: Toast which is "piled" becomes limp and soft, so spread it as much as possible; quick toasting plus thick bread makes soft toast; slow toasting plus thin bread makes crisp toast.

Rich, chewy marmalades, strawberry jelly and choice conserves, with sirup, molasses or honey occasionally, add to the appeal of toast for breakfast.

Texas Coeds Bring Food as Payment

Canyon, Tex. (U.P.).—When coeds come to West Texas Teachers College here this fall, they may bring traveling bags and trunks filled with canned goods and other foods to offer as part payment for their board and room.

Randall Hall, one of the dormitories on the campus, has announced a cooperative plan of operation. Each girl will be charged approximately $13 per month, $6 of which may be paid in commodities brought from their homes and farms.

Housework at the dormitory will be done by the girls themselves, under the direction of a supervisor, who also will be purchasing agent.

Pickle.

1 cup sugar
1 cup water
1 cup vinegar
3 cups papaya

Make syrup of sugar, vinegar and water. Add a few whole cloves and peppercorns and one-half ripe papaya cut into small pieces. Boil until tender. Ginger or lemon may be added.

Tobacco Marts In 2 Carolinas Ordered Closed

Pollard Joins Governors in Naming Protest Group to See U. S. Aids.

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 1 (AP).—Tobacco markets of the Carolinas closed indefinitely today as South Carolina swung into line behind North Carolina's plan for a market holiday until growers are assured better prices for their crop.

Gov. Pollard, of Virginia, asked by the North Carolina executive to cooperate, announced in Richmond late today the appointment of a committee to join the North Carolina delegation to the National Capital. He said he would either attend or send a personal representative.

A committee from South Carolina was also named by Gov. Blackwood. It consists of a dozen prominent men from the tobacco belt, including several mebmers of the Legislature.

In Washington, Secretary Wallace announced plans for putting into operation as soon as details can be worked out a "production adjustment plan" for next year's crop of flue-cured tobacco, grown principally in Virginia, the Carolinas and Georgia.

Stormy Mass Meeting.

At a stormy mass meeting here yesterday, 2,000 farmers unanimously demanded the closing of the warehouses and Federal aid, terming the prices bid on the auction markets ruinous. Virginia's markets have not yet opened.

Closing of the Carolina markets will shut off the buying of the big money crop of a large section of both States. The Carolinas and Virginia, raising millions of pounds, supply the greater portion of the world's demand for cigarette type tobacco.

Most of the tobacco sold so far this year has brought an average price of about 10 to 12 cents a pound, a figure the farmers contend is below the cost of production. It is little changed from last year. At the mass meeting here, the farmers demanded the price be raised to 20 cents a pound and speakers charged the "big four" tobacco companies arbitrarily set the price to be paid for tobacco.

Sales Conditions Different.

The tobacco farmer sells his product under conditions differing from those faced by any other farmer. He hauls his tobacco to a market town, dumps it on a warehouse floor and it is auctioned off to the highest bidder. If the farmer doesn't think the bid is high enough, he can refuse it, but he has no other outlet for his crop. The principal domestic and export tobacco companies have buyers on the Carolinas markets.

Warehousemen in most of the North Carolina markets met today and voted to support the plan for a holiday. A meeting of the Eastern Carolina Warehousemen's Association was called for tonight, however, to take formal action.

The tobacco markets do not operate on Saturday and how completely the holiday plan will be carried out will not be seen until Monday.

Pollard Names Delegates.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 1 (AP).—Gov. Pollard of Virginia today named a committee of six persons representing the Virginia tobacco growers to join a delegation of North and South Carolina representatives in a conference concerning increased tobacco prices with Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in Washington Monday.

The appointments were made in response to a request from Gov. Ehringhaus of North Carolina. Those appointed were State Commissioner of Agriculture George W. Koiner, J. Hurt Whitehead, of Chatham; Tucker Watkins, representing the Virginia Bright Tobacco Growers Marketing Association; N. B. Davidson, of Farmville; Thomas B. Hall, of Farmville, representing the Dark Fired Tobacco Growers, and Joel Flood of Appomattox, a tobacco grower.

Cheerful Financial News.

Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., find no slackening of the upswing in general business in their trade review of last week.

Employment in manufacturing plants in all but one industry throughout the Nation during July increased 10.2 per cent over June, largest percentage gain in 13 years, according to National Industrial Conference Board.

Crown Zellerbach Corporation for the quarter ended July 31 reports net profit of $326,409, compared with a deficit of $5,406 in the same 1932 period.

Dollar Rises, Reich Brewers' Hopes Do Also

Berlin, Sept. 1 (AP).—German beer manufacturers' hopes of exporting the beer to America rise and fall with the dollar.

When June beer exports to the United States tripled those of May and reached about 180,000 gallons, hopes rose.

In July when the dollar dropped to below three marks (against 4.2 parity) exports dropped heavily. Not only did the drop of the dollar affect shipments, but it also reduced the amount of beer taken out of bond in the Atlantic ports. The dropping dollar apparently made the beer too high in price even for the most sensitive American palates.

August's slightly better price for the dollar brought renewed hope to the brewers until the reports were in from the Pacific Coast where it was seen Japanese beer was making big inroads into the American market. Japanese currency is inflated about 40 per cent and against the dollar represents almost the old position.

Save for the most fastidious beer drinkers, German brewers as a whole, have no great hopes of any booming business with America. A few of the world-famous German breweries feel they will get their share of American business, but the average German brewer feels American brewers will be able to satisfy the American market.

Dullest 1933 Trading Marks Bond Turnover

Sales of $7,006,000 Set Year's Record; Minor Rails Decline.

New York, Sept. 1 (AP).—Preholiday apathy further restricted trading in the bond market today and prices generally mulled about in a listlessly irregular manner.

It was the dullest session of the year to date, sales totaling only $7,006,000, par value. The next previous lowest aggregate was December 5, last. The average for 60 domestic corporate loans eased one-tenth of a point.

Prime Investments Steady.

While prime investment issues maintained a fairly steady tone, some of the secondary groups slipped into lower territory. Most traders had already started their Labor Day recess and those who remained were extremely cautious in the matter of new commitments.

Several of the secondary carriers declined fractionally to a point or more, probably in response to forecasts of a moderate decrease in freight-car loadings. Among these were lines of Great Northern, Kansas City Southern, New York Central, Nickel Plate, Iron Mountain and Wisconsin Central.

Lackawanna Steel Up.

Loans of American & Foreign Power, Consolidated Gas, International Telephone, Postal Telegraph and a few other utilities eased. Industrial gainers of about a point included issues of American Metal, Houston Oil and Lackawanna Steel.

United States Government securities were a trifle lower. Foreign obligations were mixed. Bonds of Australia, Dutch East Indies, Japan, Switzerland, Great Britain and French municipalities moved up 1 to about 3 points, but the Argentines, Germans and Italians were heavy.

Norfolk Customs Jump $1,000,000 in August

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 1 (AP).—Norfolk's customs receipts for August showed a million dollars increase over the same month last year.

The combined receipts for Norfolk, Richmond, Newport News and Petersburg were $1,789,439.38. Last year the combined receipts for these four ports aggregated $533,074.37.

Foreign Markets.

London, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Business on the stock exchange was fairly quiet today with gilt-edged securities registering irregularity after their recent rise. Gold shares benefited from the record price reached for bar gold, while oil shares also were cheerful on better reports from America. Tin mining issues advanced on the better statistical position, which was due largely to a better demand from America. The market closed irregular.

Paris—Prices on the bourse advanced briskly with renewal of activity stimulated by the persistent heaviness of the pound sterling. Electric, coal, oil and international issues especially improved. The closing was firm.

Berlin—The boerse was quiet and inactive today and prices declined. The market recorded fractional to 1 point losses at the closing.

Silk Market.

New York, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Raw silk futures closed quiet: sales, 210 bales. October, *1.77; December, 1.79@1.80; January, 1.80.

Open market quotations (60-day basis): Shanghai, steam filature, 78 per cent seriplane, 20-22s, 1.75; Canton, double extra A, 14-16s, 1.40; Japanese, special crack, double extra, 81 per cent seriplane, 13-15s 2.02.

Stocks Rise One Point In Last-Minute Flurry

Oils Make Best Showing as Shorts Cover in Final Hour; Gold Shares Rise During Generally Dull Day; Sales, 1,218,380.

New York, Sept. 1 (AP).—A flurry of last minute buying sent stocks up today as traders evened commitments prior to departure on a market holiday that will last until next Tuesday morning.

It was a perfunctory session throughout and the ticker spent many idle minutes. When shorts began to cover in the final hour prices advanced easily, bringing an average net gain of around a point. Volume amounted to 1,218,830 shares.

The market lacked much incentive or anything but a routine performance. On the basis of group behaviour, oils looked best and most of the leaders there finished a point or more to the good. Gold shares were firm as the metal's price in London reached a record high at an American equivalent of $29.59. Homestake jumped 4.

Others Show Gain.

Elsewhere gains ranging from major fractions to about one point were returned by U. S. and Bethlehem Steels, National Biscuit, American Telephone, General Motors, Chrysler, Case, American Tobacco, New York Central, Santa Fe, Kennecott, DuPont, Allied Chemical and Westinghouse.

Woolworth was a favorite of the moment on reports that its August sales had run ahead of last year, the point being made that the company operated under code conditions last month.

The oil industry's steering committee, in session at Washington, was said to be aiming at dollar crude, which would mean an advance from current levels. As regards another major industry, transportation. Wall street looked for little change in the freight loadings report. Published after the close, instead of tomorrow morning, it showed a decrease of 2,847 cars for the week ended August 26 from the previous week's total, but was 94,231 cars above a year ago.

Money Markets Dull.

Dullness also extended into the money and foreign exchange markets. European gold currencies lifted moderately in terms of American dollars, but trading had a holiday tinge and changes seemed to carry no great significance. First of the month financial settlements, including dividend and interest transfers, again were cared for without effect on credit rates; as a matter of fact, it has been a long time since month-ends brought any noticeable flurry.

Week-end mercantile comment was favorable. Dun and Bradstreet said there had been no hesitation in the "forward decisive" movement of trade. Retrospect, it asserted, "has been discarded for an alert interest in the tangible benefits that are now convincingly visible."

"News of the rise in consumer buying," the review added, "is factual, being supported by the sales reports and figures issued by chain and department stores and mail-order houses. Retail sales are now increasing at a far more rapid rate than industrial activity is declining. * * * The general public appears to have become reconciled to the inescapability of rising prices and apparently is prepared to withstand the shock of the abrupt advances which become general on the first of this month."

Woolen Goods Display Moderate Turnovers

New York, Sept. 1 (Spl.).—Wool goods markets were moderately active during the past week, according to the New York Wool Top Exchange Service. In contrast to the hesitancy in wholesale markets, reports from a number of retail clothing centers indicate that retail stores are rapidly disposing of stocks and will soon be in the market for new supplies.

It is estimated that sales of clothing to date are 35 to 40 per cent ahead of last year and that this gain will become more noticeable as cool weather forces consumers into thinking of fall and winter wardrobes.

The Markets at a Glance

Stocks.

Stock prices rose in a last-minute flurry. Oils made the best showing as shorts covered in the final hour. Gold shares also did well. Sales dropped to 1,218,380 shares. The composite price gained 1.1 points.

Bonds.

The dullest market this year was the outstanding feature of the bonds in preholiday sales. The turnover dropped to $7,006,000. An irregular trend ruled. Prime investment issues were steady. Secondary rail and investment loans declined fractionally to a point. A few utilities lost. The average price lost 1-10 of a point.

Curb.

Curb oil shares advanced up to 2 points in a last-hour rally. In general throughout the day the market was extremely dull. On the whole the tone was steady. Sales rose to 246,000 shares.

Wheat.

A desultory tone governed grain changes. Wheat closed dull, ⅛ to ⅝ below Thursday's price. Corn dipped. September wheat sold at 85⅞; May, at 94.

Cotton.

Quiet changes occurred in cotton. In the late dealing prices sagged down to scattered liquidation and Southern selling. Closing quotations were slightly lower than those of Thursday, December sold at 9.54; October at 9.35.

Rubber.

Crude rubber closed quiet. September sold at 7.25; December at 7.74.

Sugar.

Raw sugar was quiet. Both raw and refined were unchanged at 3.60 and 4.70, respectively.

Coffee.

Spot coffee was dull. Rio No. 7 sold at 7½; Santos No. 4, at 8¾.

Silver.

Bar silver in New York was steady and unchanged at 36⅝.

Gold.

Bar gold sold in the United States at $20.67 per ounce; in London at 130 shillings and 8½ pence.

Dollar.

The United States dollar lost on foreign exchanges. It stood in New York, with reference to other currencies, $4.53 to the English pound; 5.61¼ cents to the French franc, and 34.12 cents to the German mark.

Baltimore Company Declares Dividends

Baltimore, Sept. 1 (Spl.).—At the regular meeting of the board of directors of Commercial Credit Co. today, regular quarterly dividends on the 6½ per cent and 7 per cent preferred and 8 per cent class "B" preferred stocks were declared, payable September 30 to stockholders of record at the close of business on September 9.

Regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents per share for the third quarter was reestablished and declared, and 75 cents per share unpaid accrued dividend for the first quarter, ended March 31, was also declared on the $3 class A convertible stock, payable September 30, 1933, to stockholders of record at the close of business September 9.

Steady Climb Of Oil Shares Features Curb

Petroleums Gain Up to 2 Points; Trading Rises to 246,000 Issues.

New York, Sept. 1 (AP).—The curb market was an extremely drab affair today, and buying in oils provided the only flicker of interest. However, despite the general apathy, the market maintained a steady tone and prices closed generally unchanged to slightly higher.

Oils made steady progress from the opening of trading, but demand increased substantially in the last hour. Gulf and Humble oils gained 2 points each, while Standard Oils of Indiana and Ohio improved a point or more. Mining shares were steady to firm, New Jersey Zinc advancing to 58 for a gain of 1⅛ points.

Alcohols held within extremely narrow bounds, while utilities were at their dullest in some time. American Light & Traction rose 1½, while other power shares showed trifling changes.

Transfers approximated 246,000 shares, compared with 210,000 Thursday.

Utility at Waynesboro To Pay Consumer Tax

Waynesboro, Pa., Sept. 1 (Spl.).—Announcement was made today that the South Penn Power Co., subsidiary of the Potomac Edison Co., will after today absorb the 3 per cent Federal tax on current consumed for either domestic or commercial places in this section.

For the last several months the tax was paid by the consumer. It does not mean that the amount paid the Government will be reduced, but will be the company's expenditure instead of the consumer's.

Clarksburg Factory Wages And Output at Boom Levels

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 1 (Spl.). Pronounced industrial recovery, bringing factory output, wages and employment up to the 1928-29 level when they reached their peaks, is indicated in a survey just completed of the 12 largest industrial concerns of the Clarksburg district.

In these 12 plants more than 5,000 workers are now employed and the aggregate payrolls have mounted to $1,000,000 monthly. The most of them pay every two weeks, and in two instances—that of the local plant of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. and the Hazel-Atlas Glass Co.—all-time payroll records were broken at the last pay day, August 26, when $100,000 was distributed among 2,000 workers.

The Hazel-Atlas Co. is now employing 1,390 workers. A year ago it employed 670. During the last 90 days 450 workers were added. Three hundred workers have been added to the local plant of the Weirton Steel Co., bringing the total complement up to 1,050. After an idleness of 18 months, operations have been resumed at the Adamston Flat Glass Co.'s plant, which is employing 225. Approximately 1,300 workers have recently been added to these 12 plants.

Another indication of a restoration of good business in the region is seen in the report that the Monongah division of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad is now loading an average of 1,000 cars of coal and freight daily.

The Clarksburg district has numerous small industrial concerns, which were not included in this survey and which will swell the totals given to a marked degree.

Banking Firm Here Enlarges Office Space

Because of notable increase in business, Lincoln Service Corporation, industrial bankers, has expanded its quarters in the Woodward Building too twice their former size. Both banking room and office space have been increased.

Officials of this corporation, organized in 1931, said yesterday that the month just closed was the largest for business in its history. In May, 1933, this corporation acquired control of Takoma Industrial Bankers, Inc., and in July last it purchased control of Dealers Credit, Inc.

Officers of the company are, president, Charles Delmar; vice president, Francis J. Crilley; treasurer, William Jeffries Chewning, jr. These and the following serve as directors: Durand W. Springer, William J. Byrne, Frank B. Severance and Rowland C. Ringgold.

Mr. Delmar has been connected as an executive with similar large organizations for more than 17 years. Mr. Crilley formerly was credit manager of the Morris Plan Bank of Washington, and Mr. Chewning formerly was associated with Washington Loan & Trust Co. for a number of years.

Mr. Springer is secretary of the American Society of Certified Public Accountants. Mr. Byrne is a tax consultant and Mr. Severance is connected with the First National Bank of Gaithersburg, Md. Mr. Ringgold is an executive of Sharpe & Dohme, Baltimore.

Quarterly Rise In Studebaker Profits Shown

Increase of $88,000,000 in Canadian Financing in 1933 Reported.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 1 (Spl.). During the second quarter, ended June 30, 1933, Studebaker not only produced a net operating profit of $187492.84, but also succeeded in adding $1,368,787.33 to its cash account. Such was the statement made here today by H. S. Vance, A. C. Bean and Paul C. Hoffman, receivers of the Studebaker Corporation.

"Studebaker's second quarter operations ended with our June 30 balance sheet showing cash on hand amouting to $2,406,788.87," said the statement. "This represents an increase of $1,368,787.33 over the cash of March 31, which was $1,038,001.54.

"'In addition to this a net operating profit of $187,492.89 was shown after charging off $144,810.76 for tooling expense in this quarter. This tooling charge was abnormal and offset by the fact that the net operating profit does not include depreciation of manufacturing plants and property, although it does include $24,445.80 of other depreciation and $134,808.95 repairs and replacements."

New York, Sept. 1 (Spl.).—The volume of new Canadian government and municipal bond issues during the first eight months of this year amounted to $282,352,982, compared with $194,340,909 in 1932, and $287,294,919, exclusive of a conversion loan of $639,816,500, in 1931, according to Wood, Gundy & Co., Ltd.

This is the first time in 1933 in which the volume of financing has exceeded the corresponding period last year. Of the total for this year $149,352,982 was sold in Canada, $60,000,000 in the United States and $73,000,000 in England. Dominion government financing accounted for $183,000,000 and provincial bond issues for $73,881,238 of the total for the first eight months of this year.

Total new issues during the month of August amounted to $129,247,642, compared with $9,739,118 last year and $1,740,407 in 1931. Of the total for August, $56,247,642 was sold in Canada and $73,000,000 in England.

Kelvinator Corporation today reported that the month just passed was the best August in its history. Shipments were 135 per cent of those in the best previous August and 358 per cent of August 1932, H. W. Burritt, vice president in charge of sales said. August shipments alone were more than those made during the combined months of July, August and September of 1932, he stated, and a sufficient bank of unfilled orders is being carried over to assure continued relatively high employment records for September. Kelvinator Corporation has broken records every months since March, Mr. Burritt stated, and "we are convinced that our continued heavy use of newspaper and magazine advertising is helping us to make the most of the rapidly improving business conditions."

Northampton, Pa., Sept. 1 (Spl.). The Northampton Brewery Corporation announces that the company's plant at Northhampton, Pa., is now operating at a capacity of 225,000 barrels per annum compared with 50,000 barrels as of May 8, 1933. Expansion to a production of 400,000 barrels annually is contemplated in connection with the broadening of the market for beer. The company is now serving 14 States, including New York City.

Statement of income, profit and loss from April 17, 1933, to June 30, 1933 (first shipment May 8), shows gross profit per barrel of $7.25 and net profit of $4.64 before depreciation and Federal income taxes. The brewery was originally established in 1896 and Sold Tru-Blu porter, Pilsener and Munchner beer prior to prohibition.

New York, Sept. 1 (AP).—The New York Stock Exchange has received notice that interest due today on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway, secured by 4½ per cent bonds, series A 1952, would not be paid.

The announcement likewise stated that interest would not be paid on the Rock Island, Arkansas & Louisiana Railway Co. guaranteed first mortgage 4½ per cent bonds of 1934, which was due today.

Desultory Tone Rules as Grain Prices Decline

Wheat Closes Weak, 1/8 to 5/8 Off, in Preholiday Lull; Corn Dips.

Chicago, Sept. 1 (AP).—Grains "marked time" in a desultory preholiday market today, which saw prices yielding fractionally.

Issuance of private crop reports indicating a sharply curtailed corn crop had only a momentary effect on trading. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace's remarks warning farmers that inflation might prove harmful was also passed by without comment. Most of the business was of an "evening up" character and found traders unwilling to commit themselves with a triple holiday ahead.

Wheat closed dull and weak, although near the day's top levels, but 1/8 to 5/8 cent below yesterday's closing prices; corn, easy and 1/4 to 1/2 cent lower; oats unchanged to 1/4 down; rye, 1/4 off to 3/8 up, and provisions with a mixed tone, ranging from 10 cents decline to 8 cents advanced.

Wheat Changes Unimportant.

Wheat fiddled around in a range of about a cent a bushel. Buying lacked snap, as did selling. Little attention was paid to the general run of news. Reports from Australia indicated that beneficial rains had fallen, with prospects for a crop of 152,000,000 bushels, compared with 210,000,000 harvested last year.

Dry weather continues in the Argentine, with frost forecast for tonight. A fairly good export demand for Canadian wheat was reported. Deliveries on September contracts were not much heavier than expected at 2,145,000 bushels of wheat.

News from the corn country was distinctly bullish in tone, but it might as well have been neutral for all the effect it had on trading. Private crop authorities issued a monthly crop report today indicating a corn crop of 2,235,000,000 bushels, or 135,000,000 bushels less than was estimated a month ago.

Low Crop Forecast.

The condition of the crop was placed around 60 per cent of normal, the lowest with one exception, in 30 years. Normally at this time of year, estimates on the corn crop rise about 2 bushels an acre, which this year would have meant an increase of 155,000,000 bushels.

However, this bullish showing brought little buying into the pits. Corn traders were not disposed to commit themselves far with three days intervening before another market session. The corn trade is also disturbed over the corn-hog situation, wondering how the Government slaughter of hogs will affect consumption of corn.

Oats trailed along with interest lacking. Rye again displayed some independent strength, but was also narrowly traded.

Provisions were easier with grains despite an advance in hogs.

Wool Market.

Boston, Sept. 1 (A.P.) (U. S. Dept. of Agriculture).—Wool prices are very firm at recent selling ranges as a result of advanced asking prices. Demand is not quite as heavy as earlier in the movement of the past two weeks, but sales continue in very substantial volume. Strength in medium qualities is outstanding. Good combing territory and other Western-grown wools above 56s, ⅜-blood quality, are quite active. Strictly combing 58s and 60s, ⅜-blood territory wool sells at 70 to 78 cents, scoured basis.

The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow: "There has been a very heavy turnover of wool in the Boston wool market, estimated at close to 30,000,000 pounds in the last ten days, mostly in worsted wools of the finer qualities. Prices are stronger and in most grades slightly higher for the week.

"Buying has been chiefly for account of the larger worsted mills and the top-makers and is consequent upon sizable orders placed in staple goods for men's wear and also in dress goods and cloakings. The outlook in the goods market, clearly, is viewed with confidence.

"The opening of the Australian season at Sydney this week was stronger than expected, average fine top-making wools costing about 90 cents, clean basis, landed in bond, at Boston, equivalent to about 82 cents, clean, for competing domestic wool.

"There have been some clearances of left-over wools in the West this week at recent top prices.

"Mohair is very strong on moderate demand. Shearing on the new fall clip is progressing in Texas."

The Commercial Bulletin will publish the following quotations:

Leading Markets Will Close Today

New York, Sept. 1 (AP).—Financial markets throughout the country will be generally closed tomorrow, permitting an extended Labor Day vacation.

Security and commodity exchanges in New York, Chicago and other centers in the United States, as well as the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, shut up shop until next Tuesday morning at the conclusion of business today. Banks here will be open Saturday, but not on Monday.

The New York Stock Exchange has not indicated whether its Saturday closing, started July 29 at a time of great market activity, would be continued, although in some brokerage circles there has developed considerable sentiment in favor of extending the five-day market week.

Baltimore Telephone Net Income Up $5,000

Baltimore, Sept. 1 (Spl.).—Net operating income of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. of Baltimore City in July showed an increase of $5,107 over the same month in 1932, the report of operations just filed with the Maryland Public Service Commission shows.

Operating revenues in July were $1,005,970, as compared with $1,063,710 last year, a decrease of $57,740. Operating expenses were $669,190, as compared with $744,254 for July, 1932.

Bristol Phone Co. Profits.

Bristol, Va., Sept. 1 (Spl.).—The Intermountain Telephone Co., with main offices in Bristol, operated at a profit in 1932, a report of the Interstate Commerce Commission, just released, discloses. Net income of the Intermountain Co. was $78,065. The company had 14,882 telephones in use in 1932, the report said.

Home Owners' Bond Purchase Progress Seen

New York, Sept. 1 (AP).—Trading in bonds of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, dealers report here, is proceeding satisfactorily and inquiries are said to be increasing daily.

Active trading in the bonds started at the beginning of the week, it was reported by Slattery Brothers, Inc., members of the New York Real Estate Securities Exchange and specialists in the new securities.

The bonds are described as legal for savings banks and acceptable under certain conditions in exchange for existing mortgages. The coupon is limited to 4 per cent and is exempt as to principal and interest from taxation, with limited exceptions.

The Home Owners' Loan Corporation, created by a special act of Congress, has an authorized capitalization of $2,000,000,000, of which $200,000,000 has been subscribed by the Government.

Interest on the bonds is guaranteed by the Government. The bonds are issued in denominations of $50 and up.

Announcement was made recently that the Federal Home Bank Board would soon issue a statement concerning the investment value of the bonds.

Dealers in the New York market reported today that the bonds were quoted at 90 bid; offered at 92.

World Cotton Supply Off 1,259,000 Bales

New York, Sept. 1 (Spl.).—The world supply of all growths of cotton for this season promises to be approximately 1,259,000 bales less than the supply of last season, according to the New York Cotton Exchange Service.

The indicated world supply this season is 39,407,000 bales, which compares with 40,666,000 last season and 40,481,000 two seasons ago.

Increase in Farmers' Income In 1933 Put at 44 Per Cent

New York, Sept. 1 (Spl.).—Preliminary estimates of aggregate gross farm income for 1933, as compiled by the Standard Statistics Co., of New York, indicate that farmers will receive approximately $7,280,000,000, or $7,500,000,000, including probable bounties, for their products, an increase of almost 40 per cent over that of the preceding year.

While this estimate is tentative, being based on present forecasts of crop yields and recently prevailing price levels, it is believed to be conservative.

On present indications, therefore, 1933 will mark the first reversal in the drastic downward trend of farm income during the depression period, which reduced total gross income from $11,911,000,000 in 1929 to $5,240,000,000 in 1932.

The current estimate of the probable farm market value of the year's agricultural marketings, moreover, does not take into account the additional cash income of some $250,000,000 expected to be received by farmers from the Government as bonuses under the agricultural adjustment act.

Notwithstanding the sharp improvement in prospect for the year, gross income will probably be about 39 per cent below that of 1929 and some 57 per cent under the peak recorded in 1919. Moreover, owing to the drastic declines in indicated crop volumes, the larger aggregate crop values expected for 1933 will be derived in full from the advance in farm commodity prices.

As a partial offset to the irregular distribution of cash incomes owing to partial crop failures in several sections, however, is the fact that crop production costs have been lowered materially this year, as compared with 1932, while Government aid of various types will improve cash incomes irrespective of individual crop yields.

Holland to Stay on Gold Standard, Bankers Say

Amsterdam, Holland, Sept. 1 (AP). Despite numerous difficulties, Dutch banking circles consider it very improbable that the nation will go off the gold standard.

There probably will be a deficit of 500,000,000 to 700,000,000 guilders ($278,000,000 to $389,000,000 at present exchange) in next year's budget and it may be necessary for the government to negotiate a loan. In addition, other financial and commercial difficulties are influencing Dutch currency unfavorably.

Menace to Franc Seen in U. S. Code

Paris, Sept. 1 (AP).—A warning to European countries that their economic situation in the future is likely to be endangered by "the sudden redressment of the dollar after its artificial fall," was sounded today by Henry Berenger, chairman of the foreign affairs committee, writing in the Agence Economique et Financiere.

He said the dollar would be worth more than 12 francs should the Roosevelt "code" put it there and it was worth more than 18 francs today.

"Its former gold coverage is not changed and it remains the strongest in the world in the face of all other money," he continued. "As for the immense natural richness of the United States and their potential incomparable economy, they are always there."

"What will the consequences of a turn of the crank handle be for European economy and European banks?" he asked. "A sudden repatriation of the masses and reappreciated dollars can cause such maladjustments that currencies in Europe may be, if not wrecked, at least seriously weakened."

Six Breweries Open Soon in West Virginia

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 1 (Spl.). Steps have been taken for the reopening of four breweries in West Virginia and it is stated that similar action will be taken in the near future for the resumption of two other brewing plants.

A brewery in Parkersburg is now nearing completion, a group there having taken out a State charter with a capitalization of $250,000. Within the last few days attorneys representing groups in Huntington, Charleston and Fairmont have consulted with officials in the State auditor's office at Charleston relative to permission to sell stock and other securities in brewery projects there.

There is to be one brewery in each of the four cities named, while the other two projects in prospect are two breweries at Wheeling.

The Fairmont group of business men reports that it has obtained a secret process whereby the ageing process is shortened to ten days and that distribution will begin not long after the plant is started.

West Virginian Credit Bureau Aids to Meet

Martinsburg, W. Va., Sept. 1 (Spl.). The sixteenth semiannual convention of Associated Credit Bureaus of West Virginia will assemble here Monday morning, September 18, for a two-day meeting. New officers will be elected.

From West Virginia 20 credit bureau managers are expected to attend. Credit managers for Hagerstown, Frederick, Cumberland and Baltimore, Md.; Winchester and Harrisonburg, Va., and Chambersburg and Carlisle, Pa., have been invited to be present. The Chamber of Commerce here is joining with Martinsburg Credit Bureau in being hosts to the convention.

Commodity Buying Suggestions Given

New York, Sept. 1 (Spl.).—The following suggestions as to a purchasing policy for various commodities are contained in a current bulletin of the Standard Statistics Co., of New York.

Advance purchasing justified around current prices: Bituminous coal, brick, burlap, cement, cocoa, copper, fuel oil, gasoline, hides, hogs, lead, linseed oil, lubricating oils, paper, paraffin, pig iron, rayon, rosin, scrap steel, silver, steel, sugar, turpentine, wool, zinc.

Cover future requirements on definite price, weakness: Barley, corn, cotton, cottonseed oil, flour, lard, oats, rubber, rye, silk, tin, wheat.

Advance purchasing should be postponed: Anthracite coal, butter, cheese, coffee, eggs, lumber.

Man at Morgantown Given U. S. Bank Post

Morgantown, W. Va., (Spl.).—J. Clyde Smith, president of the Suncrest Homes Co., here, has been appointed a land bank appraiser and assigned to the Federal Land Bank of Baltimore, according to information received here from John H. Gill, deputy land bank commissioner of Washington.

This district in which he will work includes Deleware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, District of Columbia, Virginia, West Virginia and Puerto Rico.

Farm Credit Body Sells 62,500 Bags of Coffee

The Farm Credit Administration announced yesterday the New York coffee office of the Grain Stabilization Corporation on August 31, 1933, sold 62,500 bags of Santos coffee at prices ranging from 8.76 cents to 8.90 cents per pound.

This sale constitutes the regular allotment for the month of September offered to the trade on sealed bids of coffee acquired from the Brazilian government in 1931 in exchange for American wheat.

Quiet Changes Rule in Cotton; Late Prices Sag

Liquidation Turnover Cuts Quotations Down While Dec. Nets 9.54.

New York, Sept. 1 (AP).—Trading in cotton was generally quiet today and largely of a preholiday character, with prices sagging off a few points under scattering liquidation combined with a little Southern selling.

December deliveries, after selling at 9.60 early eased off to 9.53 in the late trading and closed at 9.54 with the general market closing steady at net declines of 2 to 5 points.

The opening was 2 points lower to 3 points higher. Traders found no trading incentives in the overnight news and orders were pretty well divided at the start. Trade and commission houses were credited with buying, while in addition to liquidation there was some selling by the South and selling through houses with continental connections.

New Orleans Demand Aids.

New Orleans demand for July had a sustaining influence on the general market but the buyers did not follow the market above 10.16 for that contract. Final prices were at or within a point of the lowest for the day.

The report of a tropical storm over Cuba attracted attention but registered no appreciable effect on the market.

Liverpool cables were not far out of line with expectations. Private advices reported a quiet market there, with light continental hedging absorbed by limited trade calling and some buying on weevil reports from the South.

The two private crop reports issued so far show condition figures ranging from 65.2 to 65.8, while figures on the indicated crop run from 12,608,000 up to 13,033,000 bales.

Exports today 21,227, making 554,518 so far this season. Port receipts, 62,454. United States port stocks, 3,001,948.

125 Men Hired By Winchester Rubber Plant

Winchester, Va., Sept. 1 (Spl.).—Announcement was made here today by the O'Sullivan Rubber Co. that as a result of putting in three 8-hour shifts per day and an increased demand for rubber products, 125 adidtional employes have been added to the company's pay roll, while total salaries for the unit are up $10,000 per month.

Declaring that "We have all the business we can handle," a spokesman for the company stated that the total number of employes at the plant was now 400 and that prospects for continued demand for the rubber products indicated that there would be plenty of work for all far into the winter season. They stated that the greatly increased demand for rubber products had occurred during the past 30 days.

Although President Roosevelt has yet to approve formally the code for the rubber industry, it was stated at the plant that it was probable it would immediately begin working under the NRA code when it is approved. Male labor would receive a minimum of 40 cents an hour and female labor 28 cents an hour, under the code.

The O'Sullivan Rubber Co. has principal offices in New York City, R. J. Funkhouser being president. The Winchester plant is one of the company's largest branches. Rubber heels, soles and associated products are manufactured.

NRA Brings Strike In Michigan to End

Hillsdale, Mich., Sept. 1 (AP).—One thousand workers in the three clothing plants of the Hillsdale Manufacturing Co. returned to work today after a three-day strike when assurance was given that the firm would pay the minimum $13 wage set by the NRA textile code.

Department of Commerce officials in Detroit, after conferring with officials of the factories, reported the firm was willing to abide by all provisions of the code, signed some time ago.

Kingsport Press Raises Wages.

Bristol, Va., Sept. 1 (Spl.).—Signing of the NRA reemployment agreement has increased the payroll of the Kingsport Press by approximately $12,000 monthly, E. W. Palmer, president, said in an address before the Bristol Kiwanis Club yesterday. The Kingsport Press, located at Kingsport, Tenn., 23 miles west of Bristol, is the largest printing and bookbinding establishment in the South and one of the largest in the world.

Construction Work Declines During August

Private Building Activities Total $439,935, Loss of $85,385.

Private construction in the District in August had a valuation of $439,935. This was revealed yesterday by the monthly report of the office of District Building Inspector Oehmann. The August figures are $85,385 under the previous month's total and $577,805 below that of August, 1932.

Last month's total represents $272,860 in new construction and $167,075 in repair work. The former was distributed by sections as follows: northeast, $53,900; southeast, $22,450; northwest, $196,510; southwest, none. Repairs were distributed: northeast, $13,765; southeast, $1,680; northwest, $140,540; southwest, $6,090. Erection of 70-brick structures was begun during the month. Among the latter were 43 one-family dwellings having an aggregate value of $241,650.

The educational committee of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, for the school year 1933-34 has been selected and is now formulating plans for the first semester term, according to Robert H. Lacey, cashier, Columbia National Bank, and president of the chapter.

Chairman Is Appointed.

Mr Lacey announced appointment of Walton L. Sanderson, of the personnel of the proposed Hamilton National Bank, as chairman of this committee for the ensuing year. J. Earle McGeary, W. B. Hibbs & Co., second vice president of Washington Chapter, is also announced as the committee's vice chairman.

Mr. Sanderson is a native Washingtonian, a graduate of Eastern High School and has been active in the work of the local chapter for a number of years, having served as its chief consul, treasurer, second vice president. He was elected in June to the office of first vice president. He has served on many of the institute committees and attended its national conventions in Detroit, Tulsa and Pittsburgh. He was awarded the institute's standard certificate in 1926 and later received certificates in commercial and investment banking and public speaking.

Other members of the educational committee are Katherine W McCalmont, W. B. Hibbs & Co., secretary; S. Winifred Burwell, National Metropolitan Bank; Aubrey O. Dooley, Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co.; James C. Dulin, jr., Frank M. Perley and Paul J. Seltzer, American Security & Trust Co.; Joseph R. Fitzpatrick, Second National Bank; G. Elmer Flather, Union Trust Co.; Constance D. Fogle and I. J. Roberts, Riggs National Bank; William H. Laughlin and Rose L. Royce, Washington Loan & Trust Co.; T. Hunton Leith, Security Savings & Commercial Bank; Richard A. Norris and James A. Soper, Lincoln National Bank; E. Wallace Schreiner, First National Bank of Alexandria, and Gertrude C. Wick, Liberty National Bank.

Messrs. Dooley, Dulin, Leith, Norris, Perley, Roberts and Soper are past presidents of Washington Chapter.

Life Insurance Sales Rise.

Earl D. Krewson, agency director, Washington branch office, New York Life Insurance Co., announced yesterday that in July, 1932, the paid business of this office was 116 applications for $348,200 and that in July, 1933, it was 165 applications for $461,217. In August, 1932, paid business was 110 applications for $262,500 and in August, 1933, it was 203 applications for $400,371.

S. William Miller, assistant treasurer, Union Trust Co., will attend the American Bankers Association convention.

Vice President and Treasurer Charles R. Grant, Washington Loan & Trust Co., has returned to his desk following recent illness.

President Ord Preston, Union Trust Co., will attend the convention of the American Bankers Association in Chicago next week.

President Harry G. Meem, Washington Loan & Trust Co., will return from his vacation in Atlantic City, next week.

Bristol Knitting Mills Report Capacity Orders

Bristol, Va., Tenn., Sept. 1 (Spl.).—Joe Fleming, president of Bristol Knitting Mills, said yesterday his plant has orders booked for the entire September and October output and that orders are being accepted only subject to November, December and January shipment.

L. A. Sterchi, president of the Bristol Retail Merchants Association, was authority for the statement that local stores have increased their employed personnel by 20 per cent under the NRA.

Business Notes.

New York, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—August bookings of Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., will exceed those for August, 1932, N. G. Symonds, in charge of sales, predicted. Orders for the year show a lag of about 12 per cent behind 1932, he said.

York, Pa., Aug. 30 (A.P.).—The end of the week will find the 167 cigar plants of central and southeastern Pennsylvania in operation with adjustments made for participating in the NRA program, to which, said C. M. Ehehalt of the Manufacturers Association, all have pledged support.

Chicago, Aug. 30 (A.P.).—Power output in the Chicago district gained 13.3 per cent last week over the corresponding week in 1932, amounting to 96,330,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 85,023,000. The three weeks preceding showed larger gains, and the failure to show corresponding increases was blamed in part on bright, cool weather.

Chicago, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Another unit to its manufacturing and converting mills will be opened in September, Marshall Field & Co. department store announced today. About 400 persons will be employed in the plant.

Chicago & Northwestern Railroad today reported freight cars moved last week represented a gain of 135 cars over those of the week ended August 19 and 885 more than a year ago.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Arthur F. Hall, president of the Lincoln Life Insurance Co., said a survey by the National Underwriter indicated that total insurance payments in Illinois in 1932 were $256,000,000—an increase of 32 per cent over the previous year.

(Associated Press.)

Ewing Mitchell, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, said American operated airlines flew 25,862,120 miles, transported 235,139 passengers, 3,648,217 pounds of mail and 1,055,876 pounds of express the first half of 1933, compared with 24,668,414 miles flown, 248,954 passengers, 4,324,807 pounds of mail and 712,638 pounds of express the first half of last year.

Nats, 12-3 Victims of Macks, Hold 8 1-2-Game Lead as Yanks Bow

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

Philadelphia, Sept. 1.

WITH no attempt to detract from the efforts of the Nats in the imminent dethronement of the Yankees as American League champions, I find the Boston Red Sox guilty as an accessory before the fact.

They speak of the Red Sox with reverence and respect on the Washington club now and the Nats would, if they could, vote the Boston team honorable mention in the 1933 pennant race, for it has been the club from the Hub that has rendered the Nats the most valuable assistance in knocking off the Yankees.

The Sox were the first club in the league to haul off and take a poke at the Yankees this season and the only club to help the Nats tear down that aura of invincibility that surrounded the New Yorkers after they galloped through the Cubs in four straight games in the 1932 world series and then stepped out to a 6-game lead in the American League race this season.

Sox Took Series From Yanks.

It was in mid-June, when the Yankees were breezing along serenely with a six-game lead in their sails, that they ran into the squall in Boston. On that occasion, the Red Sox knocked the haughty New Yorkers off in four straight games and proved the club that paved the way for the Nats to step into the lead.

And yesterday and today, the Red Sox virtually applied the finishing blows. While the Nats were idle yesterday, the Sox bumped off the Yanks in New York, and today, with Washington losing to the A's, the Red Sox rescued their 8½-game lead by bowling over the Yankees again, this time with a nice display of tenacity in 12 innings.

Thus the Nats are beholden to the Boston Club for its valuable assistance in dethroning the Yankees. But the debt is double. Although the Sox have been a continual thorn to the New York Club, they have been literal push-overs for the Nats, who have won 14 of the 18 games between the two teams.

Get Honorable Mention, Only.

But honorable mention is all the Red Sox are due to get from the Nats. In no way will the Washington Club be permitted to show its gratitude. Not a sou could the Nats turn over to the Red Sox for their valued services this season, even if the Washington ball players felt so inclined. There's a rule against it.

Ever since young Jimmy O'Connell and old Cozy Dolan approached Heinie Sand, the third baseman of the Phillies, that day back in 1925 when the season was waning, and, according to Sand, asked him to tell the Phillies "not to bear down" against the Giants, gifts among ball players have been taboo.

That was the year when the Giants were winning the pennant and the Phils, as usual, were going nowhere in particular. O'Connell and Dolan were thrown out of baseball for their part in approaching Sand.

No Tokens Of Appreciation.

Even if a pitcher of a hopeless last place club should turn in a brilliant game at the expense of one of the flag contenders and help the cause of another contender, a player of the latter club is not permitted to send as much as a shirt or a tie to the winning pitcher as a token of appreciation.

The penalty for such transactions is severe. The offending player is thrown out of baseball. The rules are very clear on that matter and thus the most that can be done in expressing gratitude and appreciation in those cases is a friendly pat on the back.

Runs, Hits and Errors.

The Nats had a pennant-winning battery in the game today in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings . . . McColl and Bolton, who won the flag for Chattanooga in the Southern Association last year . . . There were extenuating circumstances in that passed ball committed by Luke Sewell and his wild throw that followed, which gave the A's two runs in the fifth inning today . . . On the previous pitch a foul tip had split a finger on Sewell's throwing hand . . . Ed (Butch) Chapman is the pet victim of the A's . . . In the three innings they have faced Chapman this season they have socked him for two home runs, three triplets and three singles . . . They are the world champions as far as Chapman is concerned . . . If the Nats split even in their remaining 28 games, the Yankees must win 23 out of 29 to create a tie for the pennant . . . In other words, they must do slightly better than win four out of every five games . . . Just to draw the picture a bit finer, that means that if the Yankees lose two games in a row they must win eight straight to keep up their four-out-of-five average . . . It's Crowder and Russell for the Nats tomorrow in the double-header . . . with Grove and Walberg for the A's.

Chicago Legion Wins.

New Orleans, Sept. 1 (AP).—The Chicago American Legion Junior baseball team swept through to a 14 to 5 victory here today over the Trenton, N. J., nine in the first game of the "little world series."

Harmsworth Challenger Is Ready

British Motorboat Is Set for Race Against Two U.S. Entries Today.

ALGONAC, Mich., Sept. 1 (AP).—Her bottom carefully coated with three layers of graphite, Miss Britain III., the tiny English-built hydroplane with which Hubert Scott-Paine hopes to lift the Harmsworth Trophy, was declared by her mechanics and pilot tonight to be as nearly ready for tomorrow's contest with the giant defender, Miss America X as their skill and ingenuity could make her.

Aside from today's construction activity on the grand stands, there were last-minute inspections of the course itself, which stretches from just north of this village, the home town of Gar Wood, veteran defender of the Harmsworth plaque and birthplace of all his long line of Miss Americas, to a point above Marine City.

Final Plans Made.

There were final instructions also to course patrol crews and to the traffic squads, which will control automobile pilgrimages to the course.

As has been their policy since it became assured they would meet in the Harmsworth contest, neither Scott-Paine nor Wood tonight ventured any predictions on the outcome. The British pilot has let it be known he will be satisfied if he can "give Wood a race," and finish each heat against him. Wood has said his boat is ready for a stiff race and he has no fear that it "might crack" under the extra speed he may be forced to develop.

In all his Harmsworth career, Wood has never been forced out of competition by mechanical difficulties—a fate which has overtaken virtually every foreign contender. Wood was beaten in one Harmsworth heat, by Kaye Don in 1931.

Detroit Yacht Club, Detroit, Sept. 1 (U.P.).—Horace E. Dodge's Delphine V will enter the British International Trophy (Harmsworth) Race on the St. Clair River tomorrow afternoon, he announced late today.

"I am satisfied that the boat will go fast enough to provide an interesting race," he told a United Press reporter aboard the yacht Yoreda, flagship of the Gold Cup committee.

"She is not fast enough to win, but I want to see what she will do."

Reis, in El Lagarto, Is Gold Cup Winner

Detroit, Sept. 1 (AP).—Winning two heats easily and finishing second in the final 30 miles, El Lagarto, of Lake George, N. Y., with George Reis at the wheel, captured the gold cup here today.

El Lagarto had made a walkaway of the first two heats, averaging better than 60 miles an hour in each of the 30-mile runs. Apparently unwilling to take chances in the final heat in which he needed only a third place to win the cup on points, Reis eased down and sought only to finish.

On points the finishing order was El Lagarto, 1,116; Delphine IV, 1,122; Delphine VII, 648. Delphine IX broke a rod and dropped out of the final heat.

Miss Van Wie Eliminates Briton

Miss Wilson Routed, 6 and 5, in Women's Title Semifinals.

Miss Hicks 6-and-4 Victor Over Miss Orcutt; Title Round Today.

EXMOOR COUNTRY CLUB, Highland Park, Ill., Sept. 1 (AP).—England's hopes of winning the United States women's golf championship prize were struck dead at Exmoor today by the America defending champion, Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago. She defeated Enid Wilson by the astounding score of 6 and 5 by shooting under par.

Lifted to the heights as three-time champion, Miss Wilson spread-eagled her field for four successive days with England's greatest burst of par-breaking golf in the American championship. Then she went stale and fell like a broken idol.

Joining Miss Van Wie in the finals was one of her firmest friends, Helen Hicks, of New York, 1931 champion, who romped home with a victory almost as big as Miss Van Wie's—a 6 and 4 conquest of Maureen Orcutt, of Haworth, N. J. The two American girls will met for the title tomorrow over 36 holes.

Cards Even Through 13th.

They could go to extra holes tomorrow if they kept today's pace, as both scored under par with their matched cards all square at the thirteenth green, where Miss Van Wie finished her war on the British.

Miss Van Wie's victory over the English champion today was a rout from the first tee shot to the final hole, as the American champion caught the tall, blonde girl from the Nottingham Hills sadly off her approach game and riddled her hopes with shots that broke par by 2 strokes. The Briton, fell to a 6 down disadvantage on the first nine, as Virginia romped out with a medal of 37 that came within 1 stroke of men's par. The invader took only one hole in the 13 played.

Miss Hicks, who made an unenviable record at Salem last year by becoming the first defending champion to fail in the qualifying round, hammering out drives that ranged from 255 to 250 yards, broke par by 3 shots for 14 holes and lost only 2 holes to Miss Orcutt.

The Cards.

Vergez, of Giants, Now Out of Danger

Boston, Sept. 1 (U.P.).—Johnny Vergez, lost to the New York Giants for the rest of the season because of an emergency appendicitis operation, rallied out of danger today while his mates strengthened their league lead by defeating the runner-up Boston Braves in both ends of a double-header.

Knowledge that the Giants had fought to a double victory, despite his absence at third base, was one of several developments that cheered Johnny toward what is hoped will be speedy recovery. Other factors were the arrival of the player's wife from New York, and installation of a radio in his room at St. Elizabeth's Hospital so he can hear the play-by-play description of the Braves-Giants series.

Dr. Michael E. McCarty, Braves' team physician, who operated on Vergez last night after the player had been stricken during the first game of the series, took Johnny's name off the danger list early this afternoon. He said he now anticipated routine recovery, barring unlooked for complications.

Bobby Pearce Wins.

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 1 (U.P.).—Bobby Pearce of Australia tonight wrested the world's professional sculling championship from Teddy Phelps, of England in a dual race over a 3 mile course.

In this, his first professional appearance, Pearce finished more than a quarter of a mile ahead of the defending champion. His time was 19 minutes 25 3-5 seconds.

Post Mortems . . .

Mrs. Crowder and Mrs. Manush viewed proceedings at The Post Scoreboard from the sports department yesterday . . . and started to chew gum when our side got behind . . . thinking to help the team over the hump . . . before they got through, they had everyone in the office chewing gum, too . . . but the superstition failed to work . . . and how . . . Westrope's win on Willie Klein at Saratoga yesterday boosted his season record to 201 . . . only 11 short of the modern mark set by Johnny Gilbert last year . . . Robert Washington scored for Alexandria yesterday . . . in the Washington-Alexandria Playground meet . . . Mr. and Mrs. E. Lipscomb went deep-sea fishing down in Florida for the first time a few days ago . . . and landed a big sailfish, kingfish, three dolphin, eight bonito . . . and a Spanish mackerel . . . what, no kippered herring?

There must be something in the air in Boston . . . Johnny Vergez, of the Giants, was taken from the field in Beantown for an operation a few days ago . . . and, if you will recall, Joe Judge also was stricken in the Hub City some time back . . . Fred Schulte does not think that Godwin and Knight were trying . . . he should stop some of those punches the boys were ducking . . . wonder what he would say if Godwin and Knight said he wasn't trying . . . Flaming Mamie was the first winner ridden by Jockey Cruz . . . that was last year . . . yesterday he rode the same horse home at Marlboro . . . George Honey went hitless in Thursday's game as his team, the Phoenix, downed the Brenizers . . . it was the first time in 24 games that he had failed to get at least one safety.

U.S. Title Means Clean-Up for Crawford

Australian and Perry Are Picked as Net Finalists at Forest Hills.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (U.P.)—When play begins in the men's national tennis championships at Forest Hills tomorrow, Jack Crawford, the Australian rubber salesman, will be face to face with the opportunity to establish himself as the only absolute ruler the game ever had.

Crawford, just another tennis player twelve months ago, started his climb toward world supremacy by winning the Australian title late last year. His next conquest came in the French championships at Auteuil, where he smothered Henri Cochet in straight sets in the final.

Beat Vines at Wimbledon.

He followed this with a smashing five-set triumph over Vines in the Wimbledon final, and then went on to win his singles matches in the Davis Cup tie with England, defeating Fred Perry and Bunny Austin. If his magic racquet brings him through at Forest Hills next week, Crawford will stand alone and unchallenged as the game's greatest.

The general opinion is that Crawford and Perry, British Davis Cup hero, will meet in the final round for the first all-foreign final since Rene Lacoste and Jean Borotra, of France, monopolized the spotlight in 1926. Judged by the records of the last season, the quarter-final line-up should be something like this:

Ellsworth Vines vs. Lester Stoefen, Wilmer Allison vs. Perry, Frank Shields vs. Jiro Satoh, and Cliff Sutter vs. Crawford. Then, if play runs true, the round of four should be composed of Vines, Perry, Shields and Crawford.

Reds Rout Cubs, 7-3, As Wild Pitchers Help

Cincinnati, Sept. 1 (AP).—Their own pitchers wild enough, but those of the Chicago Cubs wilder, the Cincinnati Reds celebrated home-coming today with a 7-to-3 victory over the fourth-place Chicagoans.

Cards Buy Borgman From Columbus Team

St. Louis, Sept. 1 (AP).—Branch Rickey, vice president of the St. Louis Cardinals, announced tonight the purchase of Benny Borgman, a shortstop, from Columbus, Ohio, of the American Association.

Before going to Columbus this year, Borgman was with Greensboro, N. C., in the Piedmont League, another Cardinal farm. He will report to the Cards next spring.

"We regard him as a valuable player," Rickey commented.

Switzerland Leads.

Zurich, Sept. 1 (AP).—Switzerland took a lead of 2 matches to 0 over Belgium in the elimination round of the 1934 Davis Cup competition today.

H. C. Fisher defeated Andre Lacroix, Belgium's No. 1 ranking player, 6—2, 3—6, 6—2, 6—2, and M. Ellmer, Switzerland's No. 1 star, turned back M. Mayert, 6—2, 3—6, 7—5, 7—5.

Giants Bump Braves, 2-0 And 5-3

48,000 See New York Put Crimp in Flag Hopes of Boston.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 1 (AP).—The mighty arms of Carl Hubbell and Fred Fitzsimmons both pitched and batted the New York Giants into a double victory today that dropped the Boston Braves into third place, a single point behind the Pittsburgh Pirates. A crowd of 48,000, the largest major league crowd of this season in Boston, saw the games.

Hubbell outclassed Fred Frankhouse by a wide margin while hurling the Giants to a 2-0 win in the 10-inning opener. His famous screw ball baffled the Braves, as he chalked up his twentieth victory of the season and his tenth shutout. Fitzsimmons was almost as effective while working for his 5-3 triumph in the second half of the clean-sweep, which lengthened the Giants' lead over the virtually deadlocked Pirates and Braves to seven games.

Given Shabby Support.

The Giants gave their brilliant ace shabby treatment making him work so long for his deserved victory.

Fitzsimmons had the second game firmly under his thumb until the eighth inning, when the Braves bunched four of their six hits for three runs that tied the score.

3 Auto Race Drivers Injured in Accident

Rhinebeck, N. Y., Sept. 1 (AP). Three racing drivers were seriously injured late today when their automobiles piled up on a cruve during a 10-mile race on the dirt track at the Dutchess County Fair. One was believed to be dying. The injured drivers are Art Foley, of Rock Island, Ill., Jimmy Patterson, of Kansas City, Mo., and Vernon Orendorf, of Tallahassee, Fla. They were all rushed to a hospital unconscious. Patterson was not expected to live.

Mr. Khayyam Choice To Win Chicago Derby

Chicago, Sept. 1 (AP).—Mr. Khayyam, victor in the American Derby and enough other important events to establish a claim to the 3-year-old championship, will seek to strengthen it tomorrow in the revival of the Chicago Derby, the main attraction of Hawthorne's closing day.

The Catawba Farm Stable star conquered good horses in the Wood Memorial and the Chesapeake Stakes, and on a fast track tomorrow will be a big favorite in the $10,000 added test at a mile and a quarter.

The East will have two other powerful representatives in Okapi, from the Brookmeade Stable, and F. A. Griffith's Sarada, a hard luck horse. Sarada was highly regarded as a Kentucky Derby prospect but developed a cough and had to be scratched.

Cruz Boots Aella to Victory as 5,000 Crowd Sees Feature Race at Marlboro

Capital Youth Rides Three Winners

Golden Princess Second, Bridgeminister Third in the Southern.

HOWARD CRUZ (his mother calls him Harold) again stole the show at nearby Marlboro where some 5,000 were indulging in the "sport of kings" yesterday afternoon. The Washington jockey, among other things, rode the winner in the Southern, the day's feature race. He had the mount on the favorite, Aella, and left no doubt in the minds of those who backed his charge virtually off the board as to which was the best horse.

Aella came down the stretch with plenty of daylight between her and Golden Princess, the determined second horse. Bridgeminister had to be satisfied with the show award.

Starry cut out the pace in the mile-and-sixteenth test, while Aella and Golden Princess laid, within striking distance. On the back stretch the second time, Cruz was first to begin his move, and Sage immediately let out the wraps on Golden Princess. The latter pair managed to whittle down the lead in the stretch in a futile attempt to take the purse.

Three Winners for Cruz.

The victory gave Cruz three winners for the day and brought his total for the meeting to eleven.

Tody West made every post a winning one in the first race, drawing away at the end to have a three-length margin over Scotty Don, which in turn was another half length ahead of Crossing Over. The last named was the favorite. The winner paid $14.70 to the lucky backers.

Cruz came back into the win column on Bokie B., the odds-on favorite, in the second race. Both the horse and the rider had to be much the best to take the decision as the race was run. Bokie B. broke far back and Cruz was forced to take the wide route. He worked his way up on the outside, however, and there was plenty of daylight between Bokie B. and Dutiful at the finish. The well-played Noajoyce was third. The time of 1:09 1-5 matched the fastest of the meeting.

Jim Moss Scores in Third.

Jim Moss, a 4-year-old maiden, had his coming-out party in the third race to the tune of a $16.50 mutuel. J. Pierce guided him home in front of Ruth Tidings, with Cruz in the saddle. The latter pair had a mighty rough trip and were lucky to be close. Third money went to Dunora.

Flaming Mamie, the public choice, with Cruz up, scored a well-earned victory in the fourth race. The daughter of Blazes had things her own way for most of the route. Royal Lassie, a 50-to-1 shot, did the chief chasing, and placed ahead of Flageolet.

Sand Bell won the sixth easily, and the seventh went to Light Breeze, the favorite.

Strange as It Seems —By John Hix

GOLF experts have estimated that the odds against making a hole-in-one are all the way from 1,000,000 to 1 to 20,000 to 1. At any rate, 500 to 1 is closer than the odds should be, but Tommy Kerrigan took the short end of such a bet—and almost won.

He missed his ace by one inch. The bet was made after a round in 1922 when Kerrigan made a hole-in-one on the 195-yard thirteenth hole at Siwanoy. Playing the same course that afternoon a fellow player, Joe Higgins, offered to lay 500 to 1 that Kerrigan could not duplicate his morning feat.

Kerrigan took the bet and drove straight to the cup. The ball rolled directly to the pin—but stopped just one inch short of the hole.

Mammoth Cave, Kentucky, has many offshoots and passes that no man has ever explored; nobody knows how many hundreds of miles these unknown tunnels may extend. The known parts of the cave extend so far that some are known to be 200 miles long. A man could hike a month by easy stages, or a week continuously, and never retrace his steps.

The cave, although apparently known to the Indians years before, was rediscovered for the white men early in the nineteenth century when a hunter chased a bear into it. During the war of 1812 it was developed as a munitions plant where, strange as it seems, the gunpowder factory was located a mile underground.

Marlboro Race Track.

Dear Mike:

So you double-crossed your old pal. You should be ashamed of yourself. I left you at Hawthorne to pick for me while I'm down here with the half-milers and what did you do? You put over five winners last Thursday and yesterday you came back to five more. What are you trying to do? You'll have my job soon and go sour and we'll both be starving. Have a heart. By the way, where did you pick up that Kingpin? That $20.46 mutual was a pip. And you slipped four trained seals home—Drombo, Blacklog, Parafour and Good and Hot. Remember, two a day will keep the boss away. Lay off that five stuff.

BILL.

P. S:—You better have some hot ones ready for me next week. Or you don't eat.

First Race—This Play is due to show improvement. Has raced well and is speedy in trials. Cruz is likely to have the mount. Stimulaw's opening day race was a beaut. The one to beat. Mon Nuage for the show.

Second Race—Horatio Hugh, one that I tried to put over opening day, goes from the rail position here. If hustled away from the barrier, he may make this field eat his dust all the way. Big Dipper, a little tiring, lost a purse through rough riding of her jockey. Dangerous here. Nay Nay to take care of the others.

Third Race—Bohemian Grove won a purse here and then lost in the stretch the next time out. With Cruz doing the hustling I expect a winning performance. Nora's Grace is sharp and will make it close. Black Dreams to show.

Fourth Race—Clear Knight takes off weight here and may win that heat. The majority of fans have been expecting such. Busy Ike won his last and is a factor. Gayly Boy or Sublevado may be the sleeper. The first named draws Cruz and the last named wasn't extended as we saw yesterday's race.

Fifth Race—Rustic Cuba with Cruz up should take care of this kind. The second horse in my book is Trangressor. Must have a rider, however. Mordrom has run in and out and goes for the show today.

Sixth Race—McDonald H ran his race here earlier in the meeting and should repeat. Gunther, Cruz up, was forced to take the long way round the last time. Expect Gunther to turn the tables on Madge's Fellow for the place.

Seventh Race—Jambalaya and Cruz turned in a winning race at this course and appear formidable again today. Miss Catalan is the one the top fellow must beat. Kingbird may go well.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TODY WEST, $14.70, $6.80, $3.30; SCOTTY DON, $5.40, $2.90; CROSSING OVER, $2.40.

TODY WEST broke fast from the outside position, raced to the top and, saving ground at every turn, won in hand. SCOTTY DON, off slowly, closed gamely last quarter. CROSSING OVER was catching tiring horses at the end. KARONITE in trouble early, tired after getting clear on the back stretch. PIMOCHIO, fractious at the post, bolted into the fence and unseated rider, showed speed for a half, and then quit.

SECOND RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $300; claiming. The Queen Anne Purse. For 3-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:42. Off at 2:46. Winner, J. Arthur's b. f. (4), by Alibi—Superbum. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $200; second, $60; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 0:24 1-5, 0:50 2-5, 1:09 1-5.

Strongest Field in History Seeks President's Cup 3-Mile Swim Title Today

Ruddy Seeks 7th Title In Row

Lee, 10-Mile Champion, Given Best Chance to Upset the Dope.

RAY RUDDY is generally conceded to be up against tougher opposition in his attempt to win the President's Cup 3-mile swim today for the seventh consecutive time than he has been since he first captured the event in 1927.

One outstanding threat to Ruddy's supremacy will be the presence of his teammate, Ed Lee, who last week won the 10-mile national championship at Philadelphia, in which Ruddy failed to finish. Lee has always been a serious threat to his fellow New York Athletic Club water churner, extending him to the limit to win other President's Cup swims here in the past. Because of his sterling performances so far this year, Lee is generally conceded an almost even chance with Ruddy in today's swim.

Bayville Champs Here.

A concerted assault will also be made upon the New York Athletic Club's virtual monopoly on the team-championship trophy. The Bayville (Long Island) Aquatic Club's 10-mile national championship team will be there in all their glory, as will strong aggregations from the Baltimore Knights of Columbus, Y. M. C. A. and Bay Shore Swimming Club. Local teams will compete from the Washington Canoe Club, Y. M. C. A., Shoreham and Ambassador. One entrant from the Brooklyn Pastime Athletic Club will also attempt to cover the distance.

The swim will start from the Washington Canoe Club at 3 o'clock.

The entries:

Washington Canoe Club—Carl Ahlenfeld, Arthur Daley, Carl Hess, Robert Kemp, Eric Larsen, John Molyneaux, Robert Wrenn.

New York Athletic Club—Leo Giebel, Ed Lee, Don Ruddy, Ray Ruddy, U. Tracy.

Shoreham Swimming Club, D. C.—George Bell, Thornton Burns, William Ketler.

Knights of Columbus, Baltimore—Frank Cummings, Arthur Hucht.

Y. M. C. A., Washington—Ernie Boggs.

Y. M. C. A., Baltimore—George Dyer, Charles Fleury, Jr., Robert George, Anthony Kleas, Homan Kinsley, James Morrow, Fred Muhlenfeld, Michael Paskauskas.

Ambassador Swimming Club, D. C.—Kenneth Bowie.

Bay Shore Swimming Club, Baltimore—Paul Chrisman, Paul Dunleavy, Joseph Motz.

Pastime A. C., Brooklyn, N. Y.—John C. Merle.

Unattached—Robert Hogan, New York City; Ralph Faulkner, Washington, D. C.; Frank Faulkner, Washington, D. C.; Daniel Winey, Baltimore, Md.; George Dolly, Baltimore, Md.

Bayville (Long Island) Aquatic Club—Anthony Marcus, Edward Weeks, Joseph Hodgins.

Dougan Meets Knowles On Twin City Card

Leroy Dougan and Perry Knowles last night were signed for a 10-round bout to cofeature Tuesday night's show at Twin City Arena. Billy Jones and Larry Johnson, outstanding colored leather pushers, are principals in the feature 10-rounder.

Knowles and Dougan, avowed enemies, were to have boxed at Fort Washington last night in the semiwindup to the Maxie Koshover-Roddy Davis fight. The show was postponed when Koshiver injured a hand. Knowles has long sought a bout with Dougan. The Indian hurled challenge after challenge at the little Scotchman. Leroy was willing to fight, but no promoter favorable to the match could be located.

Aztecs and Hillsdales In Colored Title Play

The second round of the Colored City Championship Baseball tournament will be played today at 3 o'clock on the Monument Diamond, when the Aztec A. C. nine meets the Hillsdale A. C.

The third round in the series will be played Sunday in two games. The Hillsdales engage the Georgetown Athletics at 1 o'clock and the Anacostia Athletics play the Aztecs at 3:30.

Want Tennis Games.

The Olympic A. C. Tennis team wishes to book games with junior teams. Call Adams 8168-W before 10 a. m. and after 7 p. m.

Action in Ballston.

The Ballston A. C. will play the Ballston Firemen on the Ballston field on Glebe road at 3 o'clock Sunday. Monday, the Ballston A. C. will play the Griffith Blue Coals on the same field at 3 o'clock.

Play at Indian Head.

The Indian Head baseball team will play the Georgetown A. C. nine Sunday and the Suwanee nine Monday. Both games are scheduled for 3 o'clock on the Indian Head diamond.

Tennis Official Sides With Latona

Baker Says Government Tourney Ban Does Not Affect Status.

THAT the status of Anthony Latona has not been affected by his exclusion from the Government employes' tournament by Referee Louis I. Doyle, is the opinion of Lawrence Baker, secretary of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association, given in a statement to The Post yesterday.

Mr. Baker stated further that, while he was not entirely familiar with the circumstances surrounding the Latona-Doyle controversy, it was his opinion that while officials conducting the Government tournament had a perfect right to bar any player, they had not the right to brand a player a profcssional—if that was done, as reported in some statements attributed to Doyle.

Net Body Decides.

"Insofar as the Lawn Tennis Association is concerned," stated Mr. Baker, "the exclusive right to determine a player's professional status rests entirely with the executive committee. Latona's entry is acceptable in any tournament conducted under the sanction of the Lawn Tennis Association. Should a protest be lodged against the acceptance of his entry in a.y tournament sanctioned by the association on the grounds that he is a professional, which I hardly think possible, the question of determining his status would be left entirely to the executive committee of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association."

Nationals Routed By Mackmen, 12-3

alley, and the A's had a 3-to-0 lead.

Fred Schulte left a pair stranded on the bases in the third, and Whitehill escaped without further damage until the fifth, which is a very sad inning to relate.

Cochrane dropped a Texas League single in right field and slammed a single through the box. Cochrane scored while McNair was forcing Foxx, and Johnson sent McNair to third with a single to center. Higgins scored McNair with a single past Cronin and, with Finney at bat, Sewell let the first pitch get away from him.

The ball rolled back to the screen and Johnson scored from third base when Sewell's return to the plate hit the runner full in the stomach. Whereupon, the ball bounced all the way to the Washington dugout and Higgins scored from first base with the fourth run of the inning.

The Nats picked up a run in the seventh on Cliff Bolton's single and Myer's double, but the A's, aided by a pair of walks and singles by McNair and Finney, came back with two against old Alec McColl.

Cronin led off the eighth with his homer, and Cliff Bolton's double and Pinch-Hitter Sam Rice's single gave the Nats two runs for the inning, to cut the A's lead to 9 to 3, whereupon the Macks butchered Chapman for three runs in the eighth, launched by Cramer's homer, and followed by a single by Cochrane, a triple by Foxx and a single by McNair.

Le Droits Tigers Travel.

The Le Droit Tigers, champions of the Tri-State League, will go to Suffolk, Va., Sunday morning to engage the Beverly Black Sox in games that afternoon and on Monday. Fans desiring to accompany them may make connections with the bus early Sunday morning at Seventh and T streets northwest.

Staubly Wins Feature Net Match

Rallies to Beat Phillips in Government Employes' Tourney.

PHILLIPS, Treasury, put up a Stiff fight before finally bowing out to Alan Staubly, District, in a 6—1, 3—6, 8—6 fourth-round match that featured the Government Employes' tennis tournament yesterday.

In the third set Phillips led, 4—3 and 5—4, but got too cautious in the face of Staubly's reckless fire.

Amy Tabler and Margaret Ryan staged a marathon affair, in which Miss Tabler took the first set, 6—3, and the second set was 6—6 when the referee called the game on account of darkness.

Treasury Adds to Lead.

The Treasury team further increased its lead in points scored, having chalked up 18 to its nearest rival's 16, which are accredited to the Patent Office representatives. The first ten point scorers are as follows: Treasury, 18; Patent Office, 16; Agriculture, 11; District, 6½; Interior, 5½; Veterans' Administration, 5½; Army, 3½; Bureau of Investigation, 3; G. A. O., 3; Postoffice, 3; Tariff Commission, 1½; R. F. C., 1½.

Men's Singles.

Quarter-finals—Blade (Treasury) defeated Trisz (Postoffice), 7—5, 6—4.

Men's Doubles.

Quarter-finals—Cowley and Allen defeated Sherman and Royall, 8—6, 6—1; Goldsmith and Wallenstein defeated Steinhauser and Reyes, 6—2, 6—2.

Women's Singles.

Semifinals—Amy Tabler (District) vs. Margaret Ryan (Int.), 6—6, unfinished match; Mary Ryan (Int.) defeated Betty Whitfield (Agriculture), 6—0, 6—0.

Men's Consolation Singles.

Second round—Crowley defeated Beach, 6—0, 6—0; Coe defeated Levy, 6—2, 6—0; Chamberlain vs. Campbell, 6—3, 2—2, unfinished; J. Resnek defeated Richardson, 6—4, 6—0.

Tuesday's Matches (At Potomac Park).

Men's singles, quarter-finals—5 o'clock, Shore (Bureau of Investigation) vs. Seidel (Treasury); McElvenny (Treasury) vs. Dorst (Army); Goldsmith (Patents) vs. Staubly (District).

Men's doubles, semifinals—Cowley-Allen vs. Goldsmith-Wallenstein.

Women's singles, finals—Winner of Margaret Ryan (Int.) vs. Amy Tabler (District) unfinished match vs. Mary Ryan (Int.).

Men's consolation singles, second round—5 o'clock, Woods vs. Shappiro, Chamberlain vs. Campbell, unfinished match; Arps vs. Freedman, Wise vs. Virnelson, Carr vs. Lamberti; 5:30 p. m., Pollock vs. Miller, Johnson vs. Yeomans.

2 Contests Scheduled In Capital City League

Only two games are scheduled in the Capital City League tomorrow, but one of these virtually will decide the winner of the second series. Griffith-Blue Coals are booked for a tussle with Stanton Cleaners and American Linen Supply will cross bats with the Federal A. C.

Dor-A, Woodley A. C., St. Joseph's and Miller Furniture Company teams will draw byes. The majority of them have scheduled games over the week-end and Labor Day for foreign diamonds.

Beaver Dam Caddies To Semifinal Round

H. W. Reynolds, the medalist and defending champion, progressed to the semi finals in the caddy's tournament at Beaver Dam yesterday by beating A. L. Mason, 5 and 3.

In other quarter-final matches, C. W. Tyler defeated C. E. Millikin 1 up in 20 holes, E. C. Cade defeated E. R. Millikin 6 and 5, and J. C. Noone clocked up a 3 and 2 win over M. A. Jarvis.

The Semi finals will be played at 8 o'clock today and the finals sometime Sunday afternoon.

D. C. Boys Winners In Playground Meet

Boys from the Washington Playgrounds defeated their Alexandria rivals yesterday in their first annual track and field competition, 157 to 42, on the Chevy Chase Playground track.

Washington showed surprising strength by capturing every first place in the meet, but were closely pressed in the 100-pound class broad jump, when Lee Lusby, local champion, barely nosed out Dick Spittle of Alexandria, by one inch, in his leap of 18 feet 8 inches.

Dixie Pigs Win In Week-Day Series

G. P. O. Held to 2 Hits by Spiegel in 7-0 Defeat; Stahl Hero at Bat.

BEHIND the two-hit pitching of Bennie Spiegel, the Dixie Pigs romped to an easy 7-0 victory over Government Printing Office in the Weekday League championship series yesterday.

The Dixies pounced on Frank Corkins for four runs in the first inning, driving him from the mound. Bob Lyons, who relieved him, was nicked for three markers in the fifth.

George Mosedale and Freddy Noone were the only members of the losing team to solve Spiegel. The series will be resumed today at Griffith Stadium.

Miss Helen Hicks (left), of New York, and Miss Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, are exhibiting their winning smiles as the United States women's golf championship trophy separates them. Cover the loser with a piece of paper after the result is known of their final match today and you will have an up-to-the-minute photograph of America's 1933 golf queen.

Death Ends Colorful Career Of One E. Phocian Howard

By Westbrook Pegler.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 1.—E. Phocian Howard died today and any one who tries to depict him to you might as well grab up all the paint cans and just sling them at the page. Mr. Howard was a human rainbow, inside and out, and the only color which had no place in his scheme was yellow. But there was a bit of purple to him. He often wore a purple plaid suit and purple tie with a pink shirt and collar and ruby studs and links. This combination, with his white spats, white hat and gold-headed stick he used to refer to as his mourning costume. When he really dressed up, he sometimes went in for effects that were almost gaudy.

He came out of Danville, Ill., as a boy to serve as page in the United States House of Representatives under Uncle Joe Cannon, his personal sponsor. Since that beginning he had been a Washington political correspondent, a financial editor in New York, and a promoter of oil wells in California, Texas and Louisiana, and of a real estate subdivision in Florida. He was always a horse and faro player and sport in the old meaning of the word.

His last enterprise was the New York Press, a weekly turf paper of which he was the spark and spirit and which he referred to sardonically as the "Fireside Companion" and the "Family Journal." He made it a curious mixture of news of the world and the underworld for he had more acquaintances in the underworld than any other journalist now in practice, and moreover he knew the aged veterans as well as many of those whom he called contemptuously, the young punks.

Mr. Howard's policy with the New York Press was to butter his victims all over for weeks on end. Every woman mentioned in his paper was "charming" or "sweet as a peach" and every man was a giant and a standout in his line and noted for his private philanthropies. "Gives away more scratch than most people handle in a life time and never says a word about it."

Mr. Howard used to write "scratch" as his word. It is in the language now but he put it there.

Had Little Use for Cash.

Phocian had a very severe and strict code of morals, but he never saw anything wrong in the business of taking a sap. Yet he wanted money only for the pleasure of giving it away or spending it and among "our kind of folks" he was always good for at least half of what he happened to hold at the moment. Or if he did not hold anything and a friend had to have some, Phocian would release his trained wasp to go out and put the bite on somebody who had some. These were his phrases which contributed the most enchanting conversation that I have ever listened to.

One day his friend, Hy Schneider, the tall Texas horse writer, was needing a little money and dropped in to collect $20 which Phocian owed him for a story printed in the Press. Phocian had just come somehow with $250. He paid Hy Schneider his $20 and they started down in the elevator to buy a drink. There were eight or nine broke horse players in the elevator, and Phocian began shoving bills into their pockets as the elevator descended. When they reached the street level Hy had to buy that drink.

Phocian's elaborate chivalry, his courtly manners, his sentimentality were part of the most fascinating character that I have ever met. His voice was soft, his face was round and baby-pink and a thousand courteous little attentions were instinctive with him. He had known all the great rich gamblers of the last 35 years and his acquaintance ranged from Bar Harbor to the old Barbary Coast.

Phocian was not one of our typical cheap honest Johns of the underworld. His word to a friend was better than most government bonds and he died with a hundred dollars owing to him for every dollar he may have owed. He had manners, and honor.

Bicycle Title Race Listed Labor Day

Bieber Defends D. C. Mile Crown Against Good Field of 20.

After a two-year lapse, bicycle racing in the District will come very much to life on Labor Day morning, when the city's best racing cyclists speed up Pennsylvania avenue for the District mile amateur championship.

Nearly 20 will compete in the event, which will be the first of 11 bicycle and roller-skating races, beginning at 10:30 a. m. Labor Day, and immediately preceding the National Firemen's parade.

For the first time in three years, 21-year-old Ed Bieber, District champ, will risk his crown. He's held the title here for six years.

Principal rival in the race will be Anthony "Bits" Horner, diminutive flash, who has twice beaten Bieber in nontitle runs. Horner, like Champ Bieber, is 21, and they have both been racing for eight years.

Grove Tennis Play Opens Today

Welsh, Latona, Willis and Shore to See First Round Action.

FOUR seeded players will grace the Washington Grove tennis tournament, which gets under way this morning at 10 o'clock. The players, Barney Welsh, Anthony Latona, Rickey Willis and Frank Shore, are seeded in that order. Gene Hermann, one of the District's outstanding racquet wielders, has not been seeded.

First round matches will be played at 10 a. m., 1, 2 and 3 p. m. today. Only one match is scheduled for Sunday. To reach the courts, motorists are advised to traverse the Frederick road to a point about 4 miles the other side of Rockville, where signs will direct them to the scene of the tournament. Any players scheduled to play today who can not play when due will please notify Sam Walker at Gaithersburg 190.

10 a. m.—Sam Walker vs. Don Garber, Billy Boule vs. Spencer Hall, Bill Foote vs. Paul Farmer, Bob Smith vs. Mason De Land.

1 p. m.—Kent Boyle vs. Charles Dreschler, Hamilton Coe vs. Gene Hermann.

2 p. m.—Tommy Tompkins vs. Bill Siedel, William E. Allen vs. A. Norris, Dean Davis vs. N. Norris, Ralph McKivenny vs. Elwood Hoffechecker.

3 p. m.—Steve Galeno vs. Rickey Willis, Frank Shore vs. Thomas Perry, Jack Lynam vs. Osborne Sappington, John Neale vs. Wilbur Langtry.

Anthony Laton drew a bye.

Walt Mason, Himself

The Glad Voice.

DOES Sunny Jim still sing his hymn of sweetness and of light, or is he sunk, with human junk, in all the gloom of night? The times were bad for this gay lad, as they have been for us; he lost his shack, which cost much jack, the sheriff took his bus. His bank blew up and sorrow's cup for him was filled with gall; he had to hock the eight-day clock, the portraits in the hall. He had to sell his pump and well to buy some pork and beans; he saw his stocks go on the rocks, he knows what trouble means. Does he rejoice with cheerful voice as in the days of yore, or does he go around to show the spots where he is sore? Does he complain of stress and strain, and eke of sturm and drang, and does he groan of ills he's known, and spring a sad harangue? The Sunny Jims, on buoyant limbs, went round before the slump, and when they heard a doleful word, the speaker was a chump. They bade us grin if on the chin we got a drastic blow; they bade us heed their cheerful rede, "There's no such thing as woe. Just smile and sing and fate will bring what ever you desire; just sing and smile a little while, and see your griefs expire." Oh, Sunny James, we miss your games, you don't seem busy now, with your glad face, your smile in place, and your unfurrowed brow.

New Yorker Today

By Mark Barron.

New York.—The hobo set isn't the only profession that clusters in "jungles," of which there are any number on Manhattan.

Perhaps the best known is Union Square, where the Communists assemble. Unemployed, more interested in getting a bowl of soup than discussing governmental theories, prefer Bryant Park, where they are lulled to sleep by the roar of the elevated trains.

Actors temporarily at liberty loaf on "Panic Island," a huge safety zone in Times square. Musicians waiting for bookings linger on the curb of West Forty-eighth street despite the fact that they constantly are being shooed on their way by vigilant cops.

Bookmakers and race track betors do their business on the steps of a schoolhouse on West Forty-sixth street. On upper Seventh avenue there is a regular curb market of movie salesmen seeking to peddle their "quickie" films to suburban cinema managers.

The panhandlers have their "jungle" over on a vacant lot on the Hudson River waterfront. They salvage waste vegetables from nearby produce houses and a pot of mulligan stew is always on the fire. In the same neighborhood there is a colony of blind beggars. If you cross Eighth avenue shortly after midnight, you will see them coming down the street in a bunch, each holding on to the other, and all guided by a short, fat fellow. He is the only one in the crowd who can see.

The Same Bunch.

One slice of Manhattan life that rarely changes is the first-night crowd. Besides the dramatic critics, Broadway opening nights lure just about the same group of famous faces year in and year out.

A check-up shows that the following have been seen at most every first night for the past seven years: Lillian Gish, Otto H. Kahn, Julia Hoyt, Vivienne Segal, Peggy Hopkins Joyce, Lee Shubert, Arthur Richman, Edna Ferber, Guthrie McClintic, Thyra Sampter Winslow Hope Hampton, Jules Brulatour Theresa Helburn, Martin Herman, Brock Pemberton, Martin Beck and Owen Davis.

Also, Katharine Alexander, Dr. Nathaniel Lief, Vivian Hart, Anita Loos, Dorothy Parker, Dr. Leo Michel, Tommie Guinan, Kiviette, George Gershwin, Katharine Brush, Kate Lawson, Dave Chasen, Russel Crouse, Dwight Wiman and Queenie Smith.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Straightening the Teeth.

THIS column receives many letters from persons who have had unsatisfactory experiences in having their children's teeth straightened. Some object to the cost of the treatment and ask for places where they can have the work done free. When told that having the teeth straightened is done usually for the purpose of improving appearances, and, therefore, it is a luxury and not a necessity; and whereas there is some logic in a community supplying out of public funds the necessities of life for those who otherwise would suffer, there is no reason for their supplying luxuries. Following such answers come other letters asking where the teeth can be straightened at small expense.

Others complain of the pain and discomfort, or the unsightly appearance of the apparatus, or of the length of time required for treatment. But all of these combined are relatively few as compared with the number who complain that the work had to be redone. Acting on the advice of competent mon they had had the teeth straightened in childhood. When completed it was satisfactory. A few years later it was found that the alignment was again at fault. The work done in childhood had to be repeated during the period of adolescence.

Those who advocate straightening the teeth early stress the importance of the teeth as an urge for the development of the jaws. They say if the teeth are pushed and pulled into line and held there and this is done early, say soon after the fifth year, the jaws tend to develop larger and in better shape. If the work is delayed beyond the twelfth year this urge to development of the jaws is lost, in part, at least. Those who advocate beginning the work at about age 13 say that when the work is done in childhood it must be redone in adolescence. The treatment must be kept up over a period of several years if this is to be avoided. If done at a later period the likelihood of relapse is less. The operator can form a better judment as to when the teeth should be placed. Enough time yet remains to get such development of the jaws as the teeth can supply.

Both sides are right. There are advantages and disadvantages in both plans of procedure.

Burning Feet.

Mrs. J. H. writes: What causes itching and burning of one's feet, and what can one do to get relief?

Reply.

Use one of the foot powders. Bathe the feet daily and then apply the powder freely to the feet and inside the shoes.

Do you wear shoes that fit?

News of Washington's Churches

Head of Trinity College To Preach at Cathedral.

Labor Sunday, recognized tomorrow in hundreds of Christian churches, will be observed at Washington Cathedral with a special service in the great choir at 4 p. m. The sermon will be by the Rev. Dr. Remsen B. Ogilby, president of Trinity College, in Hartford, Conn., who will discuss the labor problem in the light of the teachings of Jesus Christ. He will emphasize the splendid spirit exemplified by the workmen who built the recently dedicated chapel at Trinity College. Dr. Ogilby is a brother of C. F. R. Ogilby, Washington attorney, who is a member of the Great Council of the Cathedral.

The sermon at the celebration of the Holy Communion at 10:30 a. m. will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. G. Freeland Peter, canon and chancellor of the cathedral. There will be the usual celebration of the Holy Communion in the Bethlehem Chapel at 7:30 a. m.

On Labor Day the great choir and the crypt chapels will be open, as usual, and the curator's office from 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., and hospitality will be extended to out-of-town visitors in Washington over the holiday.

Vaughn Class to Study Bible Story of David.

In the absence of Freeman Stricklin, president of the Vaughn Class of Calvary Baptist Church, G. E. Harris, past president, and Frank Mitchell, past vice president, will take charge. A special lesson on David will be given by the regular teacher, Linn C. Drake.

The class is making special plans for a home-coming day September 17.

Dr. Stockdale to Preach At First Congregational.

Dr. Allen A. Stockdale, pastor of the First Congregational Church at Tenth and G streets northwest, will be in his pulpit tomorrow morning. His sermon subject will be "Walking with God." The evening services held Sundays at 8 o'clock, will be resumed September 10.

The midweek service will be held Thursday evening at 7:45 o'clock in the east parlor. Miss Nell M. Berghout, director of religious education, will lead the meeting and her subject will be "The Bible in Life."

Dr. Evans Will Preach On "Challenge of the Task."

Tomorrow morning at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church Dr. Albert Evans, associate minister, will preach on "The Challenge of the Task."

In the evening the usual vesper hour will be observed, with Dr. Evans delivering a short meditation.

Baptist Bible School Registration September 15.

The Baptist Bible School was organized by the Columbia Association of Baptist Churches three years ago. The school offers 19 courses of study and training for Christian service. These courses are: Biblical introduction, Old Testament exposition, Hebrew Old Testament, New Testament exposition, Greek New Testament, Biblical theology, religious philosophy, Christian history, Christian missions, Christian evangelism, religious education, church administration, public speaking, Christian home, Christian sociology, Sunday school administration, B. Y. P. U. administration, Christian citizenship.

The faculty is composed of 17 of the leading pastors and laymen of Washington. The school will award a certificate of credit to any one who completes any subject in any course, and will award a certificate of graduation to any person who completes all the subjects in any course and presents a satisfactory thesis on some related subject to the course. And it offers a diploma to any person who completes ten of the courses, majoring in one.

The special registration day is September 15.

Dr. Forney Hutchinson Returns to His Pulpit.

After an absence of several Sundays Dr. Forney Hutchinson will preach at Mount Vernon Place M. E. Church, South, tomorrow morning and evening. The morning text will be "The Immortality of Toil." That for the evening service, "A Man's Best Friend." The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be held at both services.

At 7:30 R. Deane Shure will give a half-hour organ recital. Special music will be given by Mrs. LaVergne Sims Fairchild, soprano, and Arthur M. Tabbutt, basso.

The vested choir of 60 voices, under the leadership of R. Deane Shure, director of music, will participate in the service next Sunday. Upon Mr. Shure's return from a Caribbean Sea trip, with 12 other members of the church, he received an invitation to give a recital of his own compositions in Jerusalem next August. He accepted and, with Mrs. Shure, will sail for Palestine next summer.

Dr. Forcey Continuing Evangelistic Services.

The evangelistic services being conducted by Dr. Clark Forcey, WOL radio preacher, in the Vermont Avenue Christian Church will continue next week each evening, except Saturday, at 8 o'clock.

At the 3 o'clock service tomorrow Dr. Forcey will speak on the theme, "Men Fit for the Battle." The Sunday evening service is a popular rally, with hundreds attending. The evening theme will be, "A Surprise Verdict."

Rev. G. Chobot to Preach At Sixth Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Godfrey Chobot, pastor of the Sixth Presbyterian Church, has returned from Spring Lake, N. J., and will occupy his pulpit at the 11 o'clock service tomorrow.

Communion Tomorrow at St. Andrew's Church

At St. Andrew's Episcopal Church tomorrow there will be Holy Communion at 8 a. m. and 11 a. m. The rector, the Rev. A. J. Wilder, will officiate at both services.

Christian Science.

"Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The Golden Text is from Micah 6:8: "He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?"

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "God is my strength and power: and he maketh my way perfect. He maketh my feet like hinds' feet: and setteth me upon my high places." (II Sam. 22: 33-34.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Text Book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The relations of God and man, divine Principle and idea, are indestructible in Science; and Science knows no lapse from nor return to harmony, but holds the divine order or spiritual law, in which God and all that He creates are perfect and eternal, to have remained unchanged in its eternal history" (page 470).

David Made King by God

Chosen to Lead Israel Because He Was Faithful, True and Sound, Whereas Saul Had Been Found Sinful, and So Was Rejected.

"David."
Golden Text: I Sam. 16:7.
By Wyman Walker.

Time: 1079 B. C. (?).
Place: Bethlehem.
Scripture, I Sam. 16:4-13.

Biblical history shows us the true nature of man, in times of confusion, strife and ungodliness, in rebellion against God, in which man is seeking worldly gain through selfishness, thinking he can exist without God—man's own efforts without God shall always fail. "God in His mysterious ways His miracles to perform," in the many leaders God gave Israel to bring them back into the ways of righteousness. We find these men to be humble, following after the ways of Godliness.

During the last of the judges we see Israel clamoring for a king, so God gave them their first king, Saul. But in Saul's disobedience to God's command, he was rejected and his kingdom given to another. When evil influences become the ruling factor in the universe, God wields His mighty hand and forces evil into abasement.

Saul and his kingdom were rejected by God through disobedience of God's command, and after Samuel had told Saul that God had rejected him and his kingdom, Samuel went to his house in Ramah and mourned in sorrow for Saul, but God reprimanded Samuel and told him what to do. So we observe that no godly man should become distressed over human failure, as if God's plans had failed, but man should remember that God's work does not depend upon one man. God had simply made room for the king of His own choice. God gives man plenty of time to prove himself and his own efforts a failure, and out of such God established His own chosen king.

Samuel was commanded to go to Bethlehem and anoint one of Jesus' sons—one chosen of God. "The Lord is our defense and the Holy One of Israel is our king." (Ps. 89: 18). Samuel was afraid of Saul and wondered how he could anoint another while Saul yet sat upon the throne and God showed Samuel what a small matter that was. If we will but leave our difficulties up to God He will always provide a way. "Men do not see as God seeth." See Ephesians 1:15-21: "Cast your burdens upon the Lord" —for Jesus tells us in St. John's Gospel 6:37: "Him that cometh to me I will in nowise cast out."

When God raised up David to be Israel's king He knew that His chosen material was faithful, true and sound, because God looks not upon the outward appearance of man, but upon the heart. However, in David we observe that God had established a two-fold purpose —since Israel was kingly minded, their kings had to be of the kingly characteristics. "Now he was ruddy, and withal of a beautiful countenance, and goodly to look to, and the Lord said, Arise, anoint him; for this is he."

And so Samuel anointed David, God's chosen king of Israel. We also may observe how differently these two kings were anointed: Saul (of the Tribe of Benjamin, and in Jacob's blessings to the house of Israel. Gen. 49: 27 "Benjamin shall ravin as a wolf; in the morning he shall devour the prey, and at night he shall divide the spoil)" was anointed with oil from a vial which symbolizes weakness and crumbles. In Saul's lust and carnal mindedness, after the things of the flesh, he and his kingdom were rejected, and he was looked upon as a man of sin. (See I Cor. 2:14).

David was an Ephrathite, born in Bethlehem where our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ was born. He was a shepherd boy, looking after the sheep of his flock. (Thou hast been faithful over few things, I will make you ruler over many things.")

Read the blessings of Ephraim (Gen. 48:11-22; 49:22-26) through his father, Joseph, and we see the environment of David, who was anointed with oil of a horn, which signifies strength and power. God did not choose an angel, nor a perfect man, but a "man after His own heart." David had his weaknesses and fell into deep and grievous sin, but later on, he made full confession of his shortcomings and wrongdoings and was forgiven, as every one will be who will follow his example.

"Confess your faults one to another, and pray one for another that ye may be healed. The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much." (James 5:16.)

Should our testimony be as David's to do the will of God, then we, too, shall be greatly blessed. Turn your eyes back toward God and our Lord Jesus, and forsake all unrighteousness.

100th Birthday Of New York Sun

New York, Sept. 1 (AP).—The Sun, founded on September 3, 1833, as the first penny paper in New York, will observe its centennial with the publication tomorrow of a supplement to its regular edition chronicling the changes in the city's life during the last 100 years.

The first issue was a small 4-page paper, whose publisher, editor, reporter, compositor, pressman and mailing clerk was 23-year-old Benjamin H. Day.

His Sun was the outcome of the enthusiasm his friend, Dave Ramsey, had for such a penny paper, which would deal with the activities of people rather than with weighty political matters which filled the 6-penny papers of the day; and also an outcome of the challenge presented by A. S. Abell, in a statement scoffing the idea.

After the demonstration of the soundness of the idea, however, Abell went to Baltimore and founded a Sun there.

Baltimore Sun Official Returns From Europe

New York, Sept. 1 (AP).—Frank B. Kent, vice president of the Baltimore Sun, who has been in Czechoslovakia shooting partridge with Bernard M. Baruch, Admiral Cary T. Grayson and Senator Carter Glass, returned today on the liner Aquitania.

Kent said he did not have a chance to observe conditions in Europe sufficiently for comment. He said the other members of the shooting party probably would return about the middle of the month.

Chancellor's Wife Under Knife.

Vienna, Sept. 1 (AP).—Frau Alwine Dollfuss, wife of the Austrian chancellor, underwent an operation for appendicitis here today. Her condition was reported favorable.

Firemen to Put Blooms on Two Famous Tombs

George Washington and Unknown Soldier to Be Honored Today.

A group of firemen today will place wreaths on the tombs of George Washington and the Unknown Soldier.

Honoring Washington as the first volunteer fireman, when he was a member of the old Friendship Company in Alexandria, the firefighters first will go to his tomb.

Virginia volunteer firemen will join in the ceremonies.

From Mount Vernon they will go to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, marshal of the National Firemen's Labor Day parade, urges volunteer firemen in nearby Virginia and Maryland to meet at the District Building at 10:30 o'clock this morning to participate in the services.

The placing of the wreaths will officially start the activities of the Labor Day parade. Sunday morning Warren Dues, selected as the greatest living fire hero, will arrive. He will stay at the Hamilton Hotel.

Sunday afternoon, the firefighters will hold memorial services at the Sylvan Theater. Dues will be presented with a gold medal for his bravery in saving the lives of six children in Flint, Mich.

The National Firemen's Association will hold its convention Sunday night at the National Press Club. Officers will be elected.

Sunday night Dues will be guest of honor in the President's box at Loew's Fox Theater. The activities will continue with the midnight show at the Gayety Theater.

Monday morning the bicycle and roller-skating sweepstakes on Pennsylvania avenue will start the day, with the parade half an hour later.

Seven Hours From Home—He's Identified

This young man's limited speech had police baffled when it came to finding his parents yesterday. From 4 to 11 p. m. officials of the District Receiving Home plied him with questions. Then Mrs. John Anderson, 248 Third street northwest, called at First Precinct Station. She identified him as her son, Herbert Anderson, aged 5. Charles W. Hodge, jr., of 3050 Monroe street northeast, found Herbert wandering on Pennsylvania avenue near Eleventh street northwest.

Dogs Have Big Day; Six Persons Bitten

The dogs had their day yesterday.

Police reported six persons bitten. They were Georges Landes, 8, 1428 Trinidad avenue northeast; Effie Savoy, colored, 25, 716 Half street southwest; Olean Bowie, 6, colored, 432 First street southwest; William Lanham, 4, 1135 Ives place southeast; Mary Lerer, 8, 232 Twelfth street northeast, and Morris Henderson, 18, colored, 1718 Fourth street northwest.

None was seriously bitten.

Miss Van Horn, Missing, Returns to Home Dazed

Miss Margaret Van Horn, 18, object of a police search since disappearing from her home at 2900 Connecticut avenue Wednesday, returned home yesterday. She was too tired and dazed to tell where she had been, her mother said.

Miss Van Horn was believed to have left her home while stricken with grief over the death of her sister, Mrs. Jane McMenamin.

Bakers' Books Sought in Quiz

Corporation Counsel's Aid Informed Pay in Shops Is Higher Here.

Employes in Washington bakeries are paid higher wages than in many other cities, Robert E. Lynch, assistant corporation counsel, investigating bread prices, learned yesterday.

In studying production costs, Lynch has asked L. A. Spiess, baking concern official, to determine if the bakeries will make their books available to him.

Although Spiess said he had not yet presented the request, he said he was sure the concerns would cooperate fully with the investigation and that it would show no excess profits from bread.

Spiess told the corporation counsel that bakery wages, because of unionization, were much more than paid in other cities.

Lynch spend most of the day studying cost figures at the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

120 Days, $40 in Fines, Penalties in Traffic Case

Two 60-day sentences and fines of $40 greeted Jerry Miles, colored, yesterday when haled before the traffic court to face eight traffic law violations.

He got the 60-day sentences for speeding twice, and the fines for six minor violations. He was arrested at Seventh and Q streets northwest when a motorcycle policeman became interested in his performance.

2 Found in Homes With Gas Flowing

Both Victims of Alleged Suicide Attempts Not Fatally Affected.

Two purported suicide attempts were reported to police yesterday.

Harold Hampton, 21, of 1108 Twenty-fifth street northwest, was found unconscious in his room with the gas jet open. He was said to be despondent over the loss of his position with a dairy.

He was given first aid by the Fire Rescue Squad and taken to Emergency Hospital. His condition is not serious.

Mrs. Helen P. Wagner, 38, of 810 L street northeast, was found unconscious in the basement of her home, her head resting on the open burners of a stove. Her husband, Henry C. Wagner, summoned a physician and the Fire Rescue Squad. She was given first-aid and remained at home.

Oxygen Saves Worker Gasoline Fumes Felled

Oxygen was required to revive Stanley Ferguson, 28, of 745 Fourth street northwest, after he was overcome by gasoline fumes while working on a building at Fourteenth street and Ohio avenue northwest yesterday.

The fumes came from several barrels near where Ferguson was working. He was unconscious when the Fire Rescue Squad arrived. Given oxygen, he was revived and taken to Emergency Hospital.

Washington Navy Yard Takes on 169 New Men

The Washington Navy Yard has taken on 169 new employes as a result of the new public works naval building program. The 169 workers represent draftsmen, junior engineers, machinists and others in the metal trades.

It is expected that the employment curve will rise slowly, with the Yard swinging into full production in about three months. Others will be hired as the need arises.

Bag Lion

Police Nab Circus Man on Traffic Charge and Find "World's Biggest."

Police at the Second Precinct yesterday broke all station records. They arrested the "biggest lion in the world."

The lion was King, property of Jesse Milliken, of the Milliken Brothers circus. Milliken left the National City Fair Grounds with King on a truck, to visit his mother.

He left the truck parked in front of her home, 1121 Tenth street northwest, and later went to the station, charged with parking a truck in front of a residence. Not caring to move King from his cage to a cell, police left him on the machine.

The lion was the center of neighborhood attention until Milliken adjusted matters and drove away.

UnionHead Decries Labor Cuts by U. S.

Says Government Should Give Own Employes Benefit of NRA.

Extension of the principle of the national recovery act by the Government to its own employes would obviate the necessity of a buying campaign in Washington, Clyde M. Mills, president of the Columbia Typographical Union, declared last night.

Due to loss of work and furloughs, he said, the buying power of Government Printing Office employes has been greatly reduced.

While indorsing the spirit of the campaign, he complained that the "buyers will buy when they have money to do so."

$800 In Clothing Stolen.

More than $800 worth of clothing was stolen from a store at 925 H street northeast, it was reported to police yesterday by Samuel B. Gaffin, proprietor. The thieves entered the building through a transom.

Patient Breaks Ankle in Leap

Man Taken at White House Eludes Court Guards, Drops 15 Feet.

Eluding his guards, William James Reese, 29, patient at Gallinger Hospital, where he is undergoing mental observation, leaped from a window in the District Supreme Court Building yesterday and suffered a broken ankle in a 15-foot fall to the sidewalk.

Hobbling on his other leg, Reese made a vain attempt to flee. He ran into the arms of J. J. Clarkson, assistant chief deputy United States marshal, who took him to the building's first-aid station. An ambulance took Reese back to Gallinger.

Dr. D. Percy Hickling, District alienist, said Reese was arrested at the White House after he had made five calls there. Examination, he said, led him to believe Reese was suffering from a mental ailment. Reese is described as being eccentric in religious matters, and he has the belief, Dr. Hickling said, that he has electricity in his feet, that he has unbounded courage and that he could make the stars fall from the heavens.

During the height of the chase, another patient strolled from the detention room. A hurried search for him was started and he was found on the courthouse lawn, where, he declared, he had gone to "get a breath of air."

Shake-Up in Bureau Denied by Acheson

Acting Secretary of the Treasury Acheson yesterday denied the published reports that a shake-up of the entire administrative personnel of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing had been ordered.

The reports said that Alvin W. Hall, director of the Bureau; Charles R. Long and James E. Swigart, assistant directors, had been ordered to take annual leave and prepare to turn over their offices to new appointees. Mr. Acheson emphasized that these positions are under civil service and that the new administration has no intention of any such shake-up as reported.

15 Men Seized In Gaming Raid Before Throng

Police of Second Precinct Launch New Drive Spectacularly.

A concentrated drive on gaming establishments and operators of the "numbers racket" in the Second Precinct was launched yesterday, when a special raiding squad descended on 1014 Fourteenth street northwest, confiscated alleged gambling equipment and arrested 15 persons.

Coincident with opening of the racing season at Marlboro, Md., the raid was one of the most spectacular staged in the downtown section in recent months. Led by Capt. J. W. Pierson, of the Second Precinct, the squad's appearance attracted a large crowd.

The raiders reported an elaborate gaming system was in operation when they entered. A loud speaker, with a line direct from the Marlboro race track, was one of the features, the squad declared.

Two men were charged with permitting gaming. They gave the names of George J. Frank, 29, and Louis J. Waldron, 41, both of 1321 K street northwest. They were released under $500 bonds. Thirteen others were held under bond as Government witnesses.

Gasoline Prices Here Are Boosted Half Cent

Gasoline prices in the District went up a half cent generally yesterday to keep pace with a boost put in effect at all Standard Oil stations here.

Officials at the Interior Department discredited reports that in increasing retail prices, oil companies were "beating the gun" on the oil code, pointing out that the code provisions are expected to boost prices as much as 2 cents a gallon.

Welfare Board Asks Successor for Peak

The Board of Public Welfare yesterday requested President Roosevelt's authorization to appoint a successor to Col. William L. Peak as superintendent of the District Jail.

Col. Peak took over his new duties as superintendent of Lorton Reformatory yesterday, succeeding A. C. Tawse, who resigned following the recent outbreak.

City's Sewage Experts Will Be Named Soon

A board of three sanitary experts to make recommendation as to the best way to dispose of the city's sewage and to keep the Potomac from being polluted will be set up as soon as possible, the District Commissioners announced yesterday.

Establishment of this board is made possible through the $1,759,500 grant from the Public Works Administration for District sewage needs.

Speiss to Be Tried On Assault Charge

Federal Dry Agent Will Answer Policeman's Story Sept. 20.

Karl O. Speiss, Federal prohibition agent, will be tried in Police Court September 20, on a charge of assault upon Traffic Policeman Edward G. Comingore. A second charge, violating a traffic sign at Twelfth and F streets northwest, will be heard on September 7.

Speiss was arrested by Comingore after he had allegedly violated a sign at the F street intersection. He protested the arrest so vehemently that he was taken into custody, and he then, the officer declared, raised the window of his sedan and pinioned Comingore's arm in it.

The policeman smashed the window with his blackjack and took the prohibition agent to the station house. Speiss is a former policeman.

Group Offers Prizes For Crime Solutions

Everyone is to have the opportunity of submitting a plan for combating crime in America in a contest now being conducted by the United States Flag Association. Prizes totaling $150 are being offered by the association for the best monograph of 500 words or less on "Crime Must Go."

Any law-abiding American is eligible to compete. All monographs must be addressed to the "Crime Must Go Contest," the United States Flag Association, Washington, D. C., and must be received not later than midnight Monday, September 18.

Florida Murder Suspect Jailed

Undisclosed Tip Leads to Arrest of Man in District Garage.

The "grapevine" whispered yesterday, and Aaron Thomas, colored, was held by police for Florida as a result.

A tip at headquarters said a colored man wanted for murder in Florida could be found at a District Street Cleaning Department garage near Fifteenth and K streets northwest. Detectves Elmer Lewis and Frank Alligood picked up Thomas.

A telegram from police at Titusville, Fla., asked that he be held. Florida authorities said a man named Thomas was wanted in connection with a shooting at Melbourne, in which a man was killed.

21 Former Lorton Prisoners Transferred

Twenty-one former Lorton prisoners, riot participants, were sent from Lewisburg, Pa., to Eustis, Va. prison, 60 miles below Richmond, yesterday.

Washington Girl, 4, Trains To Swim English Channel

Amelia R. Blaser Expects to Conquer Chesapeake Bay in Workout.

The youngest and most recent threat as a spectacular swimmer is Amelia Rose Blaser, 4, who is training to brave the English Channel.

On July 2 the child began to swim under direction of Lillian Cannon, conqueror of the channel, and now in addition to mastering five swimming strokes Amelia can do back, front and jack dives.

Amelia's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Blaser, 1343 Clifton street northwest, say she is inspired by a longing to see her grandparents in England.

Weighing only 35 pounds, the young channel threat learned to swim only two months ago, and since then has been passing several hours daily at the Ambassador swimming pool.

Amelia wants to swim Chesapeake Bay before trying the channel. The child's parents, adept swimmers, are encouraging her ambitions.

AMELIA ROSE BLASER, 4-year-old swimming enthusiast, hopes to swim the English Channel. She is training now.

Taxpayer Data Erroneous, Say District Heads

Reduction Had Been Asked in Sewer and Water Installations.

Figures presented by the Washington Taxpayers' Protective Association, indicating the District Government makes a profit on sewer and water main installation assessments, were termed misleading by District officials yesterday.

The taxpayers' group, in a letter signed by E. C. Baltz, chairman of the board of the association, presented a petition to the Commissioners, asking they recommend reduction in assessments to Congress.

Although the association figures came from the District Building, officials said the average cost data was not comparable to the assessment figure.

The petition read, in part:

"In 1926 the rate for installing a sewer was increased from $1 to $3 per front foot; this is paid by the property owners on both sides of the street, making the total charge by the District $6 per foot. At that time the average cost of laying these sewers, according to J. B. Gordon, sanitary engineer, was $4.21 per foot; the property owners paid $6, or $1.79 more than it cost the District.

"Today the average cost of laying the same sewer is $3.59 a foot, or 20 per cent less than it was in 1926, but the rate remains the same.

"The District government charges $2.41 more per foot than it costs it to lay the sewer. We feel it was unreasonable in 1926 to charge the property owners $1.79 a foot more than the sewer cost to install, and it is still more unfair to charge them $2.41 excess today.

"In 1926 it cost the District an average of $3.96 for each front foot of water main installed, for which abutting property owners paid $6. Today that cost has dropped to $3.12 a foot, for which the taxpayers still pay $6, or almost twice what it costs to install the service. Despite the fact the cost of installation has dropped 28 per cent, the charges are the same.

"We request the Commissioners recommend to Congress that both of these charges be substantially reduced. Since the water system service is self-sustaining, it has been the custom to charge the full cost of laying water mains to the property owner. Therefore, we believe the water charge should not be greater than it costs on the average to install this service, or about $1.60 a front foot."

Attack Suspect Is Caught After Brief Foot Race

Alleged Footpad Captured by Man Who Heard Woman Scream.

An alleged pootpad, who is said to have attacked a woman in the hallway of an apartment house, felled her with a blow on the head and snatched her pocketbook, was captured yesterday after a chase through the building.

Miss Katherine Dunn told police she was ascending a stairway to her apartment at 735 New Jersey avenue northwest, when attacked and knocked down by a man who grabbed her purse.

Her screams attracted Joseph Crono, of 103 H street, who was entering the lobby. He pursued Miss Dunn's assailent up the stairway and cornered him on an upper floor.

Police took the prisoner to the First Precinct Station. Miss Dunn's empty purse was found on a stairway landing. While searching the man police said several bills, totaling $11, dropped from his shirt sleeve. Miss Dunn declared that was the amount in her pocketbook.

The prisoner, who said he was Harry L. Smith, 41, of 1511 Lawrence street northeast, was held for investigation.

Colored Barber Kills Wife, Self With Shotgun

A colored barber, armed with a shotgun, yesterday shot and killed his estranged wife, then turned the gun on himself.

John W. White, 45, and his wife, Sarah, were found dead in the former's barber shop at 112 H street northwest. The gun was lying on the floor near White. Relatives declared he summoned his wife for a "conference" earlier in the day.

Cooper Delays Hamilton Bank Merger Order

U. S. Savings Stockholder Blocks Court Hearing on Contracts.

Blocked by Col. Wade H. Cooper, majority stockholder of the United States Savings Bank, Hamilton National Bank officials yesterday were forced to postpone until Tuesday their efforts to obtain sanction of the District Supreme Court to contracts enabling the Hamilton to take over assets of eight banks now in the hands of conservators.

At an informal hearing in the chambers of justice, Jesse C. Adkins, W. Bissel Thomas, attorney for Col. Cooper, objected to Justice Adkins sitting in the case because, he said, the jurist had at one time held stock in a company that, in turn, held stock in the Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co. Justice Adkins immediately disqualified himself.

Letts Also Disqualified.

Justice F. Dickinson Letts was approached, but he disqualified himself because Attorney Thomas last year filed impeachment proceedings against him in the House of Representatives.

No other justices being available, it is planned to submit the contracts to Justice Jennings Bailey when he returns Tuesday.

The contracts which the eight banks have entered into with the Hamilton are "without sacrifice of the interests of depositors or creditors," the preamble stated.

The contracts provide that the Hamilton Bank shall purchase from the eight others certain "quick assets and bills receivable," as follows:

United States Savings Bank, Wilbur H. Zepp, conservator, $930,495.56; District National Bank, Joshua Evans, jr., conservator, $2,524,014.44; Washington Savings Bank, Robert A. Sisson, conservator, $196,388.48; Potomac Savings Bank, George W. Offutt, conservator, $1,058,167.40; Seventh Street Savings Bank, John D. Howard, conservator, $550,691.56; Woodridge-Langdon Savings & Commercial Bank, E. L. Norris, conservator, $167,609.14; Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., John Poole, conservator, $4,420,422.19, and Northeast Savings Bank, George F. Hoover, conservator, $516,181.02.

50 Per Cent Liquidation.

The purchase of quick assets of the closed banks will enable them immediately to pay their creditors 50 per cent of claims. The balances will be paid, it was understood, as rapidly as the remaining assets can be liquidated.

Provision was made for the transfer of accounts from the restricted banks to the Hamilton Bank. Attorneys who filed the contracts were George W. Smith, Roger J. Whiteford, Ross H. Snyder, Charles S. Shreve, John L. Fowler, James B. Flynn and the law firm of Tobriner, Graham, Brez & Tobriner.

Articles Being Drawn.

Articles of association for the proposed Hamilton Bank were in course of preparation yesterday. These constitute declaration that the new bank intends to organize and are preliminary to application for charter.

Treasury Department officials explained yesterday that numerous matters will have to await court approval of the contracts. These include sale of assets from each component bank to the Hamilton institution, issuance of pass books to depositors and opening of accounts.

The first certificate of stock in Hamilton National Bank, registered in the name of Dr. Charles G. Abbot, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution and a director of the new bank, was signed yesterday by President Edwin C. Graham and Wilmer J. Waller, vice president and cashier.
